Longhorns: Symbol Of West In Demand In East

MICHELLE

GLENMOORE (Chester Co.) — The only elements missing from the pastoral scene are tumbleweed, cactus, a rangy pony, and a 10-gallon hat.

A herd of 25 Longhorn cattle in Chester County are not only attracting attention from passersby but are illustrative of a changing paradigm in finding profit in agriculture, according to new Longhorn breeders Paul Corlett and Ann Perry.

They have partnered with the Ray Nestorick, Jr., family to own, breed, and raise a growing herd of Longhorns.

"They're a great tourist attraction. People come by and just watch them for a while," said Paul Corlett, Glenmoore.

A beef animal may not have value only in the meat, said Ann. Breeding and raising Longhorns, they say, is a switch from a more traditional cattle operation but is showing promising results.

Longhorn cattle, for example, are worth more as breeding, showing, or pattering animals than as finished beef. The price range of a single animal, for example, can range from $600 up to $50,000, the price of a young promising bull. Calves sell for $800-$1,500.

Beginnings

A friend from a Longhorn operation in Virginia persuaded Corlett to take an orphan heifer calf in the spring of 2000.

Corlett, who owns a small horse farm, "never had any cattle in my life" but ended up raising the heifer and taking her back to the ranch's futurity. She brought home a fourth place finish and Corlett was hooked.

Manufacturers To 'Pull Out All The Stops' At Empire Farm Days Demos

SENECA FALLS, N.Y. — Knowing what technological options await farmers certainly goes a long way in keeping competitive.

That's one of the reasons to attend this year's Empire Farm Days (EFD), Aug. 7-9 at the Rodman Lott and Son Farm, Seneca Falls, N.Y.

Empire Farm Days gives farmers the unique opportunity to experience the latest in agricultural technology — all in one place — and all at one time. With more than 600 exhibitors, Empire Farm Days offers today's Northeast farmer more than 3,000 brand names to look over.

Field demonstrations are a major drawing card, according to event organizers, providing Northeast farmers the opportunity to see the latest in tillage, forage, and hay equipment operating right in the field during the show.

Included on the daily field demonstration schedule are corn/hay chopping at 10 a.m., hay mowing at 11 a.m., tillage at 1 p.m., and hay (raking, baling, handling, and processing) at 2 p.m. Demonstrations take place in the Field Demo Area between the north and south parking areas next to the Exhibit Area.

Farmers can talk with manufacturers and representatives. They can touch, see, and examine the actual products and equipment.

Action is the name of the show. (Turn to Page A26)

Ag Horizon Conference Educates The Educator

GRANTVILLE (Dauphin Co.) — Farmers and ag-related businesses rely upon extension, ag teachers, and economists for advice in running a successful operation. But how do educators become knowledgeable about the many facets of farming?

To keep up with trends, educators attend the annual Ag Horizons Conference. The educational conference was formed 13 years ago "to educate the educators," especially about the inner workings and benefits of ag cooperatives.

Daily National Grain Market Summary

St. Joseph, MO

July 31, 2001

Report Supplied By USDA

Wheat and corn bids made a slight comeback after Monday's declines while soybean bids did a complete about face. Board corrections, crop concerns, and some export optimism were firming factors. Wheat mixed, 2 cents higher to 6 cents lower. Corn 1 to 3 cents higher. Sorghum 4 cents higher. Soybeans 8 to 11 cents higher. Wheat bids were slightly higher after yesterday's weak trading. USDA reported winter wheat harvest at 86 percent complete down 3 percent from last year at this time. Spring wheat ratings fell 3 percent to 60 percent good to excellent. Most advances were due to technical corrections on the Boards and carryover strength from corn and bean pits. Corn and bean bids regained some of yesterday's losses, despite the mostly bearish progress report Monday. Some improvement was seen in crop ratings due to recent rainfall across the Corn Belt and central Plains. Corn was up 5 percent to 64 percent good to excellent. Crop progress was reported at or beyond 79 percent silking stage, just ahead of the 5 year average. 21 percent of the crop was in the dough stage, 9 percent ahead of the average. Some areas, however, remain stressed by hot, dry conditions.

Improved export interest over the past couple of days for soybeans and crop ratings were improved, also up 5 percent from last week. Soybean progress was set at 79 percent blooming and 38 percent setting pods compared to 84 and 48 percent respectively. Weather forecasts for continued hot temperatures was also supportive to bean bids as they are more susceptible to yield losses when stressed.

DOG DAYS END, AUG. 11

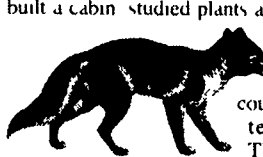

WILDERNESS WISDOM

August 9 is the anniversary of the 1854 publication of Walden by Henry David Thoreau, the account of his time living at Walden Pond in Concord, Massachusetts, between 1845 and 1847. There, Thoreau built a cabin, studied plants and animals, and attempted to "live deliberately to front only the essential facts of life, and see if I could not learn what it had to teach." At his retreat, Thoreau came to the conclusion that "if one advances confidently in the direction of his dreams, and endeavors to live the life which he has imagined, he will meet with a success unexpected in common hours."

[Thoreau] knew the country like a fox or a bird, and passed through it as freely by paths of his own.

—Ralph Waldo Emerson (1803-1882)

Oklahoma Feeder Cattle Weekly

Oklahoma City, OK

Report Supplied By USDA

Oklahoma National Stockyards - Weekly Cattle Summary Compared to last week: Feeder steers 2.00 lower. Feeder heifers steady to 2.00 lower. Steer and heifer calves steady. Demand light to moderate for all classes as several major feedlots have their fill and northern buyers not so plentiful. Quality of feeder cattle plain to average and in medium flesh conditions. Calf quality plain to average and overall well below last several weeks. Temperatures in constant low 100's with high heat indexes causing buyers to think long and hard about unweaned calves. Weigh-ups average to full. Parts of northern and central Oklahoma received 1-2 inches of rain Saturday. Rains were spotty and much of the state continues very dry with hay selling at premium prices if at all Receipts this week 10,650; last week 10,818; last year 7940. Supply consisted of 74 percent yearlings over 600 lbs; 21 percent calves and light yearlings under 600 lbs; 5 percent cows and bulls. Heifers comprised 29 percent of feeder and calf supply.

Demonstration Days Ahead

Two of the Northeast's largest outdoor ag events are on the slate in the following weeks.

The first one is Empire Farm Days, scheduled next week, Aug. 7-9, at the Rodman Lott and Son Farm, Seneca Falls, N.Y.

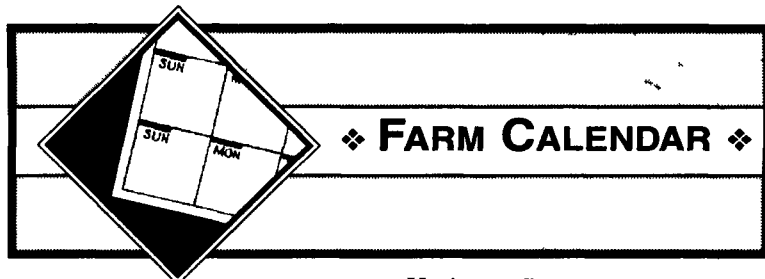

The other is Ag Progress Days, hosted by Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences Aug. 14-16 at the Russell E. Larson Agricultural Research Center at Rockspring, nine miles southwest of State College on Rt. 45.

For Empire Farm Days, special field demonstrations show how good that new equipment is going to be in the field. And other daily events are detailed this issue.

At Ag Progress, special exhibits feature research and educational programs designed to protect the state's natural resources while enhancing agricultural profitability and human health. Displays will focus on converting agricultural wastes and by-products to energy; water issues for the farm, home, and community; growing small farms through niche markets; protecting and restoring wetlands; and preventing ag pollution through quality assurance programs.

Ag Progress also has lots of demonstrations. We hope to feature some of them in these pages.

Have fun at both events!

Saturday, August 4

Nutrient Management
Deadlines
And You:
An Open Letter
To Maryland Farmers

The Water Quality Improvement Act of 1998 mandated nutrient management for nearly all farms in Maryland, and the deadlines for acquiring such plans are fast approaching. The first set of deadlines requires development of a nutrient management plan by December 31 of this year, followed by implementation of that plan by December 31, 2002.

Maryland Cooperative Extension has been a consistent and valuable source of nutrient management advice for many years, with 30 county-based nutrient management adviser positions allotted for Maryland's 23 counties. These positions are appropriated through a contract arrangement with the Maryland Department of Agriculture (MDA). Extension makes every effort to keep all 30 positions filled at all times, although competitive salaries elsewhere make this a challenging task.

As the deadlines for developing and implementing nutrient management plans draw near, Extension nutrient management advisers are likely to encounter difficulties in meeting the educational needs of all who require assistance. But let me assure each and every one of you that the Maryland Cooperative Extension is committed to providing quality education in a timely fashion to as many producers as possible.

And, remember, the law stipulates that an operation would still be in compliance with the deadline requirements to obtain a nutrient management plan so

To Plan To Take Your Whole Family To Ag Progress Days

Ag Progress Days (APD) is coming up Aug. 14-16, and will be an event you don't want to miss. This year's theme is "From the Ground Up: Building a Better Environment." APD will feature exhibits and programs for farmers and families of all types as well as the newest technology and equipment.

This year the College Exhibits Building will feature research and educational programs that improve agricultural profitability while protecting the environment. Displays will feature protecting and restoring wetlands for both wildlife habitat and as a buffer zone to protect water quality, converting agricultural waste to energy, developing niche markets to support small farm enterprises, farm quality assurance programs, and water issues

WHO'S CALLING?

Background Scripture:

Isaiah 6.

Devotional Reading:

Acts 26:12-20.

Why did Isaiah get a Technician, large-screen, wraparound sound vision, and all many of us ever get is a still, small voice or a nagging conscience?

That's a good question, isn't it? An Isaiah-type vision is hard to ignore (although not if you really try), but it's easy to ignore the still, small voice and rationalize the nagging conscience.

I don't have — nor anyone else I know — a full, complete answer. But I suspect that one factor is that God matches the nature of his call to the person whom he is calling and the specific task as well.

In the Bible we read many of the more dramatic calls which God makes — the burning bush experience of Moses (Ex. 3:2-4), Isaiah in the temple, and Jacob by the River Jabbok (Gen.32:22-30). But the Bible also tells us of the still, small voice that spoke to Elijah (1 Kings 19:12) and the tender night voice that disturbed Samuel's sleep (1 Sam. 3:9,10).

There are "burning bush" people and "still, small voice" people, but for both the farm and surrounding communities.

Other topics to be addressed at the College Exhibit Building and Theatre include foot-and-mouth disease and biosecurity challenges that will be discussed on Tuesday and Wednesday. A regional update on the West Nile Virus, including the spread of the disease as well as proactive preventive measures, will be offered Tuesday morning. On Wednesday at 6 p.m., a public forum on hot topics in agricultural sciences will be held where three Penn State experts will address questions from the audience.

For the first time this year, visitors to APD can drop off plastic containers used for hazardous pesticides for easy recycling. This program is being offered in conjunction with the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture. Also for the first time, visitors can learn tree climbing by safely climbing 40-foot-tall trees with ropes and harness, just like professionals.

As in the past, field machinery demonstrations will be conducted daily. These include mowing and chopping alfalfa, rakes and tedders, high moisture hay baling, and bale handling. A skid-steer rodeo will be conducted Wednesday and skid-steer safety demonstrations will be offered Tuesday and Thursday.

To Participate In A Research Tour At APD

A number of free tours are available featuring a variety of topics. The general research tour is available every day and gives an overview of research conducted in Penn State's departments of agronomy, entomology, horticulture, and plant pathology and the USDA Pasture Systems And Watershed Management Research Lab.

On Thursday a potato research tour will feature varieties, insect it is God who matches the form to the message and the person to whom the message is addressed.

Beg Your Pardon?

I have had a few calls from God that, although they weren't on the level of burning bush, certainly were several degrees more than the still, small voice.

But most of the calling that God does to me comes in the "Aha!" thought that springs to my mind, a nagging conscience and sometimes a subtle, muted voice that I eventually identify as that of my Creator. Sometimes, when someone says something to me, I have to reply, "I beg your pardon." But, even before they reply, the words spoken suddenly form in my mind, like a picture coming into focus. I presume all of us have this experience. So, often I think that God's voice is like that, too: at first we do not understand what has been said, but then, suddenly we see the message in its clarity.

There is another factor, too, and that is our receptivity. If we do not spend much time in prayer and meditation, if we rarely think about God, if our minds are cluttered with all kinds of cares and concerns, if our ears are tuned only to our own voices, then we may not hear and understand what God is trying to tell us.

In "The Lark," a play about Joan of Arc, the Dauphin, heir to the throne of France, wants to know why God's voice does not come to him, the heir apparent, instead of Joan, a lowly maid. Joan replies that God does come to the Dauphin, but the heir to the throne is not listening. Might that not be our problem, too?

We may not be receptive because, deep down in our hearts, we know that hearing God's call usually means repentance. That's and disease control, and innovative growth-enhancing technologies. A tour of high-tunnel vegetable production will be offered daily at 12:30 p.m. This will feature full-sized demonstration models. You will see how vegetables, small fruits, and cut flowers grown in clear plastic tunnels can be combined with other techniques to extend the state's growing season to almost 12 months. Other tours offered daily include farm composting, grazing, forest stewardship, wetlands and stream corridor management, and conservation.

To Participate In The Family Learning Hub At APD

The theme at the Family Room Building is "Character Counts for Kids," and here you will find a number of activities, exhibits, and demonstrations on family, health, safety, and nutrition issues.

There is a treasure hunt awaiting visitors here. Look for the kid's corner, where parents and children can relax together while doing art activities, reading stories, and with water play.

Food demonstrations will focus on "Healthy Food, Healthy Families."

The ImAGination Station features many unusual exhibits giving children an opportunity to have hands-on learning experiences. They will learn where chocolate comes from, how action and reaction can create motion with balloon races, and the importance of water conservation. The building is full of fun experiences, including experimentation, microscopes, computers, pictures, games, and much more.

Don't miss the opportunity for the whole family to experience Ag Progress Days.

Quote of the Week:

On speech-making: "Be sincere; be brief; be seated."

what happened to Isaiah. His first reaction to his vision was: "Woe is me! For I am lost; for I am a man of unclean lips, and I dwell in the midst of a people of unclean lips, for my eyes have seen the King, the Lord of hosts" (6:5). We are scared of repentance, but that is only because we do not realize that what lies beyond it is forgiveness. "Behold, this (burning coal) has touched your lips; your guilt is taken away and your sin forgiven" (6:7).

After Forgiveness

Forgiven, we are usually called to a task. When God calls us it may be for either a small task or a large transformation. If it is a life-changing call, we are less likely to acknowledge that we hear it.

Isaac's life was transformed in his temple experience because he was responsive to the voice of God. The Lord had a really tough job for him to perform and his life would never be the same if he accepted it. The message God gave him was grim: "Go, and say to this people: 'Hear and hear, but do not understand; see and see, but do not perceive.' Make the heart of this people fat, and their ears heavy, and shut their eyes; lest they see with their eyes, and hear with their ears, and understand with their hearts, and turn and be healed" (Is. 6:9,10).

Lately we have been getting so many calls of solicitation that we have gotten into the habit of listening to our answering machine and monitoring the call to determine if it is a call we want to take. I think that's what many of us do when God calls.

long as a good faith effort was made to attain the services of a certified nutrient management adviser. That good faith effort includes providing to MDA proof that certified nutrient management adviser services were requested at least 60 days prior to the first plan development deadline of December 31, 2001, and that circumstances beyond the operator's control prevented completion of the plan by that deadline. MDA is developing a form to serve as proof of request for a plan, to be signed by your certified nutrient management adviser. Currently, however, the law still requires implementation of the appropriate nutrient management plan by December 31, 2002, without a provision for delaying imple-

Many counties do have the capability to service the needs of their constituents within the given plan development timeframe. Some, however, are accumulating waiting lists due to such circumstances as an extraordinarily high demand, finite resources, or new hires that need time to be properly trained. The numbers of counties and the lengths of the waiting lists are likely to grow as more producers request assistance.

If you are a producer in a county with a waiting list for nutrient management plan development, simply sign up with your county extension office. If a certified nutrient management adviser will not be able to develop your plan by the deadline, he or she will make sure you are still in compliance with the law for obtaining a plan by following the necessary steps within the regulations, such as signing the proposed proof-of-request form.

Let me take this opportunity to remind you that there is also cost-share assistance available for the use of private sector certified nutrient management consultants in the development of your nutrient management plans. The cost-share is available through MDA's Maryland Agricultural Water Quality Cost-Share Program (MACS) and covers up to 87.5 percent of the development cost of the plan, depending on the type and size of the operation. For more information on this program, or for a list of certified nutrient management consultants, contact MDA at (410) 841-5959.

The bottom line is that Maryland Cooperative Extension personnel are committed to serving the needs of their communities and will make every effort to assist in your compliance with the law. We will continue to provide outstanding, individualized attention in as timely a fashion as possible for as many producers as possible, given our finite resources and contract arrangement with MDA.

Thank you for your patience and understanding, and for utilizing the resources of the Maryland Cooperative Extension. We look forward to assisting you.

Editor:

As dairy farmers, we often hear of the regional bickering over dairy compacts. We often hear blame cast on midwestern politicians for trying to block dairy compacts.

However, the enemies of dairy compacts are numerous and diverse. The rhetoric has heated up greatly in the past months. I believe we need to know who they are and what they are saying.

Americans for Tax Reform call it a milk tax, saying that Congress has given waiver to compact states to overcharge consumers for a gallon of milk. (By the way, the average price of a gallon of whole milk in Boston averaged $.06 lower than the national average in 1999.) They claim that retail milk prices have inevitably escalated 20-30 cents per gallon. (The actual cost has been $.08 for class I. The rest of the retail cost has resulted from passed on percentage margin plus increased margins.)

And Natural Resources

They claim that the South wants to form a compact if for no other reason than to protect themselves from a glut of milk pouring out of the Northeast Interstate Dairy Compact area. This is simply ludicrous. They have notified every member of Congress that a vote for compacts will be considered a vote against taxpayers.

Citizens against Government Waste blame the compact for surplus that cost the taxpayer $500 million last year in government purchases. Obviously, they did not investigate where these purchases were made or the impact of imports in creating oversupply.

Human Events and The Washington Times carried an article that called dairy compacts "Lactose Leninism." This article blamed the compact for overproduction, which splashed in the face of midwestern farmers. (From 1997-2000, U.S. milk production increased more than seven percent, the increase in the compact states was 2.9 percent.) The article called for GOP to remove the dairy compacts from their big tent. It also warned that abandoning the GOP position will result in Republicans getting "their oxen gored."

A common theme is that the poor won't be able to buy milk for their children. They never say that three percent of the compact premium goes to the WIC program and one percent goes to the School Lunch Program. Nor have I read any of the opposition admitting that the current "market price" is higher than the compact price, thus the current premium is zero. None have mentioned the danger that market concentration poses as evidenced by Jewel and Dominicks milk pricing scandal in Chicago last summer, that fixed retail prices nearly a dollar higher than other cities in the region.

One of the most disturbing themes in all the articles that I have read is the weaving of exact figures presented in Ken Bailey's Missouri Study on Compact. This is seen as the model study by the opposition of compacts and the economic theories are carelessly applied as facts to describe what has resulted from the Northeast Interstate Dairy Compact and why it must be eliminated.

Although dairy compacts may not be the best answer to dairy's problem, the lies and distortions leveled against it must not go unchallenged.

Weekly Dairy Market Outlook

Ken Bailey
Penn State

Commercial Demand Mixed

- Butter use down.
- Cheese consumption weaker.
- The U.S. economy slows in the second quarter to 0.7 percent.

The USDA released consumption numbers today that suggest that demand for dairy products is slowing. During the months of January-April 2001, consumption of butter fell 5.7 percent and consumption of American and other cheese grew just 1.6 percent and 2.1 percent, respectively, on an annual basis.

Nonfat dry milk consumption grew an astonishing 39.2 percent during the months of January-April 2001. This was likely due to the fact that domestic prices for nonfat dry milk were closer to strong global powder prices. Fluid milk products grew just 0.1 percent from a year ago.

Butter consumption likely fell in response to higher retail prices. For example, The Bureau of Labor Statistics reported that retail butter prices in major cities in April was $3.01 per pound, up 30.8 percent from a year ago. Butter consumption is very sensitive to changes in retail prices. There are also reports that ice cream prices are higher because of the high cost of butterfat.

It is less clear what drove cheese consumption from levels of 2-7 percent growth last year to now lower growth rates. It was probably due to a combination of higher wholesale and retail cheese prices and a slowing U.S. economy. The Bureau of Labor Statistics reported the retail prices for natural cheese in major cities was $3.97 per pound in June 2001, up 5.6 percent from a year ago. Wholesale cheese prices in June, however, rose 38.8 percent.

The U.S. Department of Commerce reported yesterday that the U.S. economy grew at an annual rate of just 0.7 percent in the second quarter of this year. This growth rate, called the Gross Domestic Product (GDP), grew 1.3 percent in the first quarter. It represents a major slowdown in the U.S. economy relative to a year ago. The question is, what impact will this have on consumption of dairy products?

The dairy futures markets for Class III and IV at the Chicago Mercantile Exchange still looks very strong for the rest of the year. For example, the Class III price in December is up to $13.25 per CWT. About three weeks ago, the December Class III futures was just over $12.

Clearly the market is concerned that milk production will still be tight by year end. One caution, however — cow numbers and production per cow are rebounding. The next milk production report may provide greater guidance.

ENB has changed over the years - our main lobby, for example - but we will never change our dedication to the principles that have helped us and our customers achieve sound, steady growth

Is your business big enough?

Bigger isn't always better, in farming or in any other business. But there are times when it makes sense to enlarge, remodel or update.

If you need several million dollars for your farm expansion, The Ephrata National Bank is probably not your bank. And that is fine with us. Our ag lending policies have always been geared to the small to medium sized operator. In over 100 years of serving consumers, farmers and other businesses in our communities, we have found that well-planned, sensible growth is always better than growth for the sake of growth.

Many of your neighbors have come to appreciate our approach to ag lending. Just ask them about us. They're easy to find. They tend to smile a lot.

A Dry Cow Booster That Costs 7¢ a Day

Hoffmans Horse and Cattle Powder is an ideal tonic for cows over freshening. Feed 6 wks. before freshening, 1 Tablespoon a day. (Two weeks over freshening, feed 1 Tablespoon in the morning & 1 Tablespoon in evening)

Cows will clean better after freshening. Cows have a lower somatic cell count and will have less mastitis problems. Great for reproduction tract and cows will cycle better after freshening. Will help rumen function over freshening. Less feet problems and less stress.

This is an over-all good booster if fed to dry cows, and it will pay you big dividends conducted at Grantville on Tuesday utilized the knowledge of experts (both production and business) to assist participants in understanding the rapidly changing world of agriculture and the influence consumers are commanding.

It's Worth The Drive Ask For Dr. Lee O'Neill

Ag Horizon Conference

World trade has certainly not been the salvation that farmers had hoped would enable them to sell surpluses and command reasonable prices. Instead of markets opening for U.S. farmers, the nation has been bombarded with products from third world countries that see the U.S. as their highest potential market. Many foreigners purchased U.S. companies to establish a place in the U.S. market.

Although the U.S. has the world's safest food supply and maintains efficient production, the U.S.' strong currency and the declining dollar value of other countries hurts international trade.

Terry Barr, chief economist and vice president of agriculture and trade policy, said that the tremendous amount of mergers within the food industry will continue to affect the ag community.

Nationwide chains do not want to deal with a bunch of suppliers. They want only one supplier nationwide — discounts — and delivery on their own terms.

Although some farmer cooperatives have banded together to meet this need, another problem looms. If the cooperative is supplying only one large customer and is dropped, the farmer is out of business.

Consumers have become more finicky, too. Consumer acceptance of biotech foods will not go smoothly, as evidenced by the outcry concerning the Star Link corn that allegedly appeared in tacos.

"Escalating technology depends on consumer acceptance," Barr said.

Farmers must establish a market before producing, Barr said. "Contracts are a nasty word to farmers, but required."

Easy advice to give, but how does the farmer put it into practice?

Joan Petzen, Cornell Cooperative Extension, said that ag educators must work to move agriculture forward.

Unlike some forecasters, Petzen believes the small farm sector is important and will continue to succeed with the right thrust. She presented several examples of small farms that she has personally assisted in finding solutions to the tough competitiveness of today's market.

One New York farmer raises lambs for a large settlement of the Arab community. All slaughter of lambs are conducted on the farm, and the farmer is so busy he cannot keep up with the demand. However, his operation has not been without problems. New York renderers fees are escalating and they refuse to accept brains, spinal cords, and any offalls from sheep or goats. Because the on-farm slaughtering facilities require a safe and effective method for disposal, Petzen researched on-farm composting of large animals and the operation has successfully implemented it.

Petzen gave examples of farmers who successfully tackled environmental issues and adapted their operations to meet the changing demands of agriculture. Some of these included a dairy operation that implemented grazing methods by allowing the herd to remain dry during two months during the coldest part of a New York winter. Another farm switched to raising calves and returning them to owners at 22 months of age. That operation trucks the heifers to Carolina to benefit from year-round grazing that produces taller-than-average heifers, but not fatter.

Community supported agriculture is another operation being implemented.

Petzen alerted educators that small farmers must be assisted in different ways than large operators. She warned educators to be sensitive to the needs of the small farmer and to be careful of using buzz words that smack of big business and scare small farmers.

Small farmers are experienced, tough, tested, and survivors, Petzen said. To continue, small farmers need ag educators who help them identify needs early and address issues for successful solutions.

A panel composed of farmers and industry leaders helped the audience see the changing methods that allow future opportunities for farming. Sharing their perspectives were Mark Bricker, satellite farmer; Larry Shrawder, custom farmer; Charlie Gardner, Agway heifer raising program; and Andy Young, farm specialization.

Bricker, who farms 2,800 acres and operates six satellite farms in Franklin County, shared how his family built a strong pork enterprise. Bricker stressed the importance of employee relationships and how they utilize their input to facilitate the farm operation.

Shrawder explained his perspective on operating a 500-acre farm in Lehigh County and custom-combining 10,000 acres of corn annually.

He patented a device that retrieves corn cobs that he sells to other industries and from which he garners more income than from the combining operation. Shrawder explained how custom work saves farmers money and how he trades off jobs with several neighboring farmers to help lower machinery and labor costs. Shrawder calls his concept "virtual farming," which allows farmers to get larger and more efficient without the cost of more acreage or too much overhead from equipment.

Gardner thoroughly explained Agway's program of taking calves from birth through 21 months of age when they are returned to the original farm. He explained the costs, biosecurity measures, and challenges of raising healthy heifers to implement back into the herd.

Young told how three generations of family operate a 500-

Most of the calves are born in the spring and fall, depending on the climate. The cattle can be found nationwide, according to Corlett.

Corlett's move into the business included talking Ray Nestorick Jr., an Angus producer, into joining the venture. Nestorick operates a 60-head Angus cow/calf herd.

After a trip to a Longhorn sale, Nestorick and Corlett took a "shopping trip" a few weeks later to purchase six bred cows. The partners now have 25 animals and are looking to expand.

Breed Characteristics

"An interest is gradually developing in using the cattle in the beef market — which is difficult because there are only approximately 250,000 registered Longhorns in the whole country," said Corlett.

This interest is in crossbreeding as cattle breeders are finding that adding Longhorn blood can produce low birthweight calves, increased heartiness, and resistance to disease and illness.

"You just come out in the morning and find new calves," said Corlett.

"They're bred to be able to drop a calf and keep moving," said Ann.

Breeders are looking for the classic representation of a Longhorn, said Corlett. Cattle that are long, rangy, tough, and built to travel are characteristics which allowed the breed to survive long cattle drives and be marketable at the end of the trip.

"They are products of natural selection in tough conditions out West, where they would travel for miles for food and water," Corlett said.

Hot summer days in Pennsylvania go unnoticed by the animals, which do not congregate under the trees even during the heat of the day.

Besides their durability, the cattle can "live on air. They're great browsers. They'll eat what other cattle will bypass," he said.

In a crossbreeding program, "the horn is the most fragile gene," said Corlett. Since the calves can be naturally polled the breed's blood becomes more acceptable in the beef business.

The animals are also docile — and smart. "They're smarter than most cattle," said Nestorick, who relates that the herd can distinguish the sound of his truck before it appears... and are waiting by the trough by the time he gets to the barn.

The lower fat and lower cholesterol levels of Longhorn meat are selling points which Nestorick hopes to pursue once the herd has expanded over the next several years. He points to the success of a large operation in Michigan with a mail-order Longhorn beef business. "We have several people interested in selling the meat," he said.

The animals are solid red to almost solid white, black, and white. Additionally some animals are almost solid black or even brindle. The color, according to Corlett, is unpredictable and difficult to breed for. The horns, which grow to various lengths and shapes, are unique to each animal.

Today's Longhorns are bred to produce "a lot of horn," according to Corlett. Buyers are looking for horns with a 60-inch spread from tip to tip, a number that has increased because of se-cow dairy in Lancaster County. Young stressed the importance of having the right people in the right jobs with the right skills and supplies to successfully farm and be happy and satisfied. Team mentality and written procedures are required to operate a sustainable family farm, Young said.

Dr. Lou Moore, Penn State economist, presented a list of farm business myths that he has heard during his five decades in educational agriculture.

These myths included the belief that all middlemen are crooks, that the government should get out of agriculture, that we are a country of vegetarians, that organic is the answer to marketing and farming income, that we are running out of crop acreage, that all production contracts are bad, that there is no competition in the slaughter business, that the European Union would buy more from the U.S. if we did not use hormones and biotechnology.

Moore refuted these and other myths with facts that show otherwise.

Brad Hilty, Penn State Dairy Alliance, shared 10 keys to built a profitable business.

Change isn't a new concept, Hilty pointed out, but it is a necessity to survive. The gap between the large and small farms are becoming more pronounced, with large farmers reaping premiums and smaller farms absorbing more overhead expenses.

Controlling costs and maxim-

izing production are necessary. Ironically, cutting costs is not the solution. Hilty explained that a survey of farmers showed that the bottom 25 percent (of profitable farms) were cost cutters.

"They think they can't afford to feed $6 corn, but that results in less production. They make decisions out of fear rather than fact," Hilty said.

Opportunities for smaller farms are specialization, utilizing grazing systems, and providing specialty products.

It's an era of specialization — do what you enjoy and do it well, but don't be a jack-of-all-trades, Hilty said of the changes agriculture demands.

lective breeding. Longhorn "trophy" steers will grow the longest horns.

"It's not uncommon for a steer to have a 70-80-inch spread," said Corlett. "They're real crowd pleasers standing in the pasture."

Since each animal's horns grow out a little differently, certain shapes have become more in demand. The "Texas twist," where the horns grow out and bend backward for a slight twirl, is the most popular and most expensive.

A set of horns may bring $300-$400, while a skull and horns bring $400-$500. They are especially popular for the decorators seeking the old-style Western look in their homes or businesses. Additionally artists may buy the bones to paint on. The colorful hides, according to Corlett, are also in demand, "especially out West where the Western motif is popular."

Marketing

The marketing options of the cattle were what attracted Nestorick to try the breed. "They can be ornamental, fancy breeding stock, show cattle, or crossed with Angus for beef production," he said. "Then if all else fails you can feed and eat them," said Nestorick.

"I heard about the outlets such as the ropers, horns, bones, and breeding stock" said Nestorick.

As agile and long-lasting animals, Longhorns are also used as recreational stock for the roping and cutting events conducted around the country. Also, as a symbol of the Old West, the animals are in demand for display or simply tradition or nostalgia.

The market the partners are aiming for is breeding stock, since at a sale buyers will pay more for breeding stock than the intrinsic value on the hoof.

The partners have plans to expand the existing field on the 15 acres of rented property and attend sales to add different bloodlines to the herd.

Breed History

History and tradition are critical to Longhorn breeders. "History is the fun part about this," said Corlett, who has read extensively about the breed. "The thing that interested me most of all about the breed is the history."

A herd brand is used to identify the cattle, which must be branded to be registered. Today most operations brand with an electrically-heated tool or freeze brand the animal.

"It used to be that every time they changed ownership they changed the brand, but that's not the case anymore," said Corlett. "However you don't get out of a sale without the brand inspector checking the title and the animal's brand, and they had better match."

Sales, say the partners, are social events which draw Longhorn operators from many states. "Nobody ever goes with an empty trailer and comes home with an empty trailer," said Corlett. "Nobody can resist mixing bloodlines."

The hotbeds of Longhorn breeding and sales are Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas, Colorado, Louisiana, and New Mexico.

According to information from the Texas Longhorn Breeders Association of America (TLBAA), in 1690 the first herd of 200 herd was driven north from Mexico to an area which would later be Texas.

For the next 300 years, millions of Texas Longhorns roamed the area, most unbranded survivors of Indian raids or scattered survivors of missions or ranch failures.

In 1690 the first herd of Longhorns was driven north from Mexico. The animals, considered to be the only breed of cattle literally adapted to America, roamed wild the Texas area for the next 300 years.

Later their numbers reached 10 million animals that were moved northward to the mid-western grasslands by the famous cattle drives or shipped East.

By the turn of the century, however, lowered demand, coupled with fenced-in land, plows, and imported English breeds meant near extinction for the breed.

In 1927 Congress appropriated money and appointed two forest service rangers to put together the first herd for a wildlife refuge in Oklahoma.

Other private breeders began to produce private stock and the Longhorn has contributed its hardy genetics to other beef breeds.

Refined by America's countryside, the breed, suited to face life on the range, is considered to be the only breed of cattle that is literally adapted to America.

Again this year Empire Farm Days is host to the NYS Future Farmers of America and NY 4-H Tractor Operators Contest. About 100 young students from across New York will compete Thursday, Aug. 9 in a statewide contest. EFD will also be host to other FFA competitions.

This three-day show is

Show Site

Plans for the 2001 Empire Farm Days are complete. The 68th annual show will be at the Rodman Lott and Son Farms in Seneca Falls, N.Y. The 300-plus acre site will soon become host for more than 600 exhibitors and 75,000 farmers from all over the U.S. and Canada.

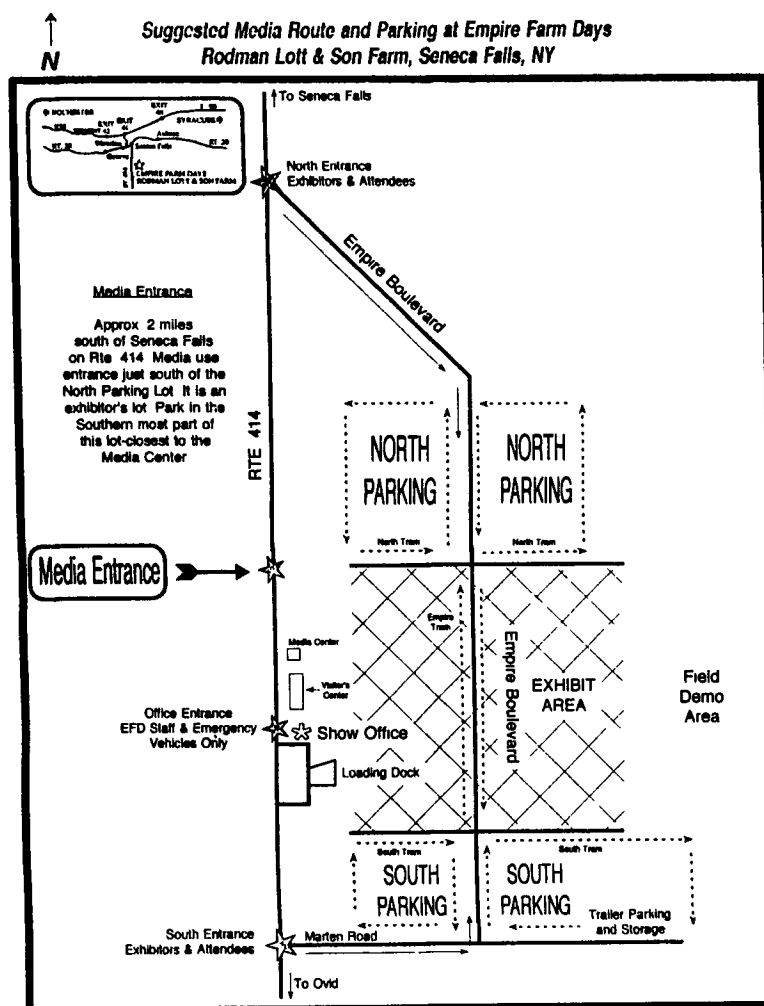

The local community and host farm family play a vital role in the success of the show. Thanks to the enthusiastic cooperation and coordination of local community leaders in the Seneca Falls area, the 2001 Empire farm Days should prove to be one of the best ever.

Directions: The site is one of the easiest to find. It is located just south of the village on Rt. 414. Visitors traveling the NYS Thruway should use either Exit 42-Geneva or Exit 41-Waterloo and Seneca Falls. Once off the NYS Thruway, follow the signs put up by the Seneca County Sheriff's Department to the Empire Farm Days site.

Getting through the village, visitors will be assisted by the Seneca Falls Village Police Department. Once at the site, the NYS Police Department and Seneca County Sheriff's Department handle the thousands of cars looking to get in, get parked, and get started seeing the show.

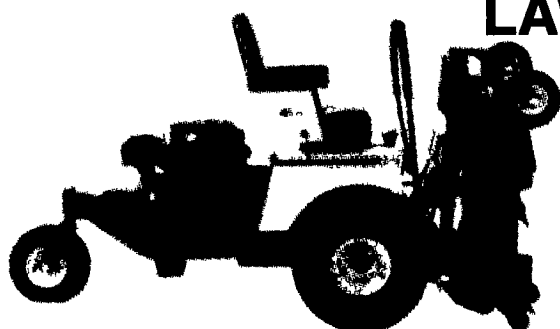

Seneca County
Seneca County continues to be an area filled with beauty and economic opportunities. Agriculture is by far the most important economic sector in the county, contributing a value production in excess of $35 million. It reflects the diversity of Northeast agriculture with the production of milk, field crops, fruits, vegetables, grapes, horses, poultry, eggs, and meat animals. The Finger Lakes area hold a mystery all its own with its scenic lakes, state parks, historic sites, wine trails, restaurants, and a hospitality as warm as its summer days. Visitors are invited to plan their vacation around Empire Farm Days and spend some time enjoying the area. For more information, contact Seneca County Chamber of Commerce at (315) 568-2906.

Hosting 75,000
The Rodman Lott & Son Farms will host more than 75,000 farmers at their family farm — no small feat for a family that farms more than 4,300 acres. But for the 14th year they will host the Empire State Potato Growers' Empire Farm Days.
In 2001, more than 600 exhibitors will participate in Empire Farm Days, representing more than 3,000 companies. Empire Farm Days provides farmers with a chance to see the latest advances in Northeast agriculture in a relaxing atmosphere.

One of the biggest assets Seneca County and the Northeast agricultural community has is the Lott family and its business. Ralph Lott, his wife Shirley, and their children Nicole, Rodman, and Benjamin are the owners and operators of the Rodman Lott and Son Farms. Continuing with the tradition started by his parents, Ralph and Shirley became sole operators upon Rodman's "retirement" a few years ago. However, both Rodman and his wife Ellen are still active and involved in the farm operation.

The family history of farming began when Rodman and Ellen Lott set up a crop operation in Pennsylvania from 1954-1968. In 1960 they also operated a 400-acre soybean operation in Delaware. In 1968 they moved to the panhandle of Florida and raised peanuts, beef cattle, and pigs. Twelve years later the Lotts found themselves settled in Seneca Falls.

Rodman and Ellen have four grown children; Ralph, Ginny, Mark and Lisie.

EFD Rich In History

As far back as 1931 there has been an agricultural show sponsored by the Empire State Potato Growers, Inc., which was hosted by New York State farmers and was committed to bringing to farmers in the Northeast the newest techniques and equipment available to agriculture.

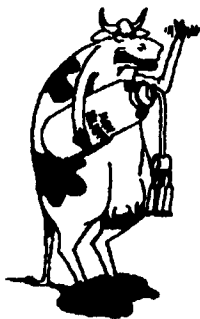

Since then, this annual event has undergone many changes, including name, location and size, but its sponsor and purpose have remained constant. It brings the farmer and agribusiness communities together, all in one place, all at one time, at a high quality agricultural trade show.

The event originated as Potato Field Days in 1931. In 1964, the show was called the Potato Field Day and Farm Materials Exhibition and was hosted by Humphreys Farm, Hartford; 1965 co-hosts McCormick Farms and William Gozelski, Gainesville; and 1966 co-hosts Russell Mathews and Monroe County Department of Parks, Mendon.

In 1967 the show had grown to such a magnitude that another name change was required to reflect the scope of the event. Empire Farm Days was born. Since then, the following farms have hosted the annual event: 1967 Lucian Hills; 1968 co-hosts Smith, Coulter, Lincoln Knolls and Harold Rice, Canastota; 1969 Selden Farm, Greigsville; 1970 King Brothers, Layfayette; 1971 John P. Halpin and Sons, Avon; 1972-73 NYS College of

So does your neighbors and even the universities can't milk cows without a lot of mastitis!

A recent study proved that the best 30 cows in a Cornell University herd had a total of 24 confirmed cases of mastitis caused by a conventional milking system.

A Cornell University study published in the Journal of Dairy Science also proved that a conventional milking system causes up to 15 times more cases of mastitis than the CoPulsation™ Milking System.

Events

• Field demos. Demonstrations take place daily on the east side of the exhibit site. Keeping farmers ahead of the game and abreast of the rapidly changing technology of farm equipment continues to be a goal of Empire Farm Days. Field demonstrations are a major drawing card providing Northeast Farmers the opportunity to see the latest in tillage, forage, and hay equipment operating right in the field during the show.

• Fliers welcome! The New York Flying Farmers nonprofit group of pilots provides an essential service to Empire Farm Days visitors with a continuous shuttle back and forth to the Finger Lakes Regional Airport. Flying farmers can land at the airport, adjacent to the show site, and be at the show within minutes, thanks to this dedicated group.

• Local group provides info on area. Visitors can stop by the Seneca County Tourism booth in the Northeast Main Tent to get information on the area attractions.

• U.S. Post Office busy at show. The U.S. Post Office booth is in the Southwest Main Tent. A special hand cancelled stamp will be offered as well as many other services.

• Antique tractor display. Enthusiasts from all the Northeast bring their treasures to Empire Farm Days to put together a wonderful display of antique tractors at the show.

There is also a parade throughout the show site daily.

• Agricultural centers offer innovation and information. Agricultural agencies come together at Empire Farm Days to showcase their programs, systems, information, and innovation to Northeast farmers.

• Ag leaders to meet at EFD. Every year American Agriculturalist hosts a luncheon for the leaders in New York agriculture at this Empire State Council of Agricultural Organization luncheon. This is also the time when the Environmental Stewardship Award is given out and the Empire State Potato Growers Inc. Scholarship Award.

• ESPG Scholarship winner recognized. The Empire State Potato Growers Inc. will recognize its first-ever scholarship winner at the CAO luncheon on Wednesday of the show.

• N.Y. FFA. Each year New York FFA Members participate in several career development events, which help them to develop their potential for career success. This year the tractor operators' contest, welding contest, and environmental/natural resources CDE will take place at the Empire Farm Days in Geneva, N.Y. on Thursday, Aug. 9. The tractor operators contest is a statewide event. The contest will consist of four parts, a written test, a tractor inspection, a two-wheeled trailer event, and a four-wheeled trailer event. Registration is from 8 a.m. until 10 a.m. with the activities starting at 9 a.m. The welding event will also take place on Thursday. Registration will be at 8 a.m. For more information, contact John Kriese at (315) 536-4408.

The Chocolate Milk Mustache Mobile Program is partnering with Empire Farm Days to educate consumers about the many benefits of calcium and drinking milk. Some of the highlights include:

• New interactive health assessments will provide adults the opportunity to compute their calcium quotient. Those who qualify will be offered a free bone density test. Kids will have fun learning about the benefits of milk through interaction games and trivia.

• Participants will have the opportunity to sample milk smoothies and cast their vote for their favorite.

• The opportunity to enter a chocolate, strawberry, white milk mustache photo contest for the chance to appear in Inside Stuff magazine.

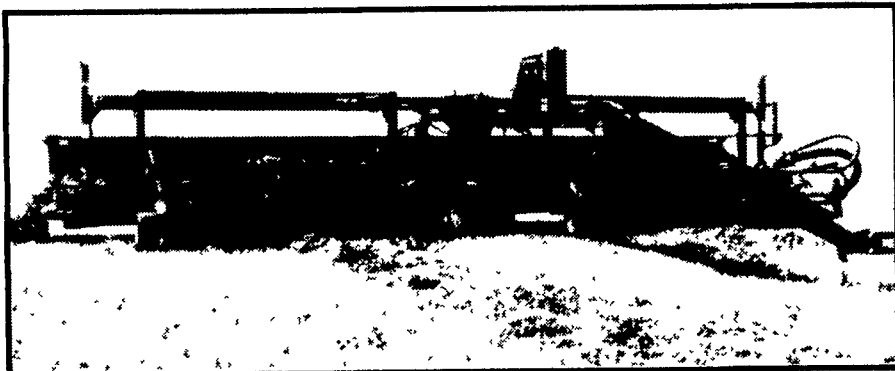

• Free giveaways, including instant polaroids of consumers wearing the famous milk mustache, T-shirts, and other got milk? prizes Registered dietitians and sports trainers on site (Turn to Page A29)

Other highlights:
• Dairy Profit Seminars. Northeast DairyBusiness magazine continues its successful tradition of hosting Dairy Profit

Seminars at Empire Farm Days. The region's only dairy publication enlists producers and industry specialists to participate in the daily programs conducted in Seneca Falls, N.Y.

The 2001 Dairy Profit Seminars focus on three critical dairy management areas: creature comforts, making facilities fit for cows, get calves off to a healthy start, and the high-tech road to cow care.

Seminars begin at 10:30 a.m. at the Rodman Lott and Son Farms and conclude at 12:30 p.m. with a free lunch for attendees.

On Tuesday, Aug. 7, a panel of producers includes Phil Kulp, Martinsburg, Pa; Bill and Gretchen Taylor, Syracuse, N.Y.; and Tad Young, Owasco, N.Y. They are scheduled to talk about how their dairies implemented tunnel ventilation, sand bedding, rubber mats, and other features to improve cow comfort and productivity.

The panel, moderated by Cornell University animal scientist Dave Galton, will explore the pro's, con's, costs, and returns of different facility improvements. The panel discussion also looks at recent research that compares the effects of stall and alley surfaces on sole hemorrhages, hock lesions, and lameness.

On Wednesday, Aug. 8, a panel of calf managers and researchers discuss accelerated calf management. Mike VanAmburgh, a Cornell University animal scientist, and Sam Leadley, a replacement consultant with Attica Veterinary Associates, Attica, N.Y., lay the groundwork for the panel. They'll talk about the science behind accelerated management and the importance of the first few weeks of calves' lives to their future health and productivity. Both VanAmburgh and Leadley have conducted extensive research on alternative feeding programs.

Calf managers will then bring the science into the real world. Rob Welz, calf manager for Lawnhurst Dairy, Stanley, NY, and Tim Beard, assistant calf manager for Noblehurst Dairy, Pavilion, NY, reveal their on-farm experiences with accelerated management. They'll look at nuts and bolts of implementation and the costs and returns of accelerated management.

On Thursday, Aug. 9, a panel moderated by Joel Pankowski, CPG Nutrients, delves into the hype and reality of technology. Producers face a torrent of technological developments that claim to make cow monitoring and care easier and more efficient. Producers on the panel will talk about what really works. Steve Hershey, Manheim, Pa., uses a Pocket Dairy on his Palm Pilot to get a quick report on individual cow's health and breeding status. Hershey also serves as a consultant for Lancaster DHIA and the PCDART program.

Pete Knigge, Omro, Wis., installed the first commercial robotic milking system on his 95-cow dairy. He'll have a year's worth of experience with the technology to talk about at the Dairy Profit Seminar. Corwin Holtz, dairy manager and consultant for Dairy Development International Inc., has been on the ground floor of assessing technology for the new dairy built in Homer, N.Y. Holtz will also bring to the table his years of experience in working with

- Suspended from the barn rafters by free swinging chains to avoid cow entanglement.
- Free swinging feature eliminates injury to cows and also any damage to the stalls.
- Decreases the occurrence of cow bruises enhancing milk production capabilities.
- Powder coated with 20 year rust thru guarantee.

- Fully adjustable neck rail.
- Fully adjustable brisket rail.
- Available up to a 4 bed cluster.
- Patented.

Cluster Free Stalls are easily installed in new or remodeled barns. The free stalls "hanging" from barn rafters provide many advantages to help keep cows safe and healthy. By using suspended free stalls, cows are less likely to obtain bruises. Thus all their energy can be concentrated towards increased milk production. The design of the stall allows it to swing up, down or back out of the way of the cow. Because they swing freely, the stalls can withstand the force of animal contact. And because they are powder coated, they require little maintenance.

other producers across the country.

Dr. Mike Stack, a Syracuse-based veterinarian, uses ultrasound in his work with dairy herds. He'll talk about the advantages and shortcomings of this technology used to monitor reproductive status.

Other Highlights

In New York State, based on Agricultural Health Nurse investigations, an average of 26 farm deaths and 185 serious farm injuries are reported each year. This calculates to a death rate that is 16-fold higher than that experienced nationally in automobile manufacturing. Like national findings, the primary agents for these farm deaths and injuries were use of tractors and/or agricultural machinery.

Mechanical safety, including tractor and PTO safety, will be the focus of NYCAMH presentations in the Agricultural Health and Safety Tent at Empire Farm Days. Training is aimed at reduction of tractor and machinery related injuries. For more information, contact NYCAMH at (800) 343-7527.

The New York Beef Industry Council coordinates the Beef Industry Tent located across from the NYBPA Beef BBQ. Live cattle will be on display from the Simmental, Angus, and Hereford associations. The New York Beef Producers, Limousin, Red Angus, and Short-horn associations will provide literature to Farm Days' attendees.

The New York Beef Industry Council (NYBIC) will highlight the beef industry's continuing dedication to nutrition and convenience at this year's Empire Farm Days. Targeting producers and consumers alike, the NYBIC will use the opportunity to demonstrate how checkoff dollars are increasing demand.

USDA Center

See the new plantings and programs offered inside this center and in demonstration plots located on West Seneca Acres/ West Pencil Pusher Ave. and in the field demo area.

USDA Cover Crop Exhibit: A new method for establishing cover crops in corn is being demonstrated. A corn hybrid resistant to herbicides that cover crops can tolerate was used. This plot is located on the north end of the show site.

Cover crops have long been used with row crops to reduce soil erosion and its associated water quality problems, add organic matter and nitrogen, improve soil tilth, and suppress weeds. The cover crops were established at the time of planting. A corn hybrid resistant to herbicides that cover crops can tolerate was used at Empire Farm Days. The IMI-tolerant or Clearfield corn hybrids are available from many seed companies. The cover crops used were red clover, white clover, alfalfa, and annual ryegrass.

The herbicides slow the growth of the cover crops preventing their competition with the corn. The cover crops utilize the fresh seedbed prepared for the corn and take advantage of the cool moist conditions in the spring for establishment. When the corn is taken off in the fall, the cover crops grow until mid November providing excellent cover over the winter for erosion control and early growth in the spring for added nutrients and organic matter. The demonstration is located on north of the North Parking lot on the Empire Farm Days site. A person will be available at the site for guided demonstrations at 10:30 a.m. and 2:30 p.m. A brochure will be available at the USDA tent for more information and self-guided tours. For additional information and technical assistance for establishing cover crops on your farm, contact Paul Salom at the USDA NRCS Big Flats Plant Materials Center, (607) 562-8404.

Although all of the agencies under the USDA tent share goals that ultimately aim to help rural New Yorkers improve their quality of life, the services they offer are as varied as the needs of their clients.

USDA and the NYS Soil and

adjacent to the USDA tent.

The garden, the brainchild of USDA Natural Resource Conservation Service's (NRCS) Plant Materials Center, is designed to be a semipermanent exhibit. Empire Farm Days visitors will be able to take a walkway through the 50 by 60 foot lot, view several varieties of grasses and other plants growing in planned garden plots, observe a water filtration demonstration; and pick up information about the grasses and conservation practices. NRCS representatives will be on-hand to answer any questions visitors may have.

The seeds for the grasses and wildflowers were supplied by the Plant Materials Center in Big Flats, N.Y., in Chemung County. Formed in 1936 under the Soil Conservation and Domestic Allotment Act, the plant materials program assembles, tests, and releases plant materials for conservation use. The program also determines techniques for successful use and management of conservation species, facilitates the commercial increase of conservation species, provides for the timely development and transfer of effective state-of-the-art applied plant science technology to solve conservation problems, and promotes the use of plant science technology.

To accomplish this purpose, NRCS maintains and operates a plant Material program as part of its ongoing coordinated conservation operations activities through a network of Plant Material Centers (PMC) and Plant Material Specialists (PMS). The program in New York serves states from Maine to West Virginia through its Big Flats Plant Material Center.

The New York Plant Materials team has released 18 plant varieties to commercial production. During the 1999 fiscal year alone, $1 million was generated through the sale of these conservation plants from commercial nurseries and seed companies. This revenue resulted in an additional $800,000 in the purchase of goods and services nationwide.

STRUCTURING YOUR FAMILY FARM AS A LIMITED LIABILITY COMPANY

When analyzing the future business and risk protection plan for your family farm, an important step is to review today's new forms of business organizations.

Pennsylvania has recently approved a new way to structure a business called a limited liability company (LLC). An LLC combines many of the best features of all types of business organizations while providing some protection from lawsuits and making it easier to form and operate than a corporation.

The source of the following information is the Agricultural Law Research and Education Center at Penn State's Dickinson School of Law.

A farm organized as an LLC is considered a separate legal entity, similar to a corporation, as it is liable for its own debt and can act as a legal person. One or more farmers may operate their business together under an LLC with the same protection from personal liability as shareholders in a corporation, yet it retains the advantages of a partnership. There is no double taxation; it is rather simple and inexpensive to create and use. The farmer and members of the farm LLC are only liable for the amount of investment, not personal liability.

To form an LLC in Pennsylvania, two documents are needed: a certificate of organization and an operating agreement. Your attorney will help ensure that both of these documents are properly drafted. To help make certain that the public is aware of your business form, it is required that the term "company," "limited," "limited liability company," or "LLC" is included on all documents listing your company name. An LLC can be made up of one or more members. A single individual can form an LLC, which is unique compared to some other states, which require more than one member.

There are many advantages to forming your farm as a LLC. One of the biggest benefits is protection against lawsuits, which are a constant risk for businesses. If an LLC is sued, only the assets of the LLC are subject to legal liability, the personal assets of the members who own the LLC cannot be reached.

The simplicity and flexibility of operating an LLC farm is another key advantage. An LLC can use either a cash or accrual method of accounting.

An LLC allows for the planning of different family situations and the flexibility for estate planning. This would allow for an equitable option to give children who are not involved in the farm a share in the farm business while still fairly compensating the children that are involved in the operation of the farm. The LLC operating agreement can specify a process for resolving family disputes, should one occur, which can help avoid a major disruption in the operation of the farm.

The protection an LLC offers during an economic downturn is greater than an operation that is organized as a sole proprietorship or partnership.

In the formation of an LLC, members may contribute farm assets such as animals, buildings, equipment, land, and their services in exchange for an ownership interest. A farmer may choose to exclude his farmhouse, farmland, and other nonfarm real estate. This would protect the farmer in a worse-case scenario where the LLC may have borrowed funds, because only the assets placed into an LLC would be taken to pay off creditors.

Some limitations that a farm LLC may encounter include personal liability for any LLC debt, which was personally guaranteed and for any personal acts or omissions. For example, a farmer who is an LLC member causes an accident with an LLC tractor on an LLC business may be personally sued along with the LLC for any damages caused by the accident. Another possible limitation with a farm LLC is that banks may not always loan an LLC money without personal guarantees of its members. If an LLC loan is personally guaranteed and the LLC does not pay back the loan, the guarantor is responsible for the loan.

The limited liability company entity may provide advantages for family farms by allowing it to operate its business with the same protection from personal liability as shareholders in a corporation, yet retain many of the advantages of a partnership. Operating any business presents many risks, which an LLC may help protect. It is highly recommended you seek the counsel of an agricultural law attorney along with your accountant and properly research all business entities before making a decision for your farm.

The information in this article was researched by Jeff Feirick, graduate research assistant with the Agricultural Law Research and Education Center of Penn State's Dickinson School of Law and College of Agricultural Sciences. The center provides many agricultural publications, educational programs, and cutting edge legal research. Nominations Sought For National Organic Standards Board

WASHINGTON, D.C. — USDA is requesting nominations to fill upcoming vacancies on the National Organic Standards Board (NOSB). Those appointed by the U.S. secretary of agriculture will serve five-year terms beginning January 2002.

The NOSB is a 15-member board that is responsible for developing and recommending to the secretary a proposed national list of approved and prohibited substances. The NOSB also advises the secretary on all other aspects of the National Organic Program.

Nominations are being sought for the positions of organic producer, organic handler, consumer/public interest, environmentalist, and scientist (in the fields of toxicology, ecology, or biochemistry). A nominee must be either an owner or operator of an organic production operation, an owner or operator of an organic handling operation, a person who represents public or consumer interest groups, an individual with expertise in areas of environmental protection and resource conservation, or someone with expertise in the fields of toxicology, ecology, or biochemistry.

Appointees will be selected on the basis of demonstrated experience and interest in organic production and handling, diverse commodity and geographic representation, support of consumer and public interest organizations, demonstrated experience with environmental matters, and factors related to the specific positions. USDA will follow equal opportunity practices in all appointments to the NOSB.

Written nominations, accompanied by resumes, must be postmarked on or before Oct. 11.

EMPIRE DAYS

Dairy Farmers Of America And Dairylea Cooperative To Attend Empire Farm Days

SYRACUSE, N.Y. — Dairy Farmers of America (DFA) Northeast Council and Dairylea Cooperative will be attending this year's 68th annual Empire Farm Days.

Hosting this event will be the Empire State Potato Growers, Inc., on Aug. 7-9 at the Rodman Lott & Son Farms in Seneca Falls, N.Y.

Approximately 75,000 farmers from all over the U.S. will gather on the 300-plus acre site that will accommodate about 600 exhibitors. Among these exhibitors will be representatives from DFA and Dairylea who will be on hand to answer all questions regarding membership and services.

Dairy Farmers of America Northeast Council, with offices based in Syracuse, N.Y., is a dairy marketing cooperative that markets milk for dairy farmer members in 45 states. DFA's dairy producer members market and process more than 44.7 billion pounds of milk annually, supplying fluid and manufacturing customers (and its own plants) with raw milk, dairy products, and food components.

Dairylea Cooperative Inc. is a Syracuse-based organization cooperatively owned by more than 2,700 dairy farmers located throughout the Northeast.

Grazing, Cheesemaking, Direct Marketing At Wil-Ar Farm

NEWVILLE (Cumberland Co.) — Join host Wilmer Newswanger, owner of Wil-Ar Farm, for a farm field day Thursday, Aug. 23, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Sponsors Pennsylvania Association for Sustainable Agriculture (PASA), Franklin County Graziers, and Pennsylvania Farm Link bring you this exciting opportunity to visit Wil-Ar Farm, a livestock and dairy operation that is working toward sustainability by managing animals in a healthy way and by making greater profits through direct marketing.

The farm is approximately 70 acres. Farm managers intensively graze 25 Jerseys, which are milked seasonally. They also graze turkeys, chickens, and sheep. The Newswangers outfitted their farm for on-farm processing, including processing milk into cheese.

This small-scale family farm is a model for farmers looking to build a local customer base and diversify farm businesses.

If you are interested in attending (and for more information), call Kate Francis at PASA at (814) 349-9856, ext. 2 to RSVP. Lunch will be available.

Wil-Ar Farm is in Newville, Cumberland County. Directions: Take exit 11 off Rt. 81. Take Rt. 233 north. Cross Rt. 11. After crossing Rt. 11, travel 1.5 miles to Parker Road (third road on the left). Wil-Ar Farm is the first farm on the left. Look for field day signs.

Fine Dairy Animals On Display At Lebanon Fair

DAVE LEFEVER
Lancaster Farming Staff

LEBANON (Lebanon Co.) — About 240 dairy animals were on display for the combined 4-H and FFA Holstein and open colored breed dairy shows here this Tuesday.

Bradley Hoover's 5-year-old Holstein Brook-Corner Newsmaker Myra made news indeed when she took grand champion Holstein, then went on to win supreme champion dairy animal at the show, earning the Dale Maulfair Jr. Memorial Trophy.

Hoover has been around Holsteins his whole life, on the farm of his parents Reid and Diane Hoover. A 4-H member, he has been showing dairy animals since he was about eight years old.

Hoover will be a senior at Annville-Cleona High School this fall.

Colored breed grand champions went to Dale Maulfair, Ayrshire; David Sattazahn, Brown Swiss; Joel Smith, Guernsey; and Andrew Dice, Jersey.

The Holstein show was judged by Dennis Patrick, while Paul Moyer made the calls for the colored breeds.

Why Be Sick And Tired?

America has more sick people than most countries, because they eat too much cooked food which lost all the enzymes and up to 80% of the nutrition. Most food you buy contains harmful toxins because they use weed killers, insecticides and many harmful chemicals in growing it, and then more chemicals in processing to increase shelf life. But there is a solution to the problem.

Be Healthy And Energetic?

May doctors and people are now using a new and safer way to remove toxins and poisons from the body, clean out the arteries and develop a strong immune system so it can fight off diseases with amazing results, without any drugs. This program supplies the immune system with killer cells, memory and suppressor cells activity and training, which is like manpower and equipment to any army. It provides the immune system with all natural, organically grown fruit, grain and vegetables which is like good food and ammunition to an army.

Over 40 million dollars were spent in research, and over 3000 sheets of scientific documented studies by doctors supports many positive clinical experiences, and backs up the patented process in providing proven products. The cost is considerable less than drugs, chelation, radiation, chemotherapy and operations. It does NOT interfere with medication. There are now viruses that can not be stopped with antibiotics, but these all natural products are producing excellent results with supervision from doctors.

Over 3000 Doctors Have Already Switched

They have switched from drugs to alternative medicine in order to help people recover from cancer, heart attacks, arthritis diabetes, lupus, fibromyalgia, allergies, fatigue and many other health problems without any side effects. We make no health claims. We work with doctors in giving the body all natural food grade products it needs to heal itself. There is also a Prevention Program to help you from getting sick. "An ounce of prevention costs far less, and is so much better than a pound of cure" (doctor and hospital bills). Which would you prefer, $149 a year to help prevent a heart attack, or a $50,000 by pass operation? The choice is yours. Let us try to help you prevent health problems.

Goshen Fair Selects Dairy Champions

ANDY ANDREWS
Editor

GOSHEN (Chester Co.) — Goshen Fair conducted its dairy show here several days this week. Tuesday evening featured results of the Guernsey, Jersey, and Brown Swiss divisions.

Russ Subject, Oldwick, N.J., selected a 4-year-old, Jake Sunflower, shown by Patrick Jenkins, as grand champion of the 4-H show. Subject picked a cow he believed had the best udder in the show ring, a "big old strong milk cow," he said, that would "milk more than any cow out here."

Subject selected the 5-year-old, CLV Montana Windstar, exhibited by Beth Jenkins, as open show grand champion. Subject, who raises Jerseys and once owned a Jersey world champion, said the cow had a "beautiful udder."

Subject selected French Creek Diamond Ann, a dry cow more than five years old, exhibited by Julie Sollenberger as grand champion Guernsey Tuesday evening.

The judge selected a 5-year-old exhibited by Erica Lloyd, Brownschwitz Concord Rona, as grand champion Brown Swiss.

Following is a list of show placings.

Amos T. Ebersole farm, 590 Red Hill Road, Narvon. From Rt. 340 at White Horse, travel north on Cambridge Road about three miles and turn north on Red Hill Road. Proceed about one mile to his farm on the left. He has about 80 acres of grass and some alfalfa and is about 70 percent seasonal dairying. Cows get grain, but no corn silage.

These pasture walks are sponsored by Penn State Cooperative Extension and Lancaster County Graziers. They afford graziers an opportunity to learn from each other by hearing and observing what others are doing.

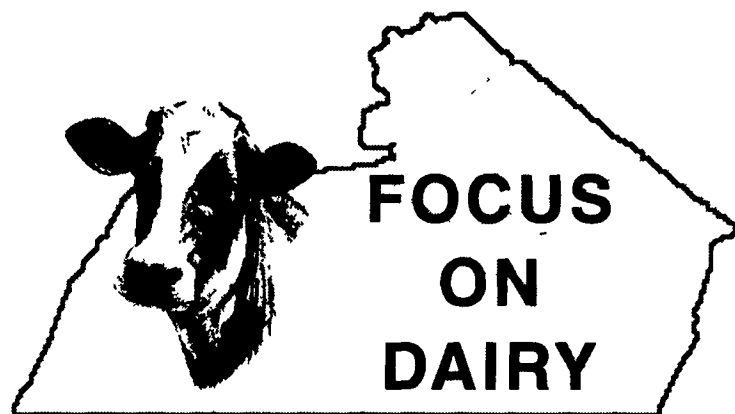

Lancaster Sets Pasture Walks

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Two pasture walks have been scheduled in Lancaster County. Both walks are scheduled from 10 a.m. until noon.

Clean clothes and disinfected boots, or disposable boots, will be required for biosecurity reasons.

The first one will be Friday, Aug. 10 in southern Lancaster County at the Sam B. Zook farm, 1081 Holtwood Road. From Rt. 272 at the "Buck," travel west on Rt. 372 to the third farm on the right. This is an all grass dairy with 45 mature cows on 50 acres.

The second pasture walk will be on Tuesday, Aug. 28, in northern Lancaster County at the

HIGH PROFITS =
HERDS + HIGHLY MANAGED PASTURE
Timothy J. Fritz
Former Farm Management
Extension Agent

A growing number of high-production dairies are utilizing grazing as the backbone of their feeding system with a TMR usually supplementing the pasture.

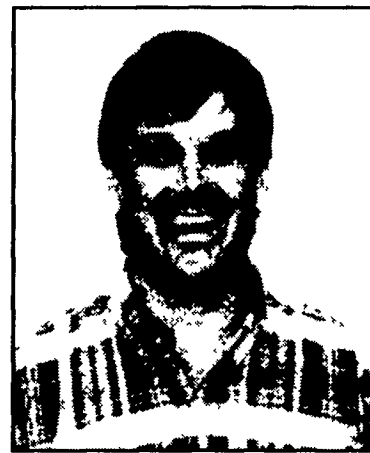

Nowadays, grazing is not just for the small dairy. Lower cull rates, high forage quality and yield, along with reduced overhead costs are just a few benefits of adding a modern grazing system to your dairy.

Traditionally, we think that a pasture-based dairy is for 200 or less cows. However, grazing even for part of each day has enormous potential for larger dairies. In a hybrid system where milking cows are limited to only about six hours a day or about 12 pounds of dry matter intake, only about 0.25 acres per cow are needed. If you plan to run 500 cows you will need about 125 acres of pasture/forage land within cow walking distance (less than a mile).

If you are not ready to jump in with the milking cows, heifers and dry cows are very easy to work into an excellent pasture system. Either way, consider some of the benefits of a well-managed hybrid grazing system:

- Lower cull rates. Getting cows off of concrete reduces cull rates. With replacement costs being very high right now, don't ignore this benefit. Cows need to get off the concrete and get healthy exercise. A typical well-managed grazing dairy has a nonvoluntary cull rate of about 15 percent. Low cull rates allow more cattle to be sold for dairy purposes at prices considerably higher than slaughter value, which can boost farm profits significantly.

- Superior forage quality. With good grazing management and good pasture genetics, pasture feed quality is very high. It is common to have energy levels above .70 NEL and protein levels above 20 percent. In addition, because cows harvest plants fresh, vitamin levels are high and mycotoxin levels are low. Vitamin A levels can be around 40,000 IU and vitamin E levels are above 200. Under very lush pasture conditions, energy levels can approach corn meal.

- High yields. This is probably the least understood advantage management benefit of intensive grazing. Under high management, dry matter yields approach corn silage. However, protein yields are almost triple that of corn silage and energy levels are slightly higher.

- Less forage and manure storage requirements. Obviously since the cows harvest the forage directly, forage storage requirements costs are reduced. Maybe not so obvious is the point that the cows also return their manure to the field, directly reducing manure storage and handling cost.

- Lower housing costs. Since the cows are out of the barn part of the day, bedding costs will be reduced and possibly higher cow numbers could be run in the same facility.

The benefits to grazing are high for both small and large dairies. I encourage you to explore the possibilities. Remember, success will depend on the entire management team having an open mind and willingness to try new ideas and techniques.

Additional details are available through cooperative extension. In the Capitol Region, contact Paul Craig for pasture management information, Tim Beck for dairy ration details, and Phil Wagner and Glenn Shirk for general dairy grazing information. In addition, don't forget about fencing contractors, forage seed companies, Natural Resource Conservation Service, and dairy nutritionists and veterinarians who have experience with grazing.

Lancaster Farming Announces Survey Contest Winners

EPHRATA (Lancaster Co.) — Lancaster Farming has announced the results of its drawing for those who returned questionnaire answers for a special mail-in survey.

The survey was conducted on three consecutive Saturdays at the end of February and early March in the newspaper.

Each winner receives a $50 gift certificate to the store of his or her choice. Winners are Charlotte Lippincott, Pilesgrove, N.J.; Susan Sauder, Myerstown; Lester Miller, New Oxford; Michelle Rodgers, Middletown; and John A. Cavell, New Holland.

Lancaster Farming thanks all those who participated. Your answers were very helpful!

Agriculture Secretary Promotes Pa.'s Farmers' Markets

LOGANVILLE (York Co.) — Pennsylvania Agriculture Secretary Sam Hayes promoted Pennsylvania's farmers' markets and Pennsylvania produce during a visit to Brown's Orchard Farm Market.

Hayes also announced that Pennsylvania Farmers' Market Week will be Aug. 5-11. Pennsylvania is home to 1,008 farmers' markets and roadside stands.

"Farmers' markets serve as integral links among urban, suburban, and rural communities, providing an opportunity for all Pennsylvanians to enjoy our farm-fresh produce," Hayes said.

The secretary said that farmers' markets and retailers are important ingredients of the Department of Agriculture's "Pennsylvania Produce Simply Delicious" program, which promotes the high-quality fruits and vegetables grown in Pennsylvania.

Through the program, the Department of Agriculture assists growers in finding retailers committed to selling Pennsylvania produce when in season. Starting in 1997, the Simply Delicious program has grown to include more than 600 growers and 1,000 retailers.

Farmers' markets and retail outlets participating in the program receive promotional material bearing the Simply Delicious logo.

The Pennsylvania Guide to Farmers' Markets lists all farmers' markets in the state and is available online under Publications on the Department of Agriculture's homepage, which can be accessed through the PA PowerPort at www.state.pa.us or directly at www.pda.state.pa.us.

For a hard copy of the guide, contact the Department of Agriculture's Bureau of Market Development at (717) 787-4210.

To view a listing of growers and retailers participating in the "Pennsylvania Produce Simply Delicious" program, visit the program's website at www.pda.state.pa.us.

Milk Marketing Area No. 4 To Conduct Hearing

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The Pennsylvania Milk Marketing Board will conduct a public hearing for Milk Marketing Area No. 4 on Sept. 5 commencing at 2:30 p.m. in Room 202 of the Agriculture Building, 2301 North Cameron Street, Harrisburg.

The purpose of the hearing is to receive testimony and exhibits concerning cost replacement.

Testimony and exhibits will also be accepted relative to the actual skim and butterfat contents of the regulated products, shrinkage and sales of bulk milk and bulk cream, cream processing costs, and adjustments to announced Class II prices.

Milk Marketing Area No. 4 consists of Lancaster, Lebanon, York, Dauphin, Adams, Cumberland, Perry, Juniata, Franklin, and Fulton counties.

The filing address for the board is Pennsylvania Milk Marketing Board, Room 110, Agriculture Building, 2301 North Cameron Street, Harrisburg, PA 17110.

PROCLAMATION

PENNSYLVANIA FARMERS MARKET WEEK
AUGUST 5-11, 2001

WHEREAS, farmers markets are important outlets for agricultural producers to increase their farm income;

WHEREAS, over 1,000 farmers markets and roadside stands across the Commonwealth offer consumers farm-fresh, affordable, and convenient products such as: fruit, vegetables, cheeses, flowers, baked goods, meat, and much more;

WHEREAS, farmers markets serve as integral links between urban, suburban, and rural communities, affording farmers and their consumers the opportunity to interact;

WHEREAS, the popularity of farmers markets and roadside stands continues to rise;

WHEREAS, more consumers discover the joys of shopping for Pennsylvania produce sold direct from the farm, and the pleasure of buying fresh fruits and vegetables;

WHEREAS, farmers markets participate in the Women, Infants and Children Farmers Market Nutrition Program (WIC) and the Senior Citizen Farmers Market Nutrition Program to provide farm-fresh produce to those in need;

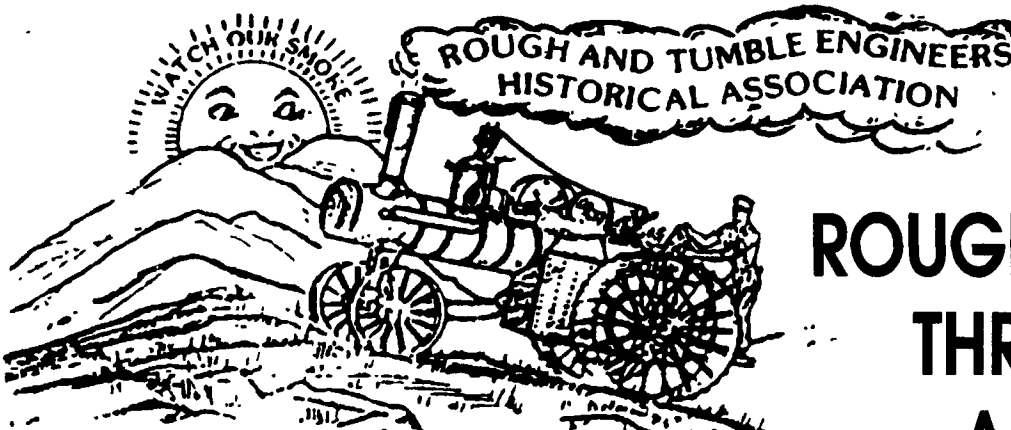

WHEREAS, the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture strongly supports and promotes the development and operation of farmers markets and other direct-to-market opportunities for agricultural producers, such as the Pennsylvania Produce...Simply Delicious program;

THEREFORE, in recognition of our thriving agriculture industry, I, SAMUEL E. HAYES, JR., Secretary of Agriculture, Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, do hereby proclaim the Week of August 5-11, 2001, PENNSYLVANIA FARMERS MARKET WEEK, to further the expansion and awareness of farmers markets and the many contributions farmers make to everyone's daily life in Pennsylvania. I encourage all citizens of Pennsylvania to celebrate the benefits of farmers markets and the bountiful production of our Commonwealth's farmers who, while providing for our needs, are among the best stewards of our land.

Goats On Auction Block At Lebanon Fair

ANDY ANDREWS
Editor

LEBANON (Lebanon Co.) — How do kids come up with livestock nicknames?

In the case of the Lebanon Fair Market Goat Show and Sale Wednesday, the champion is nicknamed "Trouble."

According to Sue Werner, the mother of grand champion market hog exhibitor Alex Werner, the goat's own mother simply didn't want to take care of him. So Alex brought the wether under his wings.

For the reserve champion, shown by Kate Gerber and nicknamed "Shivers," the goat was named in honor of champion bull rider Chris Shivers.

Alex, 15, son of Jeff and Sue Werner, Jonestown, exhibited a 1/4 Boer wether, the light heavy-weight champion at 83 pounds. For Alex, it was his first year showing at the fair as a member of the North Mountain Market Meat Goat Club.

The Northern Lebanon High School sophomore purchased the goat from club organizational leaders Nancy and Doug Dresch, Lebanon.

Alex had a banner Lebanon Fair, also winning best of breeds in rabbit competition. Alex plans to attend the state Farm Show.

Kate Gerber, 15, daughter of JoLynn and Eric, North Annville, exhibited a 75-pound medium weight champion, also a 1/4 Boer wether. Kate, a sophomore at Annville-Cleona High School, also won a championship for the first time at the fair.

The goat was purchased from the Dresches.

At the Small Livestock Sale conducted Wednesday evening at Lebanon Area Fair, Daniel Paul, Main Street Market in Bangor, purchased Alex's champion goat for $600 and the reserve shown by Kate for $525.

Judge for the show was Betty Herr.

Twenty-three goats went to auction. The auction was conducted by Russell Wolfe Jr. Auctioneer.

Following is a list of show placings.

Prime Beef At Lebanon Area Fair

LEBANON (Lebanon Co.) — A 1,310 pound, 18-month old Angus crossbred exhibited by Megan Fuls was named grand champion steer at the 4-H and FFA beef show here Tuesday.

Fuls is a member of the Lebanon County 4-H Club and will be a sophomore this fall at Conrad Weiser High School.

The Firestine sisters also won top honors in the state FFA public speaking contest earlier this year. Margeaux took second place for her speech on beef quality and Morgan was first in the junior division for her presentation "Agriculture in the 21st Century."

Reserve champion steer went to a 1,238 pound, 18-month-old Shorthorn exhibited by Nathan Tice.

Fuls and Tice received belt buckles donated by H&H Tack. Fritz Frey judged the show.

Beef animals, sheep, and swine from the livestock shows were sold on auction here Friday after press time. Sale results will be published in the next issue of Lancaster Farming.

Trade Show Auction Scheduled At All-American Dairy Show

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — "The Dairy Trade Show Silent Auction was a great success last year. Those companies that chose to sell a hot item saw lots of action in their booths. Everyone is returning this year and our list of additional items is growing daily," said All-American Dairy Show Fund-Raising Coordinator Lolly Leshner. "This trade show format allows agribusinesses to participate in the show and showcase their unique products and services. It is exciting to have added Agri-Graphics to the Silent Auction list, along with Em-Tran, Inc."

Explaining logistics of the silent auction, Leshner said, "Vendors will have the opportunity to present several lots for sale by silent auction to visiting dairy farmers. In lieu of class sponsor contributions, or buying commercial booth space, vendors will offer items for purchase through the auction. The All-American will receive the revenues from the sales."

The 38th All-American Dairy Show opens Sunday, Sept. 23, and runs through Thursday, Sept. 27, at the Farm Show Complex in Harrisburg. The bidding will start at 9 a.m. and conclude at 2:15 p.m. each day.

Vendors must sign up with the All-American office and make a commitment to the All-American Dairy Show, by preparing a list of items that will be offered.

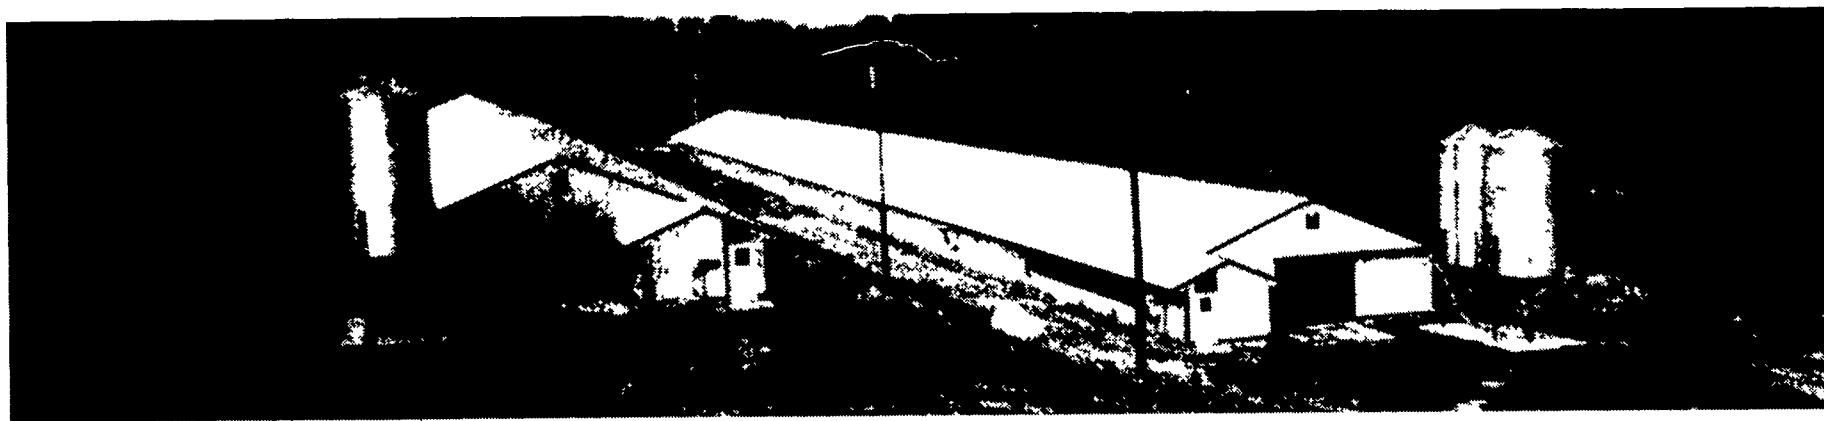

Everyone is invited to be part of the growth of the All-American Dairy Show. For more information regarding the Trade Show or the Silent Auction, call the All-American Dairy Show office at (717) 787-2905.

In the Sept. 15 issue, Lancaster Farming has scheduled the fall 2001 Foraging Around, the quarterly newsletter of the Pennsylvania Forage and Grassland Council. That issue of Foraging Around is dedicated to the families who strive to make grass-based farming work. Also included will be news and information important to the grazier and forage grower.

East Central District Show Announces Champions

LAURELTON (Union Co.) — The East Central District Dairy Show was conducted here at the Union County West End Fairgrounds July 27.

Type judge was Steve Shaw. Nancy Hamner was showmanship judge and Diane Glock was fitting judge. A total of 160 animals were cataloged.

In the Red and White show, Anna Spangler of New Berlin owned the senior calf, sired by Walnut Hills Morrie-Red, which was named grand champion. A winter calf owned by Timothy Betz of Watsontown was named reserve. The best owner-bred animal was a spring yearling owned by Anna Spangler. It was sired by Horizon Ranger ET-Red.

land swept most of the honors in the Milking Shorthorn show. The Danville FFA member's senior yearling, sired by Red Cedar Valiant, was grand champion of the breed and won the owner-breeder honor. A senior 2-year-old owned by Wolfe was presented the reserve champion award and the best udder award. Reserve junior champion was owned by Aaron Harris of the Eager Beaver 4-H Club. His winter calf was sired by Twilight Beauty's David.

Jennifer McWilliams of West Snyder FFA owned the grand champion of the Ayrshire Show. The 4-year-old cow was sired by Bonnie Brac Heligo. Junior champion was owned by Carla Miller of Belleville.

The Mifflin County 4-H member's junior yearling was sired by Woodland View Olympic 2-ET. Reserve junior champion was also a junior yearling, owned by Jason Miller of Belleville.

Amanda Hauck of Middleburg was the owner of the grand champion Brown Swiss. Amanda is a member of the Middleburg FFA and Eager Beaver 4-H Club in Snyder County. Her 4-year-old cow was sired by Towpath Dotson Jessie ET. Reserve champion Brown Swiss was owned by Jennifer McWilliams of Spring Mills in Snyder County. The West Snyder FFA member's 4-year-old was sired by Forest Lawn TJ Rhythm and also received the best udder award for the breed.

In the Brown Swiss Junior Show, junior champion was owned by Miles Wolfe. The junior calf of the Northumberland County native was sired by Blessing Aytola Banker. Reserve junior champion and junior owner award was presented to a spring yearling owned by Amanda Hauck of Middleburg. Her yearling was sired by R Hart TC Denmark ET.

Top honors in the Guernsey show were presented to Union County 4-H member Crissa Johnson from Lewisburg. Her grand champion aged cow was sired by Tamaracks Perfectos Valiant ET. Reserve and junior champion Guernsey was owned and bred by Denae Johnson of Lewisburg. The Mifflinburg FFA member's summer yearling was also sired by Tamaracks Perfectos Valiant ET. Reserve junior champion was owned by Matthew Hauck of the Eager Beaver 4-H Club in Snyder County.

Top honors in the Jersey bred went to Brittany Rice of Richfield. The Sunnyside Dairy 4-H Club member's 4-year-old was sired by Grenridge Altheas Dunker and was awarded the grand champion and best udder awards. Reserve champion and best owner-bred senior animals awards were earned by a dry cow owned by Kyle Heimbach of Mt. Pleasant Mills in Snyder County. The cow was sired by Greenwood Skyline Kent.

Junior champion of the Jersey show was awarded to Tristan Roupp of the Mifflinburg FFA. The summer yearling was sired by Prospector of Star Jersey. The best junior owned and bred animal and reserve junior champion was owned by Seth Derr. The Lycoming County 4-H member's intermediate calf was sired by Fil-Mist RMBM Buttons Bryce.

The last show of the day was the Holstein show. Top honors were awarded to a junior 3-year old cow owned by J. Daniel Kenamond of Mifflinburg. The owner-bred animal was sired by Boulet Charles-ET. The Mifflinburg FFA member's cow was the grand champion of the Holstein show and was awarded both the Holstein bred and show senior owned and bred award by Jake Myers of Select Sires. Reserve champion Holstein was owned by Brandon Pontius of the Greenwood FFA. The senior 2-year-old was sired by Kemview Ventas Vision.

In the junior Holstein show, Brandon Pontius of Millerstown earned the champion ribbon. The senior yearling of the Juniata native was sired by Marcrest Encore and was also awarded both the Holstein owner-bred and show owner-bred awards. Reserve junior champion ribbon was presented to Tracy Grose of Montour County. The Roaring Creek 4-H member's winter calf was sired by Ricecrest Emerson-ET.

Jersey champions included Kyle Heimbach and Brittany Rice.

WHITNEYVILLE (Tioga Co.) — Saturday, Aug. 18 is the date for the Northeast District Jersey Show at the Tioga County Fairgrounds.

The show will be judged by Jim Curtis of Cazenovia, N.Y. and begins at 9:30 a.m.

All typical calf and cow classes as well as a class for senior yearlings in milk will be staged, including a production class for animals who have produced 100,000 pounds of milk or 4,000 pounds of fat. A premier exhibitor and premier breeder for the show will also be named.

Once again, the Noble family will present a premier performance award in memory of Tommy G. Noble. The award will be given at the end of the show and will be based 50 percent on milk production and 50 percent on class placing. To be eligible for the premier performance award, please submit the animal's most recent 305-day lactation summary with the entry forms.

Also this year, a first year Jersey showmanship contest will be held. Youth ages 12 and under who are exhibiting a Jersey project animal for the first time are eligible to enter the contest to compete for a showbox.

Fees of $5 per youth entry and $7 per adult entry should accompany all submissions. Please include the animal's name, registration number, birth date, sire, dam, owner's name and breeders name on a piece of plain paper and send it to Paul Moyer, RR 1 Box 88A, Roaring Branch, PA 17765. Entry deadline is Aug. 10. Entries postmarked after that date will be subject to a $15 per head late fee.

Animals may enter the fairgrounds Friday, Aug. 17. On that evening, a pizza party for exhibitors will be held with a brief meeting to follow.

To be admitted to the show, animals must be free from signs of clinical illness or contagious or infectious diseases and must be presented with an official health certificate upon entering the fairgrounds. Vaccinations required include IBR, PI3 and BVD. Animals that have not been vaccinated against BVD during the previous 12 months must receive one dose of modified live virus vaccine given at least 15 days and not more than 180 days before the show or two doses of killed vaccine two to four weeks apart with the last dose given at least 15 days and not more than 180 days before the show. Animals that have been vaccinated for BVD within the past 12 months must receive a single injection of modified live virus or killed vaccine not less than 15 days prior to the show. Vaccination against rabies is highly recommended.

"Through the years, the quality of the Jersey show has been steadily increasing," said chairman Paul Moyer. "Let's make this year's show the best ever!"

Questions about the show can be directed to Paul Moyer at (570) 324-2482.

NEED HIGH QUALITY FORAGE?

No-Till Green Spirit Ryegrass Into Those Tired Alfalfa Fields

GREEN SPIRIT has higher quality than rye, triticale or wheat if cut before boot stage. Is actually a better feed than alfalfa. Has more digestible fiber and sugars. Does not head out until approximately May 12. Cut GREEN SPIRIT mid April and it will be ready again 3 weeks later. Yes, that's 2 cuttings of GREEN SPIRIT and still time to plant corn. So if you have moisture in the ground, no-till GREEN SPIRIT into your worn out alfalfa fields after 3rd or 4th cutting and still get a good cutting or two this fall, and lots of tonnage next spring.

The Cauffmans say they always wanted above-ground manure storage with a side-mount pump and center agitation system. With above-ground storage it's obvious if a problem develops, they say. Safety and appearance were also a concern when they were planning their manure storage. Penn Jersey's 26 years of experience was a bonus!

Vines Impact Garden Flair

LINDA WILLIAMS

Bedford Co. Correspondent
WOODBURY (Bedford County) — Lorraine Martin, part owner of the Spring Farm Greenhouse near Martinsburg loves gardening.

She grew up surrounded by the flowers in her mother's garden. Her mother's green-thumb rubbed off on Lorraine and she has gotten a lot of additional information by reading and downloading from the internet.

One of her favorite plants is the vine. "A vine on a trellis," she says, "makes a lovely frame for the garden. It can be used as an entrance that will lead you right through."

Lorraine puts her words into practice. She has a lovely trellis leading into her own "vision of beauty" garden located near the greenhouse.

There are many types of vines and they come in both the annual and perennial varieties. When starting a vine on a trellis, grape arbor, or overhang for a swing, Lorraine suggests planting both an annual and perennial variety.

"The first year the annual will grow quickly. By the second year, the perennial will be making some headway and may even bloom for you."

Some examples of annual vines are the cardinal, morning glory, bougainvillea, the black-eyed Susan vine, or the snapdragon vine, which will grow to the top of a tall trellis in a single season.

The more popular perennial vines include wisteria, clematis, climbing roses, the trumpet vine, honeysuckle, porcelain vine, ivy, or even the grapevine.

"You must prune a vine in order to get beautiful flowers," explains Lorraine. She gives the example of her own mother who, tired of her nonblooming wisteria, chopped it to the ground. The next year, it both grew back and produced a profusion of lavender blooms.

"Almost all vines need pruned," Lorraine says. "In order to know how to trim which vine when, get yourself a good pruning book."

If it is a spring flowering vine, prune right after blooming. Cut the whole plant to within one foot or so of the ground. You have to be a little careful because very old stems may not resprout following severe cutting. Do not cut the plant back into very old wood or the plant will get larger and larger each year. No matter how you cut the early bloomers, the new shoots that appear following pruning are those that will bear flowers the following season.

If it is a vine, which blooms late in the season, prune in the early spring. Top all stems back to strong buds within one foot or so of the ground. There is no need to cut back so severely if you are going to let the plant ramble high into a tree.

If it is an early into mid-summer blooming vine prune carefully. If you cut a plant back sharply before growth begins, you miss the earliest flowers. If you prune severely after the first flush of blooms, you miss the later ones. Some suggest no pruning at all but then the plant will become a tangled mess. One option is to cut back the whole plant drastically every few years just before growth begins with little or not pruning in the intervening time. Or, divide the plant in half and severely prune each half in alternate years. The most refined approach is to thin out lightly and disentangle stems before growth begins, then go over the plants again after the earliest flowers fade, severely shortening the stems that have borne those flowers.

"Judge your pruning by how aggressively the vine grows," Lorraine explains. "If it is aggressive, prune aggressively. If it is a slow grower, it may only need trimmed every few years."

"And, if you are using vines which do not bloom, prune to keep them in line whenever you want. If you want them to fit a certain spot, prune accordingly."

Lorraine Martin stands beside a trellis leading into her garden. "I made a mistake with this one," she admits. "I planted too many vines."

Some of Lorraine's favorite vines include the porcelain vine, which both blooms and berries for the birds.

The trumpet vine can be used in a spot where you don't care how fast or far it grows such as a telephone pole. It needs a lot of sun and will grow in poor soil.

Silver lace grows very rapidly and is extremely good for an arbor.

Virginia creeper can be found in the woods and gets a colorful leaf in the fall of the year. It is very aggressive and will climb the side of a house.

The Climbing hydrangea will tolerate shade.

There are two types of honeysuckle — spring and summer. The spring variety has a heady fragrance while the summer honeysuckle has a beautiful but delicate orange bloom.

Most vines like sun with their roots shaded. Lorraine suggests planting them in a sunny spot and covering the roots with lot of mulch. "We do not fertilize our plants," she says. "We just use mushroom mulch and we really don't have to do anything else."

Whatever your choice of variety, vines are a good way to add a beginning or ending touch to your garden and provides instant shade.

These photos show a trellis covered with a clematis vine that leads to a water garden; summer honeysuckle, which is a mid-summer blooming plant that seldom needs to be trimmed, and a rambling rose-covered trellis.

On Being a Farm Wife

Joyce Bupp

Up hills. Down hills. Around gentle curves and sharp turns.

Country roads. So close to home. But they could be a thousand miles away, all their lack of familiarity, which is part of the aura of traveling country roads.

"I was on a road I don't remember ever having traveled before," I related to The Farmer the evening last week. Just a few days before, he had arrived home from a repair-parts run uttering those same words.

Of course, what that does is spur us to take the road the next time either of us is headed in that direction.

You would think that, having lived years in the same place, we would have traveled most of the hills and valleys of the area. Not necessarily, we find. Making farm visits, running equipment repair parts errands, taking casual Sunday drives, we still stumble into bits of our beautiful York County that we've never seen before.

Truth is, we go out of our way to find those feeding on that stage of mini-adventure that comes from crawling behind the steering wheel while not actually knowing exactly where one's going. And there's always something interesting at the next bend, the next hill, the next isolated crossroads along country roads.

On our way to somewhere — or nowhere in particular — along country roads, we do what most farmers seem to enjoy doing even when traveling for some other purpose.

We check out what other farmers are doing.

Eyeballing corn and hay and bean and grain fields, looking at grazing livestock, seeing how others till (and no-till), plant, harvest and what equipment they're using is an insatiable curiosity to fellow farmers.

While some industries may go to great lengths to keep their product and production under wraps, covering up a corn or hay or wheat or soybean field right along a road is impossible. But farmers often go that extra step to enhance the appearance of their stewardship territory for passers-by. I passed a stretch of pretty corn that day in unfamiliar territory which despite our continuing extreme shortage of moisture, looked especially impressive. And the roadside along it had been carefully mowed of all weeds to make it look even more neat and attractive.

Of course any spray skippers in the hay field, plantings short of fertilizer along road edges, or weed control challenges are equally on display to passers-by FREDERICK, Md. — "Don't Just Imagine It...Ag-xperience It!" is the theme of the 2001 Great Frederick Fair, Sept. 14-22. Judging events from llamas and alpacas to handmade garments, woodworking and home raised foods and produce will be showcased during the 139th nine-day event.

All of the entry dates, times and rules and regulations appear in the fair's catalog which is available from the fair's administration office, your local library, or the fair's Website at www.the-greatfrederickfair.com.

"We are real excited to offer the fair catalog on the Website again, especially to those who want the convenience of viewing what the fair has to offer right from their computer," said fair Board President Nancy Hendricks.

All entries will again be put on computer and all premiums will be issued in the form of one check per exhibitor. All premium checks will be mailed to all exhibitors immediately following the fair.

At last year's fair, 1,285 exhibitors entered 3,058 exhibits in the 4-H and open class farm and garden department, and 2,294 exhibitors entered 3,745 exhibits in the household department. In the 4-H Building, 1,343 exhibitors entered 3,663 exhibits.

For information on entry times, contact the fair office at (301) 663-5895 or the Frederick County Cooperative Extension Service at 694-1594.

The Household Building will feature demonstrations throughout the week by members of the Frederick County Homemaker Clubs. Demonstrations focusing on herbs, honey extraction, wool dyeing and spinning, corsage making, dried flowers and lamb cookery will be featured in the Farm and Garden Building. Complete demonstration schedules will be posted at each building fairweek.

Junior Angus Members Elect National Officers

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. — Junior Angus members from across the nation converged July 9-14 on Denver, Colo., to attend the annual meeting of the National Junior Angus Association (NJAA). The meeting was conducted in conjunction with the 2001 National Junior Angus Show.

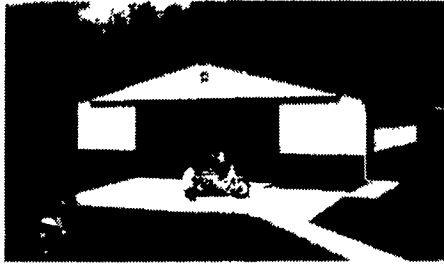

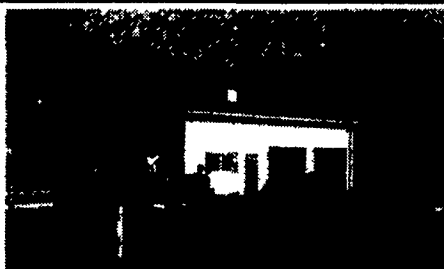

Delegates elected six new directors to the NJAA board, and new officers were announced at the awards ceremony, Friday, July 13. The directors elected to officer positions are beginning the second year of their two-year term.

The new officers are: Tom Patterson, Columbus, Mont., chairman; and Ryan Sweeney, Mason, Mich., vice chairman; Heath Johnson, Corinth, Miss., communications director; Christy Walther, Mount Crawford, Va., foundation director; Brittney Burns, Kickapoo, Ill., leadership director; and Jessica Sawyer, Bassett, Neb., membership director.

Candidates from 11 states ran for the six open positions on the board. Delegates cast ballots for their top six candidates after each candidate submitted an application, gave an oral presentation and completed round-table interviews. The six newly elected directors follow.

Mercedes Danekas, Wilton, Calif.; Brian Howell, Union City, Ind.; John McCurry, Burrton, Kan.; Lana Myers, Jennings, La.; Lacey Robinson, Montgomery City, Mo., currently Miss American Angus; Brandon Walker, Lexington, Ga.

Freshman Finance

Is someone in your family going to college this fall?

Among all the other adjustments to be made, he'll be taking care of his personal expenses. For the purposes of this article, we'll assume that tuition, room, board, and books are already paid. Here are a few tips on avoiding the most serious pitfalls of daily finances.

First, develop a budget. Estimate weekly amounts for personal hygiene, laundry, supplies, and entertainment.

Surveys show that teens spend heavily on clothes, music, and food. Now your teen will have to buy the more mundane stuff. Cutbacks on the more exciting things may be necessary. Remind her that you've already paid for meals in the dining hall and eating elsewhere is wasting money. A soft drink or two each day will cost $100 or more a semester. Is this the best use of her money?

This is not to deny her the occasional treat but small, unnecessary purchases can add up to real money.

If your child hasn't already been offered a credit card, he will be when he reaches the campus of his choice. Credit card companies market heavily to college students, setting up booths on campus and offering free t-shirts on campus and offering free t-shirts and other give-aways to attract applicants. Seldom are students denied a card.

The issuing company figures parents will bail out an over-spending kid. Credit card use and abuse are serious concerns for the college student. It is common for graduating seniors to owe $2,000 to $3,000 on their credit cards, in addition to student loans.

Sometimes students become so burdened with credit card debt they have to drop out of school. A botched credit rating makes it much more difficult to get a car loan, rent an apartment, get a mortgage or even get a job later in life.

This is a terrible burden with which to begin adult life. One low-limit credit card may make sense for the student who will be some distance from home, but make sure all the rights and responsibilities of being a cardholder are understood before your child leaves for school.

To avoid being the victim of fraud he should keep the card and billing statements in a secure place, be cautious about giving out the card number and tear into small pieces any new card offers. Some card companies are now sending unsolicited cards to students. Be sure to cancel these unwanted cards and destroy the card itself.

Another issue is choosing a financial institution for your student.

The options include staying with the bank at home, choosing one near campus or opting for an on-line bank. Compare balance requirements and fees.

College students tend to keep very modest minimum balances and use ATMs a lot. Banks today live on their fees. There may be monthly account fees as well as fees for withdrawing at "foreign" ATMs, making excess transactions and using a debit card. Research will help him make the least expensive selection. Direct deposit is often used for getting paid for a campus job so it is often necessary to have a bank account of some kind.

Telephone service is another expense that needs to be researched. If your child is living in a dorm, it is likely that her room will have a phone to be shared with roommates. Paying for local service is often unavoidable and may even be included in university bills. Long-distance service is another decision. It may be an option with the local service.

This works if each user has a personal code and separate billing. Horror stories abound of roommates sticking other roommates with horrendous long-distance bills. But check the rates. She may be able to do better with another choice. A calling card from your home long-distance carrier is likely to be very expensive and not the best choice. Prepaid phone cards can be a very reasonable way to go. Just check to be sure there are no connect charges when calling from a private phone. (Connect charges are inevitable from a pay phone.)

Prepaid phone cards offer minimum risk if they are lost because they have only a set number of minutes. The student's regular phone is secure from others who might try to make long distance calls at her expense because no long distance service is available.

The personal 800 number is a reasonable alternative for phoning home. But it doesn't work for staying in touch with friends, which may be important, especially during the first months of college. A final alternative is a cell phone. This choice requires some serious thinking. Is the area of service appropriate? Can she live with the number of minutes provided? Roaming charges and extra minutes can eat holes in her pocket very easily.

If she lives off-campus, she may need a phone line for her computer so a cell phone would be duplicate service. Again, security is an issue. If someone else gets a hold of the phone, there may be unexpected charges.

Most cell phones have a locking feature. Be sure to have your child use it, if she decides the cell phone is best.

One of the most common observations of new college students is how much spending money fellow students seem to have. This is especially true for students from rural areas who are used to a simpler life style. Just be prepared for a little parent counseling time on this subject. I hope the college experience is a wonderful one for your child and your entire family.

Reading Wizards

Research has shown that gaining a sense of mastery of skills, such as reading, is an important characteristic of resilient youth. Research also clearly links children's reading skills to academic success. Reading with your child not only strengthens a child's chances of success, but also the bond you have with them.

Daniel Perkins, a family/youth resiliency and policy extension specialist at PSU, has developed a series of six parent bulletins entitled, "Reading Wizards: Parents and Children Reading Together." These bulletins are designed to assist parents in making the most of reading time with their children between the ages of 5 and 12. Each bulletin contains tips on how to make the most of family reading time, as well as activities based on the Harry Potter book series. These are available at no charge by contacting your county cooperative extension office.

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

Summer is a time for many family reunions. Recently, we attended a Landis family reunion. Most of those attending were from Lancaster County although one member came from Iowa. It was a small gathering compared to some of the first reunions.

I have a booklet, printed after the first reunion in 1911, which lists the 1,500 Landis descendants who attended. It was conducted at Perkasio Park near Philadelphia.

Then in 1915, another Landis family reunion was conducted at Conestoga Park near Witmer in Lancaster County. My newspaper clipping lists all 600 names of those who attended. It also states that special trolley services were provided. And, "several dozen automobiles were parked around the premises." I would imagine there were not many owners of autos at that time and therefore, it was worth mentioning.

The Landis family arrived in America in 1717. There were three brothers, Jacob, John, and Felix. Jacob's son Benjamin settled in Lancaster County. Today, there are thousands of their descendants scattered throughout the U.S.

Next week, we have our own little family reunion. Even though there are now 29 of us, I expect some will not be able to attend. There are always so many activities planned for summer months.

Before we drive to the Pocono

Mountains with our boat, we have chores to finish at home. This year, the apricot tree was full of small fruit. The raspberries must be pruned and the sweet corn hoed. But, at least we do not need to mow the yard as it is very dry in our area just now.

In A Jam? These Recipes Will Help

Jam and jelly can be made by adding a packaged pectin or the old-fashioned way by cooking fruits and sugar to reach a specified temperature to reach the gel point.

Pectin products help guarantee that the jam or jelly will jell, but they require using more sugar. Without added pectin, some fruits will never jell no matter how long it is cooked.

Fruits that are barely ripe contain the most pectin, but those that are fully ripe contain the most flavor. It is the balance between these two that often makes a great jelly if you are not using packaged pectin.

A good thermometer is necessary to make a good jelly or jam the old-fashioned way. Add eight degrees to whatever the boiling water temperature is in your kitchen and make sure the mixture reaches that point, about 216 degrees.

Jam and jelly making can be a snap if you follow these recipes.

OLD-FASHIONED STRAWBERRY JAM

First, wash and thoroughly rinse 3 or 4 half-pint jars or seven 4-ounce jars. Put the jars, lids, and inserts into a pan large enough so that the water will cover all. Put on the stove, bring to a boil, and simmer until ready to use.

Use one pint berries that are not quite ripe and 3 pints that are ripe. Wash and crush berries to yield about 2 to 2½ cups crushed fruit. Put these in a large quart pan.

Add an equal amount of sugar (about 2-2½ cups) and bring to a rolling boil that cannot be stirred down.

Insert the thermometer and cook until it reaches 216 degrees.

Remove jam from the heat, stir and skim.

Ladle promptly into clean hot jars. Cover and seal in boiling water bath.

GRAPE BUTTER

1 quart grapes
1 quart sugar

Bring grapes and sugar to a boil; boil 20 minutes. Put through food mill and fill jelly jars. This is about the consistency of apple butter.

ZUCCHINI JAM

6 cups seeded, shredded, peeled zucchini
6 cups sugar
½ cup lemon juice
20-ounce can crushed pineapple, undrained
6-ounce package Jell-O, any flavor (cherry, apricot, orange, strawberry)

In large kettle, bring zucchini and sugar to a boil. Boil and stir constantly for six minutes. Add lemon juice and pineapple. Cook and stir for 8 minutes. Add Jell-O and cook and stir one minute more. Remove from heat. Skim off foam, fill jars and process in boiling water bath 10 minutes.

FRUIT JAM

3 cups pears, grated
3 cups peaches, grated
2 cups crushed pineapple
8 cups sugar
6-ounces orange Jell-O

Combine fruits and sugar. Allow to come to a full boil. Boil 20 minutes. Add Jell-O and stir until dissolved. Pour into jars and seal.

BLUEBERRY AND BLACKBERRY FREEZER JAM

1½ cups crushed blackberries
1 cup crushed blueberries
1 tablespoon lemon juice
½ teaspoon coriander
3½ cups sugar
½ cup corn syrup
1 package powdered pectin
¾ cup water

Prepare freezer jam jars and lids according to manufacturer's instructions.

Combine blackberries, blueberries, lemon juice, and coriander in a large bowl. Stir in sugar and corn syrup; let stand 10 minutes. Combine pectin and water in a small saucepan; boil hard for one minute, stirring constantly. Add pectin to fruit mixture, stirring constantly for three minutes. Carefully ladle jam into freezer jam jars, leaving ½-inch headspace. Adjust caps. Allow to stand at room temperature until set, not to exceed 24 hours. Label. Store in freezer.

RED RASPBERRY AND BLACKBERRY FREEZER JAM

2 pints red raspberries, crushed

1 pint blackberries, crushed
½ medium orange, ground
4½ cups sugar
1 package powdered pectin
¾ cup water

Prepare freezer jam jars and lids according to manufacture's instructions.

Combine berries and orange in a large bowl. Stir in sugar; let stand 10 minutes. Combine pectin and water in a small saucepan; boil hard for one minute, stirring constantly. Add pectin to berry mixture, stirring constantly for 3 minutes. Carefully ladle jam into freezer jam jars, leaving ½-inch headspace. Adjust caps. Allow to stand at room temperature until set, not to exceed 24 hours. Label. Store in freezer.

Yield: about seven 8-ounce jars.

BLUEBERRY FREEZER JAM

3 cups crushed blueberries
2 tablespoons lemon juice
5¼ cups sugar
1 package powdered pectin
¾ cup water

Prepare freezer jam jars and lids according to manufacturer's instructions. Combine berries and lemon juice in a large bowl. Stir in sugar; let stand 10 minutes. Combine pectin and water in a small saucepan; boil hard for one minute, stirring constantly. Add pectin to berry mixture, stirring constantly for 3 minutes. Carefully ladle jam into freezer jam jars, leaving ½-inch headspace. Adjust caps. Allow to stand at room temperature until set, not to exceed 24 hours. Label. Store in freezer. Yield: about six 8-ounce jars.

2¼ cups crushed peaches
2 tablespoons lemon juice
4½ cups sugar
1 package powdered pectin
¾ cup water

Prepare freezer jam jars and lids according to manufacture's instructions.

Combine peaches and lemon juice in a large bowl. Stir in sugar; let stand 10 minutes. Combine pectin and water in a small saucepan; boil hard for one minute, stirring constantly. Add pectin to fruit mixture, stirring constantly for three minutes. Carefully ladle jam into freezer jars, leaving ½-inch headspace. Adjust caps. Allow to stand at room temperature until set, not to exceed 24 hours. Label. Store in freezer.

Yield: about five 8-ounce jars.

RED AND BLACK RASPBERRY FREEZER JAM

1 cup crushed red raspberries
1 cup crushed black raspberries
½ medium orange, ground
4 cups sugar
1 package powdered pectin
¾ cup water

Prepare freezer jam jars and lids according to manufacturer's instructions.

Combine berries and orange in a large bowl. Stir in sugar; let stand 10 minutes. Combine pectin and water in a small saucepan; boil hard for one minute, Ginger Pear Jam is easy to preserve and adds a delightful addition to traditional jams.

Featured Recipe

Delicate by nature, pears need a little special understanding and extra attention. Appearance, color, size and shape can be misleading and probably should not be used as a buying guide.

The pear's secret — its giveaway to ripeness — is its fragrance. A pear lingers at its prime for only a day or two, so preserve all that natural goodness by making pear jam.

Pear jam making is a snap if you follow recipe directions and use pectin product specified.

Your own jars of pear jam will let you and your family enjoy all the luscious delicious flavor of this year's pears until next year's crop.

GINGER PEAR JAM

¼ pound gingerroot
1½ cups cold water
4 cups prepared ripe pears
2 tablespoons lemon juice
5 cups sugar
1 box powdered fruit pectin

First prepare ginger and pears. Peel ginger root and grate, grind or finely chop. Place in saucepan and add water. Bring to a boil and boil gently for 15 minutes. Drain, cover with fresh cold water and let stand 10 minutes. Drain, measure ½ cup. Peel and core about 3 pounds pears. Chop very fine or grind. Measure 4 cups into 6-8-quart saucepot. Add lemon juice and ginger.

Make the jam. Measure sugar and set aside. Mix fruit pectin into fruit in saucepot. Place over high heat and stir until mixture comes to a full boil and boil hard one minute, stirring constantly. Remove from heat and skim off foam with metal spoon. Ladle quickly into hot jars, filling to within ¼-inch of tops. Cover and process in boiling water bath for 5 minutes. Makes about 6½ cups.

stirring constantly. Add pectin to berry mixture, stirring constantly for 3 minutes. Carefully ladle jam into freezer jam jars, leaving ½-inch headspace. Adjust caps. Allow to stand at room temperature until set, not to exceed 24 hours. Label. Store in freezer. Yield: about five 8-ounce jars.

NATURALLY SWEET APPLE BUTTER

14 medium or golden delicious apples
¼ cup water
4 cups unsweetened apple cider
1 cup dark brown sugar
½ teaspoon cloves
¼ teaspoon cinnamon

Prepare home canning jars and lids according to manufacturer's directions.

Wash apples, remove stem and blossom ends. Do not peel or core. Cook apples in water, covered, in a medium saucepan until apples are soft. Press through a sieve or food mill. Measure 4 cups apple pulp; return apple pulp to a large saucepan. Add apple cider, brown sugar, and spices. Cook slowly, uncovered, until thick enough to round up on a spoon. As pulp thickens; stir frequently to prevent sticking. (If butter is too thick; add a small amount of apple cider for desired consistency). Carefully ladle hot butter into hot jars, leaving ¼-inch headspace. Wipe jar rim clean. Place lid on jar with sealing compound next to glass. Screw band down evenly and firmly until fingertip tight.

Process 10 minutes in a boiling-water canner.

Promoting Dairy Everyday Is Goal For Somerset County Dairy Princess

Jennifer Stahl, 2001 Somerset County Dairy Princess is outdoors at her home.

GAY BROWNLEE
Somerset Co. Correspondent
SOMERSET (Somerset Co.) — Jennifer Stahl, Allegheny Road, Somerset, was crowned Somerset County Dairy Princess by Lacey Coleman, Berlin, the retiring dairy princess.

The coronation conducted at the Heritage Baptist Church included a dinner crowd of 120 persons.

Stahl addressed the guests with a speech that dealt with the dairy industry and the essentials of good health with milk as a dietary staple. Equally important are cheese varieties, ice cream and yogurt.

The 18-year-old princess, whose parents are Richard and Ellen Stahl, is learning how busy are the days of a promoter. That is how her life must be for a dairy princess to make a difference.

In doing her job well, the princess, too, needs several daily servings of milk to maintain strength and keep up with demands on her time. In lieu of milk she may prefer a frozen treat to celebrate July as National Ice Cream Month.

Stahl has set some lofty goals because the general public is a big audience that she is committed to reach. She declares her primary concern is that of being visible each day throughout her reign.

"I want to do something everyday. I feel it is my job to be out there meeting the public with information about the dairy industry," she said.

"The nice thing is that I am out of school," Stahl said of the advantage of having a flexible schedule that allows her to participate in many promotions. Her job at the turnpike Subway had been full time, but now is maintained at part time.

College will come later, she said.

Stahl invested in a new piece of equipment with the cash incentive the Allied Milk Producers Cooperative, Inc., presented the night of her coronation. She purchased a portable TV/VCR to play videos on the road. The rationale for that deci-a hindrance. Why risk wasting time fiddling with an unfamiliar appliance suddenly gone haywire, in the middle of a promotion? This way an electrical outlet will be all she needs.

On her parents' dairy farm working with cows, over the years Stahl absorbed cow knowledge, but she made a surprising discovery after ninth grade when she joined the Somerset FFA Chapter. There was a lot more to the cow business than she had realized.

The family farm near Lavansville uses a system of intensified rotational grazing for a mixed herd of 70 Holsteins and Jerseys covering some 44 paddocks. The Jerseys add butterfat.

"I wanted to promote the dairy industry," she reported. "I thought it was important to me since mom and dad have been milking cows for 30 years."

Thus, as invitations from Day-care centers, nursing homes, Bible Schools and parades come in, her schedule is growing more and more like a buzzing beehive.

At this point she anticipates visiting every classroom in Somerset county and being present at farm and non-farm meetings she is asked to attend.

At banquets the milk toast has become a popular promotion choice. Stahl looks forward to introducing it herself. She may salute the dairy cow, the farmer, or whatever....

When the clinking of glasses subsidizes everyone will proceed to sip their dairy drink.

For years the big Holstein cow mascot that follows a dairy princess around has been a winning combination with kids. In targeting youngsters with the "Drink Milk" message the mascot continues to be a useful and fun tool. A volunteer from the Stahl family has offered to wear the black and white suit. They want to help out wherever possible.

Stahl gives chocolate milk to kids because she enjoys it herself. Fruit dip, on the other hand is her choice for promotions at nursing homes.

Dairy shows often last several hours, but the dairy princess has a duty to present awards as judging of divisions continues all day until a grand champion is selected.

Among the largest promotional events of the year is Ag-Progress Days in August. Stahl and other county dairy princesses will serve throngs of visitors known to attend the annual event.

Stahl's successful FFA career in grades 9-12, has earned an impressive list of awards.

As a senior she won the State Record Keeper Award as well as Western Region Star in production agriculture. She also received a state silver medal for dairy judging and was in state competition with her speech on intensified rotational grazing.

She served as Somerset FFA Chapter president and received the Keystone Degree and was selected by the Somerset County Beef Producers to receive their award at the county FFA awards banquet. She attended the National FFA Convention as a junior.

A member of the National Honor Society, three years in succession Stahl won the FFA Agronomy Contest. She was a guest of the Somerset Lions and Somerset Kiwanis Clubs and named Outstanding Student in Agriculture by the Pomona Grange.

At the 2000 Somerset County Junior Dairy Show her Jersey animal was named the reserve grand champion.

She joined 4-H to pave the way for her brother Matthew, now 15, she said. He wanted to show animals and be involved in projects but felt more comfortable with an older sister there, too.

Stahl also has two sisters who are married with children.

Following is a favorite recipe from the dairy princess.

FRUIT DIP

8 ounces cream cheese, softened

7 ounces marshmallow cream

2 tablespoons milk

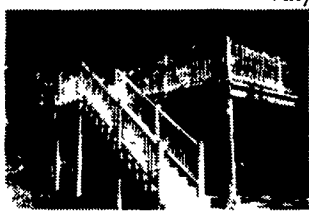

1 teaspoon vanilla

¼ teaspoon grated nutmeg

In a medium bowl combine softened cream cheese, marshmallow cream, milk, vanilla and nutmeg. Beat until smooth. Place in serving bowl and serve with assorted fresh fruit that has been thoroughly washed.

Do You Suffer From Fibromyalgia?

When I was introduced to New Image I was 50 pounds over weight and suffered from fibromyalgia. I was so depressed and in pain the majority of the time. I was taking steroids and four other medications, one of which made me so 'groggy' I could hardly get out of bed and another gave me ulcers. I began taking New Image secretly because I thought my family would make fun of me. After a month, I discovered I had lost eight pounds and seven inches. Wow! Then it dawned on me, I was feeling better, the depression and pain were gone. In two months I was off all medications. "I feel SUPERIFIC!" Now, two years later I have lost 43 pounds and 30 inches. Thank you New Image for giving me a new life again.

Question Corner

If you are looking for a recipe but can't find it, send your recipe request to Lou Ann Good, Cook's Question Corner, in care of Lancaster Farming, P.O. Box 609, Ephrata, PA 17522. There's no need to send a self-addressed stamped envelope. If we receive an answer to your question, we will publish it as soon as possible. Check your recipe to make sure you copy the right amounts and complete instructions for making the recipe. Sometimes we receive numerous answers to the same request, but cannot print each one.

Answers to recipe requests should be sent to the same address. You may also e-mail questions and answers to lgood.eph@lnpnews.com

Notice: Several readers write that they have problems accessing this address. The common mistake is that readers are substituting an "i" for the lowercase "l (L)" needed in two places. If you are having problems reaching this address, please check to make sure you are typing a lowercase "l (L)" in both places and not a lower or uppercase "i" or "I."

ANSWER — Elaine Young, Pitman, wanted to know how to make yogurt. Thanks to Melissa Lapp, Cassadaga, N.Y., for sending the following recipe.

Plain Yogurt

Heat one quart milk to 180 degrees. Cool to 110 degrees. Stir in 1 tablespoon plain yogurt or a package of yogurt starter. For four hours, set in a very warm place such as in an ice chest filled with very warm water. Refrigerate after removing yogurt from ice chest.

Yogurt starter may be ordered from VMC Co., P.O. Box 3195, Weehawkin, N.J. 07087-8152.

Here is a different version for yogurt making sent in by a New Holland reader.

Homemade Yogurt

1 gallon milk
2 packs plain gelatin (soaked in ½ cup cold water)

1 cup powdered milk
Heat milk to 150 degrees. Add gelatin soaked in cold water, and powdered milk. Heat to 190 degrees. Cool to 115 degrees. Add 1 cup cultured Grade A plain yogurt and 1¼ cups granulated sugar. Put into containers and set in 125 degree water in an ice chest. Close lid and let set 5 hours. Cover yogurt and refrigerate.

ANSWER — In response to the question about Rhubarb Custard Pie, Gretchen Ham, Pine City, N.Y., sent in her favorite recipe for rhubarb.

Rhubarb Custard Pie

Fill pastry lined 9-inch pie pan with the following: In a large bowl beat together:

3 eggs, slightly beaten
2¾ tablespoons milk

Mix in:

4 cups rhubarb

Mix together well. Pour mixture into pie pan and cover with a lattice pastry crust.

Bake until nicely browned (40-50 minutes) in 400 degree oven. Serve slightly warm.

ANSWER — Edna Leinbach clipped the recipe for no-cook marshmallow from Nancy Fasolt, but is unable to locate invert sugar, which had been listed as liquid chocolate but should have read liquid sugar. Invert sugar and every item needed for candy making are available at the Cake and Kandy Emporium (CAKE), Rear 53 E. Main St., Lititz, PA 17543. For store hours or mail-order, call Nancy at (717) 625-4646.

ANSWER — For Mrs. Donald Roland, Oxford, who requested gluten-free recipes for cookies and bread, here are some from a reader.

Peanut Butter Cookies

1 cup peanut butter
1 cup sugar
½ cup cream or non-dairy cream substitute or canned evaporated milk
4 teaspoons cornstarch
Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Mix together all ingredients thoroughly. Drop by teaspoonful onto ungreased cookie sheet. Bake for about 15 minutes. Cool a few minutes on the sheet; then remove to a plate.

Yield: approximately 4½ dozen cookies.

Brown Rice Flour Bread

2 envelopes plain gelatin
½ cup cold water
1 teaspoon liquid lecithin
1 cup brown rice flour with 1 cup millet flour OR 1 cup brown rice flour with 1 cup chick pea or garbanzo flour
3 teaspoons arrowroot baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons potato flour
2 eggs
2 tablespoons safflower oil
2 tablespoons honey
Stir gelatin into cold water. Add lecithin (it will not completely dissolve). Measure dry ingredients. Set aside. Beat eggs until thick. Add oil and honey. Heat gelatin just enough to dissolve it. Add to egg mixture. Stir in dry ingredients. (If you are using a mixture of brown rice flour and garbanzo flour, add 2 tablespoons water. The batter should be medium-stiff but not dry). Spoon into two well-greased 5x3-inch bread pans or one well-greased 8x4-inch bread pan. Bake at 375 degrees for 25-30 minutes for the small loaves or 35-40 minutes for the large loaf. A toothpick inserted into the center of the loaf should come out clean. Turn onto a wire rack to cool.

Variation: If you can use corn, you can substitute 2 teaspoons regular baking powder for the arrowroot baking powder and 2 tablespoons cornstarch for the potato flour.

Gluten-Free Carrot-Corn Bread

2 tablespoons butter
1 cup sliced, peeled carrots, tightly packed
1 cup buttermilk
1 egg
1 cup yellow cornmeal
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon baking soda

½ teaspoon baking powder

In a 450 degree oven, heat butter in an 8-inch square pan or a 9-inch pie tin until pan is hot and butter is melted. Set aside. Whirl carrots in blender or food processor with steel blade. Add buttermilk and egg, blend one minute more. In a large bowl, combine cornmeal, salt, baking soda, and baking powder. Pour carrot mixture all at once into cornmeal and mix well. Pour most of the butter into batter and blend well. If necessary, increase cornmeal to make a medium batter. Pour mixture into prepared pan. Bake at 450 degrees for 20 minutes or until browned on edges and beginning to pull away from pan. Serve immediately.

Gluten-Free Banana Bread

1 tablespoon quick-cooking tapioca
¼ cup buttermilk or 2 tablespoons orange juice
1 cup mashed bananas
2 large eggs
2 tablespoons safflower oil
¼ cup honey
2 tablespoons arrowroot
1¾-2 cups brown rice flour
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon baking soda
1 tablespoon arrowroot baking powder
1 teaspoon grated orange peel
½ cup chopped nuts or seeds

Add tapioca and buttermilk or orange juice to banana. Set aside. In a large mixing bowl, beat eggs until thick and lemon colored. Beat in oil and honey. Set aside. Put the arrowroot into a 1 cup measure and fill the cup level with brown rice flour. Empty into a bowl and add ¾ cup more flour, and the salt, baking soda, and baking powder. Add banana mixture and flour mixture alternately to the egg mixture beginning and ending with flour mixture. Add more flour if needed to make medium-stiff batter. Stir in grated rind and nuts or seeds. Spoon into a well-greased 8x4-inch loaf pan. Bake at 350 degrees for 50-60 minutes or until a toothpick inserted in center of loaf comes out clean. Cool on wire rack 10-15 minutes before removing from pan. When cold, wrap loosely and store overnight in refrigerator before cutting.

Interesting Bean Facts

- Beans are excellent in stir-fry, stews, soups, salads, or steamed and topped with a little butter.
- Green beans are good sources of folic acid, vitamin A and vitamin C and have a fair amount of iron.
- Look for a crisp bean that snaps easily between your fingers. They should be firm and slender with a fresh, vivid color and a velvety feel.
- Store unwashed beans for up to one week in a plastic bag in the refrigerator.
- Green beans don't only come in green. You can find yellow, red, and purple beans, too.
- Dry bean varieties come in a wide range of colors and may even be speckled with multiple colors.

Pressure Can Beans

Since green beans are a low acid vegetable, remember to process them in a pressure canner at 10 pounds pressure (20 minutes for pints, 25 for minutes quarts).

Going On A Picnic

Some of my fondest childhood memories are of family picnics. Such an outing can be an inexpensive way to spend quality time with your child, have fun, get fit, and build family traditions. The variety of experiences is limited only by your imagination.

Dads can play a special role in these activities. Local parks may have large grassy areas to play ball, or equipment already in place to enjoy such as swings, volleyball nets, and maybe even a pool!

You can help your youngsters find active ways to spend leisure time, build skills, teach values, and strengthen your relationship. Perhaps Mom will appreciate some quiet time while you are engaged in these activities.

Food does not have to be elaborate. The adventure of the outing will make anything seem special. If you pack a bag lunch that will be eaten more than two hours later, you can take foods that will not spoil such as peanut butter or cheese sandwich, fruit, juice, pretzels, carrot sticks, and cookies. If you're roughing it where there are no washing facilities, don't forget some disposable wipes or a wet washcloth in a plastic bag for cleaning hands.

Occasionally indulging in a cooked meal outdoors can be exciting. Grilling hamburgers at a park or cooking hot dogs on a stick, followed by toasting marshmallows to make s'mores (if you haven't tried the classic graham cracker squares sandwiching a piece of a chocolate bar and a toasted marshmallow, do so soon) makes a memorable meal!

Setting up a cooking fire or finding and preparing a roasting stick is a skill you can share with your older youngsters.

Today we're more aware of the importance of thoroughly cooking all ground or processed meats (to 160 F.) to prevent foodborne illness. Keep meat cold until ready to use, always use a clean plate to put cooked meat on, and discard any not eaten within two hours. Also keep potato or other salads cold until you eat them and return to cooler immediately after eating. If the temperature is over 90 degrees, these could spoil in one hour.

Of course, if time and energy

How Many Cows Can You Fit In A Box?

WILLIAMSBURG, Va. — The Williamsburg® Products Program recently introduced a barnyard of fun in a box with its Rare Breed Animal Cookies.

Colonial Williamsburg's internationally acclaimed Rare Breeds program was formed in 1986 to help save unusual animal breeds similar to those found in the 18th century colonial capital.

Artist renderings of animals in the Historic Area were used to develop acrylic molds to create two-ounce boxes of tasty, kid-friendly and educational cookies featuring:

- Leicester Longwool Sheep. Leicester (pronounced "lester") Longwools originated in Britain and are known for their long, curly coats. Their wool is sold to hand spinners, weavers, felters and dollmakers for hair and beards. Colonial Williamsburg's flock originated from Tasmania, but the sheep now are bred here.

- American Milking Red Devon Cows. These intelligent work animals are easily spotted in the Historic Area because of their curly horns. Their milk contains a high butterfat content, which was prized in the 18th century for butter and cheese production.

- American Cream Draft Horses. The only modern breed in the program also is the rarest — less than 300 exist in North America. American Cream Draft horses are the only breed of draft horse originating from the U.S. These popular and docile horses pull wagons and carriages throughout Colonial Williamsburg's Historic Area.

- Canadian Horses. Colonial Williamsburg's most recent addition to the Rare Breeds program, Canadian horses were developed from horses sent from France to Quebec between 1665 and 1670. Canadian horses are primarily black or reddish brown with full manes and tails. They were used for farm work, transport, riding and racing.

- Hamburg Roosters and Chickens. Popular in 18th century Williamsburg, Hamburg chickens are known for their ability to forage widely and produce large quantities of eggs. Small in stature, Hamburg chickens have slender legs, neat red combs and symmetrical form. Colonial Williamsburg breeds the silver spangled variety of the Hamburg chicken.

Boxes of these can be ordered in units of a half dozen or dozen through the Williamsburg® Catalog or Website at www.williamsburgmarketplace.com.

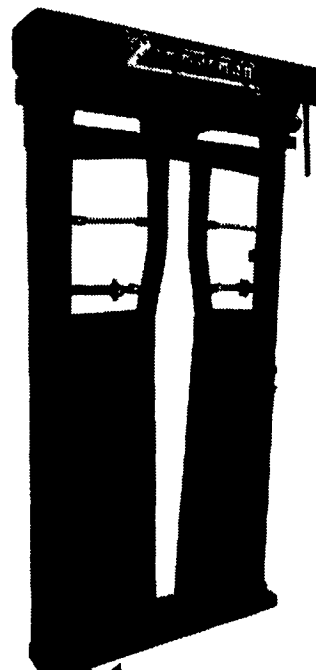

Boxes of rare breed animal cookies feature animals that were part of daily life during colonial times. These cookies draw attention to Colonial Williamsburg's Rare Breeds program began in 1986 to save animals similar to those that lived in the 18th century.

Kid Fun Involves Adults At Lebanon Area Fair

LOU ANN GOOD
Food And Family
Features Editor

LEBANON (Lebanon Co.) — Who has the most fun at the fair?

Kids, parents, and grandparents all claim the fair is a super place for family fun.

At the Lebanon Area Fair this week, the rabbit pens were full.

Miranda Fasnacht, 12, held a furry mass of white.

Josh Ebright, 8, shows off his Mini-Rex solid white that was named best of show at Lebanon Area Fair. With him are his sister Lauren, 5, and Grandpa Bob Schaeffer, Annville, who helped him get started in rabbit competition.

Tim Werner, 4, holds Zeus. Tim's brothers, Chris, 13, and Alex, 15, show off the long ears of the English Lop. The brothers, sons of Sue and Jeff Werner, Lebanon, entered 34 rabbits, goats named Trouble and Milton, and heifers.

"It's an English Angora," the proud owner said of her bunny that attracted quite a bit of attention. "Mr. Snowball" won best of opposite from his female counterpart, a chocolate colored Angora, also owned by Miranda.

To prepare Mr. Snowball for showing, Miranda and her mother covered the rabbit with cornstarch, then blew the Angora's fur with a vacuum cleaner to separate the hairs. Mr. Snowball sat quietly enjoying the vacuum breeze on a hot afternoon.

This was Miranda's first fair competition and she collected two rosettes and four first places for her Angora and Jersey Woolies breeds.

Best of Show over all breeds was a Mini-Rex solid white buck owned by Josh Ebright, 8, Lebanon.

This was the first year he entered competition. His grandpa, Bob Schaeffer of Clay Valley Farm, Annville, was quite pleased with his grandson's trophy.

Schaeffer said that he never thought he'd get interested in rabbits. He had raised steers for years and watched many family members show them. Several years ago, his son had a steer that he raised for 4-H. The steer refused to calm down for showing. The son decided he wanted to show rabbits.

The first year of showing, his son was at the bottom of competition. "I thought I'd crawl under the table," Schaeffer said of his embarrassment. Instead, he asked questions and learned the characteristics rabbit showing required. Since then the family has become well known in the show circuit and has acquired numerous champions in several breeds.

"I'm not sorry I got into rabbits. I love them — I'd never thought I'd say that," Schaeffer said. "We travel the shows. It's time spent with my boys that money could never buy."

Schaeffer said, "We run it as a business, although rabbits would never pay the mortgage."

Fairgoers on Tuesday night saw some unusual sights — sheep dressed in odd clothing and paraded around by competitors dressed as a cop, a bat girl, and a market-goer. These were entries in the sheep decorating contest.

But the real interest behind the dressed woolies were the delightful stories written by the girls who entered the competition. While they paraded their lambs around the ring, an adult read the story.

First place went to Becky Eisenhower, who dressed as a cop, arrested a shoplifter named Bonnie alias her sheep. The portrayal included handcuffing the sheep.

Second place went to Samantha Cohr, 11, Myerstown. She led a sheep who thought he was a piggy in quest of finding out why that little piggy in the poem "This Little Piggy Went to Market" cried the whole way home.

Mary Ellen Whitmoyer, 12, placed third for her portrayal as a bat girl for the Atlanta Braves.

Taking first place in the lamb decorating competition is Becky Eisenhower, 14, acting out a cops-and-robbers story with her lamb cast as Bonnie the shoplifter.

Huffy the Clown prepares a balloon-shaped crown for these kids visiting the Lebanon Area Fair.

LEBANON (Lebanon Co.)—Nathan Tice's crossbred gilt's big frame, long spine, and muscle caught the attention of the judge at the Lebanon Area Fair.

Named champion heavy-weight, Tice's hog also clinched the grand champion title overall.

The 16-year-old Tice, son of Tom and Deb Tice, Lebanon, said that this was the first year he won top placing at his local fair.

"I walked her every day," Tice said of its hefty muscling.

Eleven-year-old Kurt Fleener, son of Tim and Sarah Fleener of Robesonia, took reserve championship with his crossbred named Lone Star.

To win, Kurt said, "Try your best. It helps if you know how to pick it out."

Kurt was alluding to choosing his project pig from litters of show stock.

What's Cookin' At Lebanon Area Fair?

LOU ANN GOOD
Food And Family
Features Editor

LEBANON (Lebanon Co.)—Some of the best bakers in Lebanon County and surrounding areas competed for top placings in the Lebanon Area Fair contests for apple pie, brownies, chocolate cake, and quick bread.

Only the first place in each category is eligible to advance to top competition at the state level, where substantial prizes are awarded. For this reason, many of the same contestants enter year after year in search of that elusive win.

Some contestants, such as Belinda Myers, Dallastown, and Dorothy Martin and her daughter Deb Martin of Conestoga, enter as many as seven fairs to qualify for state competition. It's their dream to sweep all categories.

Some people use the same recipe year after year, but not Belinda. She said, "You've got to come back with something different every year."

She and her daughter Katie have garnered numerous winnings from local fairs and have placed first at the state level several times. "I love to bake. And I'm going to keep entering until I hit it with the apple and shoo-fly pies," Belinda said.

The Martin mother-and-daughter team also change their recipes. Both have won numerous times at the state level.

At Monday's competition, Belinda took first place in the chocolate cake competition; Dorothy Martin, second; and Melissa Graeff, Palmyra, third.

American Honey Queen Renee Blatt, Lebanon, baked the best apple pie. This was her first time placing in the pie competition. Coming in second was Connie Knauss, Myerstown, and Dorothy Martin placed third.

Renee said that she called up Kelly Miller, a Manheim beekeeper, for advice on baking a prize-winning pie using honey. Kelly gave her several pointers that Renee adapted into her recipe. One of these was cutting leaf-shapes from the pie dough to decorate the top. Renee also used the recipe for her grandmother's crust.

"My grandmother watched me make it to make sure I did everything right, but she didn't help me," Renee said.

Neither did the two taste it, since it was the first time she tried the recipe.

The brownie and chocolate cookie category is reserved for youth. Rachel Siegel, Lebanon, placed first; Andrea Dice, Fredericksburg, second; and Katherine Hess, Myerstown, third.

New this year was the quick bread contest. Pennsylvania's Simply Delicious program sponsored this contest to show creative ways to uses at least one cup of state-grown vegetables in the quick bread.

Belinda Myers also swept the quick bread recipe with her Korny Korn Bread. "I got up early, picked corn, cut it off the cob, and added this and that," Belinda said of her secret for success.

Deb Martin placed second with her bread that contained an unusual ingredient — lavender, a herb.

Third place went to Linda Siegel, Lebanon. Since the Siegels raise produce to sell and are members of the Pennsylvania Vegetable Growers, it's only natural that Linda continually incorporates the produce she raises into her recipes. She was especially proud that her 11-year-old daughter Rachel won the brownie contest her first try.

Lori Dice said that her sister had won at Lebanon County last year. Both entered this year's competition. It was the first time Lori entered and she was pleased to place above her sister.

Here are some of the recipes entered. First-place recipes are not printed until after state competition.

Heavenly Hash Brownies

1 cup butter
¼ cups unsweetened cocoa
4 eggs
1¼ cups sugar
1½ cups all purpose flour
2 cups chopped nuts (choice)
2 teaspoon vanilla

Creamy cocoa icing follows:

Icing:

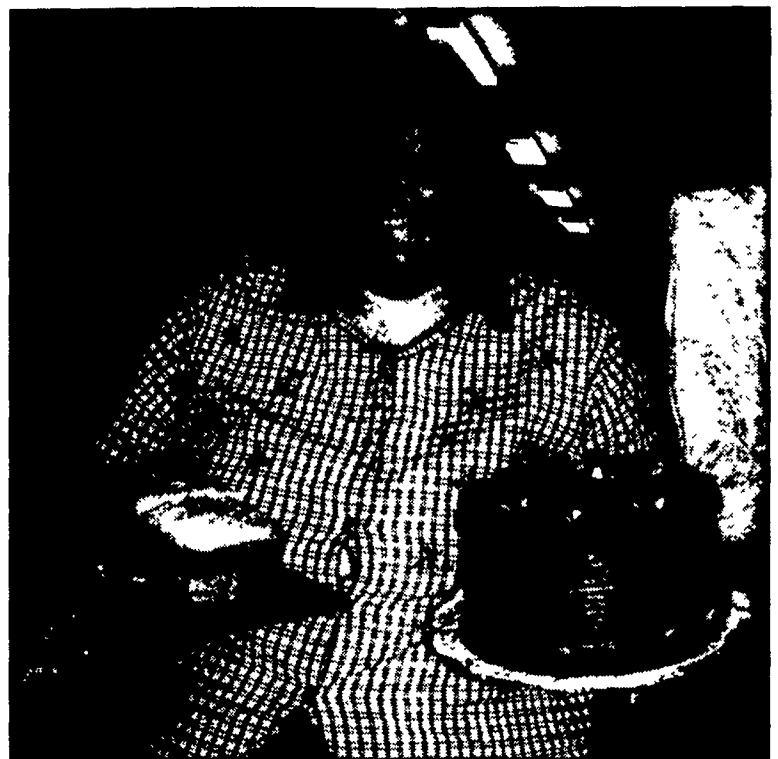

6 tablespoons butter
¾ cups evaporated milk
6 cups powdered sugar
¾ cups unsweetened cocoa

Preheat oven at 350 degrees. Grease 13 by 9 pan. Melt butter in sauce pan. Stir in cocoa. Remove from heat. Beat in eggs, sugar, add flour, nuts, vanilla. Spread even in pan. Bake 20-30 minutes. Do not over bake it. Prepare topping by adding all icing ingredients in medium sauce pan over medium heat. When brownies are done, pour marshmallows over brownies right away and cover with hot top icing to your liking. Let cool completely and then cut.

Andrea Dice

Belinda Myers hit the jackpot with her chocolate cake and quick bread entries. Lebanon was the first fair of seven that Belinda usually enters items.

Culinary expertise runs in the Siegel family. Linda and her daughter Rachel achieved first-place wins at Lebanon Area Fair, qualifying them to advance to state competition.

Lebanon Fair Queen Jennifer Watson shows off a quilted skirt she designed and entered in the fair. The 17-year-old is homeschooled and hopes to become an inner-city teacher for middle school students. "That's the age they are most influenced by others," Jennifer said of her desire to guide them into positive actions. The fair queen competition required a written essay, interview with judges, a speech, and answering the impromptu question of naming the biggest detriment to the U.S. and its greatest asset. She said the nation's greatest asset is its godly foundation, but its detriment is people's callous attitude toward each other.

American Honey Queen Renee Blatt holds the prize-winning apple pie that includes honey — of course. Renee also garnered ribbons for numerous other entries such as sweet and jalapeno peppers, sunflowers, and swine. She raises 30 varieties of sunflowers for extension research.

Incorporating creativity and good flavor into their baking projects paid off for Connie Knauss, Dorothy Martin and daughter Deb Martin.

Candy Apple Pie

6 cups thinly sliced peeled baking apples
2 tablespoons lime juice
¼ cup sugar
¼ cup all purpose flour
½ teaspoon cinnamon or nutmeg
¼ teaspoon salt
Pastry for double crust pie (9 inches)
2 tablespoons butter
Topping:
¼ cup butter
½ cup packed brown sugar
2 tablespoons heavy cream
½ cup chopped pecans
In a large bowl, toss apples with lime juice. Combine dry ingredients, add to the apples and toss lightly. Place bottom pastry in a 9-inch pie plate and fill with apple mixture. Dot with butter.

Cover with top crust. Flute edges high and cut steam vents.

Bake at 400 degrees for 40-45 minutes or until golden brown and apples are tender. Meanwhile, for topping, melt butter in a small saucepan. Stir in brown sugar and cream. Bring to a boil, stirring constantly. Remove from the heat and stir in pecans. Pour over top crust. Return to the oven for 3-4 minutes or until bubbly. Serve warm. Yield: 8 servings.

Goschenhoppen Folk Festival Is Aug. 11

GREEN LANE (Montgomery Co.) — History will repeat itself at the Goschenhoppen Folk Festival on Friday, Aug. 10 and Saturday, Aug. 11, in East Greenville. Offering a unique, authentic and educational re-creation of the life and customs of the Pennsylvania Germans in the 18th and 19th centuries, the festival is sponsored by the Goschenhoppen historians.

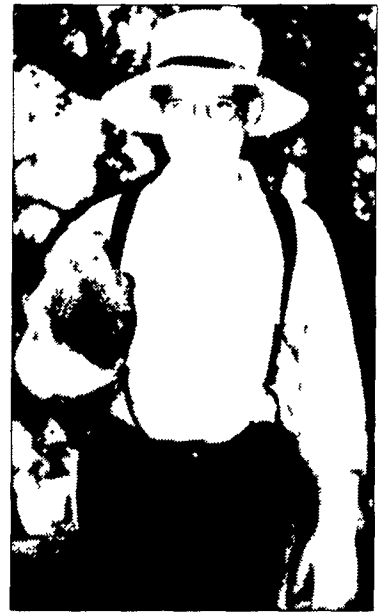

Committed to folk cultural authenticity, the Goschenhoppen historians create an atmosphere that will captivate those who already love history and stir as interest in those unfamiliar with past customs. More than 1,000 participants from all ages reenact a myriad of activities and tasks of the Pennsylvania German people of 100-200 years ago. Trade skills done by the potter, wheelwright, chair caner, and pump borer will be demonstrated by the men while the women portray various skills like food preparation, sewing and mending, spinning and corn husk doll making. Live animals are included to make the atmosphere all the more convincing.

"Domestic Fowl" is the theme for this year's event. Festival folk in period costume will demonstrate old-time practices related to the care and keeping of chickens, ducks, guinea fowl, geese and other barnyard fowl on the Pennsylvania German homestead. Visitors will see how a Pennsylvania German made use of every part of their farm fowl including cooking with eggs and meat, using down and feathers for bedding, and medicinal use of the fat from the birds. Festival participants will demonstrate how Easter egg decorating was done in the early 19th century.

The festival is at the New Goschenhoppen Park on Third Street in East Greenville, just off Route 29 in northern Montgomery County. The festival runs from noon to 8 p.m. on Friday, and 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. on Saturday, rain or shine. Visitors donate $7; admission is free for children 12 and under, accompanied by an adult.

Pets are not permitted in the park. For group rate or more in-

Kutztown Places First In Meat Evaluation

The Meats Evaluation Team of Kutztown FFA recently captured first place at the Pennsylvania State FFA Convention conducted at Penn State University.

Team members are Andrew, Anson, and Erin Dietrich, all seniors at Kutztown Area High School. They will now compete at the National FFA Convention, which will be in October in Louisville, Ky. Individually, Anson finished first; Erin finished second; and Andrew, sixth.

The Ag Sales Team

finished a close third place in their competition. The team consisted of Jessica Hoppes (who received a bronze award), Dean Dietrich, Sarah Kershner and Joey Mengel. Megan Adams also received a bronze award in horse judging.

Also attending the convention were Kellie Phillips and Nate Stettler competing in horse judging; Kara Brendlinger, dairy foods; and Jon Seaman, meats evaluation. The Kutztown FFA scrapbook placed sixth and received a silver award. Mrs. Celeste Ball, chapter adviser, accompanied the group.

4-H, FFA Youths Compete At Philadelphia County Fair

PHILADELPHIA — At the Philadelphia County Fair, which took place in Fairmont Park in June, about 100 4-H and FFA students competed for more than $5,000 in premiums in various shows. All of the show animals were housed at the Walter Biddle Saul High School farm on Henry Avenue. All of the participants are students at the city school. In addition to the shows, a sale of market swine was conducted.

Booklet Features Bonus Dairy Coverage

For Producers Issue Date: Saturday,
September 22

Deadline: August 31

Lancaster Farming's Dairy Plus to reach out to more than 100,000 readers in Northeast and Mid-Atlantic

Booklet will feature bonus dairy news, information

As milk production reaches new heights, dairy producers are not only looking for the latest news on expansion of herd or facilities, but for ways to get the most out of their equipment dollar.

Lancaster Farming's Dairy Plus Booklet will focus on large-scale producers who either are looking toward herd expansion, constructing new facilities or farm renovation, or looking for other ways to market their milk.

Dairy Plus will feature news about dairying never before published in the Northeast's largest weekly farm newspaper. That includes the latest information on business partnering, nontraditional dairy marketing (including goat and sheep milk production, cheesemaking, and ice cream), and news from milk cooperatives and processors.

The booklet will include dairy farm features, additional DHIA information new to Lancaster Farming, business hirings and expansion, and regulatory news information.

A big part of the booklet will be news and information about nutrient management, a key issue with dairies.

Included in Dairy Plus will be columns about the latest in dairy management written by Penn State experts and a farm calendar of events.

Includes:

- Dairy Herd and Facility Expansion
- Dairy Farm Feature
- Penn State Dairy Management Team Report
- Nutrient Management Update
- Dairy Business News
- Dairy Calendar of Events
- Extensive DHIA Reports

Well Preserved

Jams and Jellies

The Well Preserved news column is prepared by Lancaster County Cooperative Extension. It includes food preservation information and questions received in the office.

What is the difference between a jam and a jelly? Jams and jellies are just two of several types of fruit spreads. Jellies are made from fruit juices and are clear with a firm texture that holds its shape. Jams are made from crushed or mashed fruit and are less firm than jellies. Other fruit spreads include preserves made from whole or cut up fruit in a clear slightly jelled syrup, marmalades made with citrus fruit, conserves made from a mixture of different fruits, and butters made of thickened fruit sauces.

What ingredients are needed to make a jam or jelly? Fruit provides the flavor. The jell consistency occurs with the proper proportion of pectin, acid, and sugar. Pectin may come from the fruit or from commercially prepared fruit pectin. If the fruit does not contain enough acid, the recipe may call for added lemon juice. Beet or cane sugar should be used in most recipes. Liquid sugar, honey, and artificial sugars may not be substituted for sugar in recipes. They must be used in recipes specifically designed for them.

What is pectin? Pectin is a natural substance occurring in some fruits which causes jelly to thicken or "jell." Grapes and apples contain larger amounts of pectin allowing for a better consistency than low pectin fruits. Using only the pectin occurring naturally in the fruit requires cooking the jelly for long periods of time reducing the fruit flavor.

Many people prefer to use commercially available pectin where the quality control makes it possible to make fresh flavored jams and jellies quickly and more dependably with a fresher fruit flavor. Pectin comes in liquid and powdered form. Use a recipe developed for the form you are using—they are not interchangeable. Check the "use by" date on the package of pectin. Avoid using an expired product or one that has caked in the package or turned brown. Liquid pectin that has turned watery or thickened to a jell should also be discarded.

How are jellies canned? Fill sterilized mason jars with hot jam or jelly leaving ¼ inch headspace, wipe sealing surface, apply a new two piece lid prepared according to manufacturer's directions.

After screw bands are tightened, process jars in a boiling water canner.

Why should jams and jellies be processed? It is no longer recommended that paraffin be used to seal jelly glasses as mold and yeast spoilage results too readily with this method.

How are jellies and jams processed? Fill canner halfway with water and preheat to 180 degrees. Use canner rack to load sealed jars or lower one jar at a time with a jar lifter onto rack in canner. Add hot water as needed to a level of one inch above jars and cover. Bring water to a vigorous boil, lower heat to maintain a gentle boil, and process five minutes. Count processing time when water comes to a vigorous boil. After processing, immediately remove jars from canner and place on a towel or rack. Air cool jars 12 to 24 hours. When cool, remove screw bands and check lid seals. If sealed, wash, dry, label, and store in clean, cool dark place.

A Home Economist is available to answer your food preservation questions on Wednesdays from 9:00 a.m.—1:00 p.m. Call (717) 394-6851 or write Penn State Cooperative Extension, Lancaster County, 1383 Arcadia Road, Room 1, Lancaster, PA 17601.

Dark Spots On Silver

Dark spots on sterling or silver plate items are usually caused when wet flatware comes into contact with undissolved or highly concentrated detergent. Here are some solutions you can try:

- Close dispenser cup before running the dishwasher.

- Don't sprinkle or pour dishwasher detergent directly on flatware.

- Follow dishwasher manufacturer's instructions for loading the dishwasher.

- Place sterling or silver plate items as far away as possible from the dispenser cups.

To remove existing spots, use silver polish and then rewash the items.

This column is for readers who have questions but don't know who to ask for answers.

"You Ask-You Answer" is for non-cooking questions. When a reader sends in a question, it will be printed in the paper. Readers who know the answer are asked to respond by mailing the answer, which will then be printed in the paper.

Questions and Answers to this column should be addressed to You Ask-You Answer, Lancaster Farming, P.O. Box 609, Ephrata, PA 17522. Attention: Lou Ann Good.

Or, you may e-mail questions and answers to lgood.eph@lnpnews.com

Please clarify what question you are answering when responding.

Do not send a self-addressed, stamped envelope for a reply. If we receive the answer, we will publish it as soon as possible. Please include your phone number because we sometimes need to contact the person to clarify details. We will not publish your phone number unless you request it.

ANSWER — Arlene Lingie thanks Joyce Stuff for answering her request for finding roof paint.

ANSWER — For those who want additional information on fireflies, Eric Gingerich, Oxford, writes that Dr. Tom Turpin of Purdue University recently wrote a good article about the biology of fireflies that was printed in the "Farmer's Exchange," New Paris, Ind. You can e-mail Turpin at tomturpin@entm.purdue.edu or by phone (765) 494-4568.

Thanks to Richard Mecronis, Fair Lawn, N.J., for sending some additional information about fireflies: Inside the firefly's belly are some special cells that contain luciferin and luciferase. When the firefly pushes oxygen into these special cells, the oxygen and chemicals combine with two other chemicals: magnesium and adenosine triphosphate or ATP. The combination acts like a fuel. The luciferin changes into a very unstable, high-energy form. As it returns to its normal state, it gives off energy in the form of light. This process is called bioluminescence.

Scientists say the firefly controls its bioluminescence by controlling the amount of oxygen it lets into the abdomen, which causes the firefly to glow very briefly for an instant.

If you want to catch fireflies and bring them inside, follow these tips: Put a slice of apple, leaves, and grass in the jar. Don't poke holes in the lid or the jar will dry out. Keep the jar out of sunlight and free fireflies within 24 hours.

ANSWER — Ben Kinsinger will pay a good price for the ice cream freezers L. Casteel wanted to sell. He requests that Casteel call him at (814) 634-1918 or write 686 Kinsinger Rd., Myersdale, Pa 15552.

ANSWER — Mark Siegrist, Fredericksburg, requested the words and music to the old song, "You'll Never Miss Your Mother 'til She's Gone." Thanks to B.B. for sending the words that he remembers his mother singing when he was boy.

You'll Never Miss Your Mother 'til She's Gone
Oh, my mother she was true

To her children and her home

She was kind and true and loved us all

'Twas her hand that touched my brow

I can almost feel it now

You'll never miss your mother 'til she's gone.

Father he was good and kind

Told we should never mind

Another one would share our ills and pains

I praise God for his sweet name.

For He's always just the same

You'll never miss your mother 'til she's gone.

Now from home I've gone away

But I'll think of her each day

My mother often prayed for me at home

Troubles, trials to endure.

Try to live a life that's pure

And to meet my dear-old mother in her home.

Carrot Family Contains 2 Highly Poisonous Plants

COLUMBUS, Ohio — The carrot family, which boasts a variety of familiar edibles such as parsley, celery, carrots, anise, fennel, and cilantro, also contains two highly poisonous plants that many people confuse for their nontoxic counterparts.

Martin Quigley, an Ohio State University assistant professor of landscape ecology, said people should learn to recognize poison hemlock and wild parsnip. These plants look similar to and smell like other plants in the carrot family (Apiaceae, formerly known as Umbelliferae). Both plants originated in Europe, but are now commonly found in Ohio, growing in wet, wooded areas and open fields, and along roadsides and railroad tracks.

"Poison hemlock, which has nothing to do with the evergreen hemlock tree, is very hard to distinguish from other family members," said Quigley. "It's earned the nickname fool's parsley. Because the leaves smell and look just like those of a large wild carrot there have been cases of adults, children and farm animals accidentally being poisoned by eating just a leaf or two."

Poison hemlock, most famous as the plant that was used to execute the Greek philosopher Socrates, can be fatal if ingested. The plant was used through the 19th century as a narcotic and an anticoagulant and to treat inflammatory diseases, but was discontinued because of the uncertainty of dosage required. Coniine, the active ingredient in the plant, is also a poison that causes paralysis of the muscles, including those used for breathing. There is no known antidote.

Poison hemlock is the most toxic indigenous plant in North America. Reports of hemlock poisoning are rare, but it has happened. The Center for Disease Control reports that from 1979 to 1988 (the most recent national data available) at least 58 people died after ingesting a poisonous plant that was misidentified as an edible fruit or vegetable. Five of those deaths were caused by poison hemlock.

Quigley said the main feature that distinguishes poison hemlock from other carrot family members is its tall size. "It's the tallest of the carrot family, growing to more than six feet in moist conditions," he said.

Wild parsnip also looks similar to other carrot family members. The plant is relatively harmless if ingested, but causes severe burns if the juice of the plant comes into contact with the skin.

"The plant is highly photophoto-toxic, meaning that the juice only reacts with the skin when sunlight hits it," said Quigley, showing his scarred arm as evidence. "I wore a T-shirt while leading a wildflower walk, and broke some stems without even realizing it. There is no recognized treatment, but one way to reduce the rash is to use athlete's foot ointment to try to dry it up."

Deep golden yellow flowers, which are present on the plant through July, distinguish wild parsnip from its lighter yellow-flowering family members. Plants in the carrot family are easily recognized by their fern-like leaves and the prominent white or yellow flat-topped cluster of flowers that grows in an umbrella-like position.

Ignorance, Quigley said, is the biggest reason why people confuse poisonous plants with harmless ones. "People are always out in the woods hunting for edible plants. But our society is largely urban now. When most Americans were farmers, everyone knew what to look out for. Now, most people don't know the difference between good plants and those that can be dangerous."

Quigley said the best recommendation when dealing with wild plants is to avoid them altogether. "Don't pick or attempt to eat anything if you are not absolutely certain you know what it is," he said.

This 1938 McCormick-Deering grain binder is undergoing cleaning and reconditioning in preparation for the museum display of 6,000 years of small grains from clay sickle to modern day combine. The grain binder run by a one horse power electric motor so visitors can see how it operates.

Pasto Agriculture Museum Features 6,000 Years Of Small Grains

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — "Six Thousand Years of Small Grains" will be the featured theme at the Pasto Agricultural Museum during Penn State's Ag Progress Days Aug. 14-16.

Visitors can see historic grain production items used for soil preparation, sowing, harvesting/handling, threshing, power, cleaning and grain handling.

The collection begins with a 6,000-year-old clay sickle and concludes with a horse-drawn binder and photographs of horse-drawn combines, according to Darwin Braund, museum curator. The latter items are representative of those that closed the human- and animal-power era in most of the U.S. by the 1940s.

"For centuries, the harvesting and threshing of small grains required more labor than growing them," says Braund. "Thus, much attention was paid to improving the harvest. It was the

In the earliest days, the heads of grain were hand-picked from each stalk, and then threshed by rubbing them between the hands, explains Braund. A flint stone with a sharp edge was the earliest mechanized cutter. Clay sickles were made in areas with no stones.

Sickles made of bronze, an alloy of copper and tin, followed the clay models. They in turn were replaced when the Iron Age made sharper blades possible. New designs of the tools improved efficiency in their use.

"A large time line on the museum wall will cover the 6,000 years and describe the concurrent developments in harvesting and threshing small grains," says Braund. "Visitors will see a self-raking reaper (1830s) and grain binder (1930s) operating in the museum, as well as a horse-tread-powered threshing machine (1870s)."

The Pasto Agricultural Museum collection has more than 750 antique implements used for farming and rural life. Visitors can tour the museum during Ag Progress Days and by appointment. Groups of 10 or more can schedule tours from now through Oct. 15 by calling (814) 863-1383, sending an e-mail to pastoagmu@psu.edu, or registering through the World Wide Web at cas.psu.edu.

Penn State's Ag Progress Days is conducted at the Russell E. Larson Agricultural Research Center at Rockspring, nine miles southwest of State College on Route 45. Hours are 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Tuesday; 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. on Wednesday; and 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Thursday. Admission and parking are free.

For more information, call (800) PSU-1010 toll free from July 9 to Aug. 16 or visit the Ag Progress Days Website at <http://apd.cas.psu.edu>.

All-Dairy Antiques Show To Feature Guernsey Breed Items

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — The fourth annual All-Dairy Antiques and Collectibles Show Sept. 22-26, Harrisburg, will feature Guernsey breed items. This decision by the planning committee has excited Guernsey breeders and enthusiasts in Pennsylvania and surrounding states.

The show will open at 10 a.m. on Saturday, Sept. 22 in the Farm Show Complex. It will run through Wednesday, Sept. 26. On Sunday, Sept. 23, from 2-4 p.m., a special open house and program will be conducted for dairy farm families and the general public. It will feature free ice cream items and give parents and grandparents a special opportunity to share their knowledge and experiences of earlier dairy farm life with their younger generations. At 3 p.m., special recognition will be given to all exhibitors by show officials.

Last year 49 exhibitors from 10 states provided exhibits of dairy antiques, collectibles, milk bottles, and "go with" items of all types. This year, about 70 exhibitors are expected. Most will have many items for sale or trade.

Special Guernsey exhibits will be provided by Rutter's Dairy, York. The Rutter families are nationally known breeders of top quality Guernsey cattle and long time processors of milk and other dairy products. They will exhibit a life size model Guernsey cow and calf. In addition, three of their restored delivery vehicles will be displayed — a horse drawn milk wagon used in the 1920s, a 1936 Thorne gas/electric truck used in the 1930s and 40s, and a 1967 Ford which was used during the final years of home delivery.

About 80 percent of Americans had their milk and other dairy products delivered in the 1950s. During the 1970s, with the rise of mothers working away from home, the numbers dropped to 10 percent. Today, less than one percent of Americans have milk delivered to their homes.

Pasto Agricultural Museum To Hold Auction At Ag Progress Days

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Penn State's Pasto Agricultural Museum will conduct its second silent auction during Ag Progress Days, Aug. 14 and 15, to help generate funds to preserve our rich heritage of agriculture and rural living. Proceeds will benefit the Penn State Ag Alumni Endowment for the Pasto Agricultural Museum.

More than 100 items, from a baby llama to a new John Deere lawn tractor, have been donated, according to Darwin Braund, museum curator. "Buyers will find items to meet practically any interest, need and checking account," he says.

Items include antique hand tools and furniture, newer and antique model tractors, a year's supply of Penn State Creamery ice cream, meats from the University Meats Lab, and gift certificates for tools, dinners, perennial plants, seed corn and shoes.

Farm production items include bull semen, one ton of Agway calf feed, tires for a farm wagon and skid steer loader, a galvanized farm gate, fence wire, dry cow treatments for mastitis, a barn ventilation fan, a six foot diameter stock-watering tank, alfalfa and corn seed and a year's subscription to Lancaster Farming.

Donations for fun and recreation include Penn State football tickets, Nittany Valley Symphony tickets, a full day of fly-fishing on the world-famous Spruce Creek trout stream in Huntingdon County and a major league baseball and baseball card, both signed by Bellefonte native Eric Milton, starting pitcher for the Minnesota Twins.

Items for ideal Christmas gifts include handmade wooden bowls (including one made from spalted Alabama pecan wood), unusual birdhouses, antique railroad (PRR and B&O) and skaters' lanterns, milk and other bottles, dolls, an antique baby crib, children's toys, framed photos including early pictures of the Penn State campus, Ag Hill

Several books will be auctioned, including ones describing old-time agriculture, a former farm boy's experiences of living in Poland, and Penn State football living legends Joe Paterno and Jerry Sandusky.

Books by Penn State authors on losing weight safely and cooking are included, as well as an autographed copy of former President Jimmy Carter's latest book, "An Hour Before Daylight — Memories of a Rural Boyhood."

Historic articles include an 1896 Rand McNally school map of the U.S. and Mexico, and 1923 and 1925 gold and silver ROM medals awarded by the American Jersey Cattle Club from 1911 through the late '40s.

Auction catalogues will be available from the museum office by mid-July and on site. All auction items will be on display at Ag Progress Days, Tuesday, Aug. 14 and Wednesday, Aug. 15 in the tent beside the museum. Bidding will close promptly at 6 p.m. on Wednesday. Successful bidders can pick up their items after payment is processed Wednesday evening or make arrangements for shipping.

For more information, contact Darwin Braund: 238 Agricultural Administration Building, University Park, PA 16802; phone (814) 863-1383; e-mail pastoagmuseum@psu.edu.

Because this show is restricted to dairy antiques, collectibles, and milk bottles, it is unique on the East Coast. Exhibitors and visitors will find it a great place to see and buy, as well as learn, because much effort is devoted to making the displays educational with descriptive labels and signs.

Held in conjunction with the 38 All-American Dairy Show, the All-Dairy Antiques and Collectibles Show allows visitors to view seldom-seen dairy tools used in the late 1800s and early 1900s, while seeing some of the nation's modern and best dairy cattle in the barns and show ring.

Those interested in exhibiting free of charge should contact Dr. Darwin Braund, 238 Agricultural Administration Building, Penn State University, University Park, PA 16802-2600, phone (814) 863-1383, or Lolly Leshner, Pa. All-Dairy Antique Show, Farm Show Complex, 2301 North Cameron Street, Harrisburg, PA 17110, phone (717) 787-2905. Registration forms will be sent to all interested persons. Registration, admission and parking are free.

Antiques Questions And Answers

I've had these porcelain vases many years; a gift from my in-laws. I was told they are from the Tao Kiang period. Can you tell me what they are worth?

N.K. - Tamarac, FL

First, there is no such "period". From your photo you have late 19th to early 20th century famille verte (green) enameled, hexagonal form vases. Did you look for a maker or period seal or mark on the bottom? Check it out in a Miller's Price Guide in your library reference department. How tall are they? Prices differ with size. A similar pair of vases, 19th century sold at auction for $2,000. Hire an appraiser.

What do you think an antique dealer would offer me for this 1927 celadon color vase made by Bybee?

C.M.B. - Rock Hill, SC

No matter what you sell, an antique dealer will give a fraction of store value. For example, your vase, made in Bybee Kentucky, could sell in a shop for $80. A dealer probably would offer you $20. It could sell at auction for $40.

I am interested in information about a 29" girl doll with "Heinrich Handwerck, Simon and Halbig" stamped on the back of the head. The doll has original hair, porcelain head, teeth and wood jointed body. She was purchased in New York, approximately 1907.

J.S. - Hull, MA

Heinrich Handwerck manufactured dolls in Gotha, Germany. The heads were made by Simon & Halbig. The heads were made of bisque, not porcelain. You didn't mention if the clothes were original, which would add to the value. In good condition, and replaced clothes she could have a shop price of $700 or more.

Can you tell me something about this spoon that I purchased several years ago? The material is very pliable like pewter. It is eight inches long with a scalloped bowl on a very narrow stem. There are some engraved designs on the bowl and stem. I originally

Owner & Auctioneer Not Responsible For Accidents

THE ANTIQUE
DETECTIVE*Anne Gilbert*Tiny Snuff Bottles Not Always Old

Surprisingly old Chinese snuff bottles come to auction with regularity.

When they are authentic and 19th century to about 1910, they can sell for thousands of dollars.

Among the most expensive are those carved of jade and other semiprecious stones, along with those miniature masterpieces, inside painted snuff bottles.

There are also many selling at auction for a couple of hundred dollars. At a recent Skinner auction of Asian works of art prices ranged from $5,750 for a carved, jade snuff bottle to a lot of four ivory snuff bottles for $143.75. Even two interestingly carved agate snuff bottles were bargains at $201.25 the pair.

There are several reasons prices were on the low side. A large collection always seems to boost prices, since top quality pieces are included. This sale offered beginning collectors a good opportunity to get acquainted with the many types made, without spending too much money. Problems come with the many recent reproductions.

Clues: Beginning collectors should get acquainted with the look and feel of authentic pieces. For instance, jade-color stones are often passed off as jade. New snuff bottles are also lighter in weight and the workmanship isn't as good. In fact, many of the so-called inside paint bottles are brand new, with decals. Details are outlined. A jeweler's loupe shows them for what they are. New agate and jade-types, unlike old authentic ones, can be scratched across the bottom with any sharp objects. The "cinnabar" items are made of plastic and look fake.

Carefully examine for damage. Quartz and agate should be selected for the quality of the carving and the stone. Avoid any ceramic bottles that show firing faults and a poor figural image.

Jade snuff bottle, mid-19th century. Sold at Skinner's for $5,750. Photo by Skinner Auctions, Bolton/Boston, Mass.

"Ming" is a good name to drop in the snuff bottle category. It should be "dropped" since snuff was barely known in the Ming dynasty. Yet, before World War II, ceramic snuff bottles, with colored, raised biscuit work were sold to tourists and labeled "Ming." Originally, they came in sets of four to eight and were sold at Chinese seaports. These days, they are sold separately, in silk-lined boxes for several hundred dollars to the unknowledgeable.

By the 1970s, collecting snuff bottles had become a "hot hobby." The tourists who flooded mainland China at the time bought snuff bottles from baskets, sold by street vendors for a dollar a bottle. Many appeared to be painted inside. By the end of the 1970s, they were showing up at American antique shows as rare and old.

The earliest snuff bottles were made of incised bronze. From then on a variety of materials ranging from enamel and glass to semiprecious stones were fashioned into snuff containers. Snuff bottles generally measure no more than 2½ inches high, and were first made with a practical purpose in 17th century China.

Two names to remember as masters of the art of interior-painted snuff bottles are Ma Shao-Hsuan and Yeh Chung-San the Younger. A trademark of Ma Shao-Hsuan are rams and a bright sun. Rarest are his portraits of European subjects. When they come to auction they fetch five figures.

Originally snuff bottles came with a matching saucer or cup.

A.E.H. - Quincy, MA

From your color photo the motif is Chinese and the gold color on the edges and in the bowl suggests it could be brass with a pewter stem. Try some brass polish. Probably it was a serving spoon and made before 1870 since it isn't marked China. It could sell in a shop for $75 or more.

I have a painting by Wallace Nutting titled "Spring in the Berkshires". It is 10" X 13". It was a wedding present to my parents who married in 1915. Any information about the piece would be greatly appreciated.

T.B.S. - Scituate, MA

What you have is a color-tinted photo. Nutting sold millions from 1900 to 1941. Dealer, Michael Uvankovich specializes in all things Nutting from photos to the early American-style furniture he designed. He told me in mint condition your photo could sell for $150-275. For further information he can be reached on the Web at www.WNutting.com.

Can you tell me if there is any value to an assortment of old "trading cards"? No complete sets. They range from baseball cards to gum cards in the 1940s. Also some color drawings of baseball players such as Joe DiMaggio. How would I go about selling them?

M.L. - Abington, MA

Since some of your collection could be quite valuable as individual items if you want to be sure of getting the most value it will take some time on your part. Do a detailed listing of the baseball cards and drawings. Send it to Mr. David Goodwillie, sports memorabilia expert, Sotheby's Auction Gallery 1334 York Ave., New York, NY, 10021 and ask for an estimated value. If they aren't interested call in two or more dealers of such collectibles and ask what they would give for the entire collection. One of them may be honest enough to give you a fair price. Or, spend money and hire one of them to do an "insurance" appraisal. Don't tell them you want to sell. Then, if you decide to sell you should expect to get half or slightly less than the appraised value.

This Celtic cross made of different size pieces of paper, and glued on top of each other was made by my aunt in 1870. How much would it be worth today? It is in the original gilt frame on velvet.

C.G.F. - Braintree, MA

What a family treasure. As American folk art it could sell at auction for $900 or more.

I have a beautiful square, covered dish with blue and white flower motif. It is marked "Wood & Sons, Rhotan, semi-porcelain, England." Is it worth anything?

A.G. - Hingham, MA

Your Staffordshire, turn-of-the-century vegetable dish could have a shop price of $150.

Penn State Surveys Deer Hunter Attitudes

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Researchers in Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences are conducting several studies with the state's deer hunters to learn what they think about habitat, hunting practices, and various management approaches.

In one study, Grace Wang, a human dimensions specialist in the School of Forest Resources, is overseeing a survey of deer hunters' attitudes and opinions about habitat. More than 1,000 randomly selected hunting license buyers around the state were asked where they hunt, why they hunt where they do and what kind of success they have.

The survey was sent out last March. Sixty-one percent of survey recipients have returned questionnaires. Tabulated results will be used by the Pennsylvania Game Commission, which is funding the Penn State research. The commission wants to know what hunters think about a variety of issues, Wang says.

"The opinions of deer hunters are important," she said, "because hunting is so big in Pennsylvania, both economically and socially."

Wang says that the questions on the survey came from focus groups primarily made up of hunters. She says her research team learned a lot from meetings with focus group participants.

"Many hunters told us they don't like to harvest does. That's a problem for the Game Commission," she said, "because there are so many more does than bucks."

Approximately 1 million hunting licenses are sold in the state annually. In recent years it has become clear that hunter numbers are decreasing and the deer population is increasing statewide, noted Wang, who collaborates with other Penn State wildlife and forestry scientists on research for the Game Commission.

In some places in Pennsylvania, the buck-to-doe ratio may be as high as one buck to 10 does, according to Gary San Julian, professor of wildlife resources. The ratio varies greatly across the state, but wildlife scientists believe it is too high in most regions.

"Normally when deer are born, there are an equal number of males and females," San Julian said. "But we have put those numbers way out of kilter by the way we hunt deer, because every year 80 percent of all bucks are killed. We need to get the buck-to-doe ratio down to a more normal level of 2- or 3-to-1."

"The College of Agricultural

Sciences will be conducting two more deer-hunting-related surveys in the coming months. One will be a statewide follow-up effort to paint a more detailed picture of hunters' attitudes on issues including doe hunting, antler restrictions, hunting success and hunting area fidelity; the other will help determine why so many property owners post their land against public hunting.

Dr. Gary Alt, Game Commission deer management section supervisor, will use Penn State's research to tailor the state's deer-management plan.

"This survey will allow us to gain further insight into the Pennsylvania deer hunters and establish an understanding of deer hunter perceptions and characteristics," he said. "We hope to use results from this survey for staff recommendations for 2002 deer seasons and bag limits and for public education and outreach efforts."

A final report of survey results from the statewide hunter attitude survey will be presented to the Game Commission board at its January 2002 meeting.

Natural Fungus May Help Control Tick Population

COLUMBUS, Ohio — A naturally occurring fungus used as a biopesticide may have some application in controlling tick populations.

Ohio State University graduate student Ken Cradock is studying American dog ticks, collected in natural parks around the state, to determine whether the arachnids harbor Beauveria bassiana.

Cradock is hoping the ticks contain a strain of the fungus that is pre-adapted to killing ticks. Strains of the fungus currently exist as an active ingredient in greenhouse and outdoor pesticide products that target specific adult and larva insects, such as mosquitoes and flies, and eggs of lepidopteran pests, such as moths.

"Studies done around the world have shown that strains will kill certain insects, so it's possible that a strain exists that is lethal to ticks," said Cradock. "If we find that strain, then it will add a further component for IPM of ticks."

Beauveria bassiana strains control an insect by growing on it, secreting enzymes that break down the insect's cuticle, or outer coat, then enter the insect and continue to grow until they kill it. "It doesn't have the knock-down effect of chemicals. It takes some time for it to work," said Cradock.

"But the fungus is a much safer pesticide to use than chemicals and is much more environmentally friendly."

The Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) recognizes strains of Beauveria bassiana as safe and effective biopesticides. The organization has approved their use on ornamental plants, turfgrass, and food and other crops grown outdoors or in greenhouses.

There are no health risks to humans who apply the biopesticide to crops or eat foods sprayed with the product, and it is not toxic to mammals, birds or plants.

Cradock, with the help of OSU acarologist Glen Needham will be collecting ticks throughout the season until the first frost. They will be observing whether the ticks show signs of infection.

"On a high estimate, we expect to find three percent of ticks infected with the fungus, and then we have to determine if the strain is what killed the tick, or if another factor was involved," said Cradock. Depending on the success rate, Cradock expects to spend the next three years searching for the strain, collecting about 1,000 ticks a year.

Needham said that he and other OSU researchers are studying additional methods of tick control, including a tick's diapause, or period of inactivity during the season.

"Tick season usually runs from mid-April through July, after which the ticks go into some kind of hibernation and are no longer actively feeding," said Needham. "We want to see if the tick has a diapause gene or not."

Studies have also shown that ticks tend to migrate to grassy areas along roadways late in the season. Needham speculates the ticks are attracted to the large vibrations made by passing cars, thinking it's a big meal. "If we can determine that's what they are actually doing, then spraying along roads might also be a good method of control."

ROTO-MIX IV FEED MIXERS

With ROTO-MIX IV you reduce fines, minimize shrinkage, and eliminate dead spots. The gentle tumbling action mixes fragile flaked and high-moisture ingredients without grinding, resulting in a fluffier, more nutritional ration.

The ROTO-MIX end-to-end... side-to-side mixing system provides the most thorough TMR available, ensuring that your cattle will consume a balanced ration of nutrients in every pound of feed they eat.

In Loving Memory of Bryan L. Crouse

Entered into Life

February 25, 1953
Lebanon, Lebanon County, PA
48 years, 4 months, and 29 days

Entered into Eternal Rest

July 24, 2001
Tulpehocken Twp.,
Berks Co., PA

Bryan, my fellow worker, my friend

I'd never spoken to him, but was told I really should. People said he knew his business and his attitude was good. Hiring him would be an asset, he could do the work of two... So, I set about to find him - he was someone to pursue.

The first few times we chatted, Bryan said he didn't know... If a Case store down near Lititz was the place for him to go. He thought maybe he should plug into an IH store instead. He was always rather loyal to his favorite color, red.

Very thorough in the process, Bryan finally made his choice. He decided he would join us - which made all of us rejoice. It is hard for me to fathom - that was 15 years ago. But they say when things are pleasant - time is really quick to flow.

Taking phone calls by the hundreds - filling orders by the score. Coming home each night with items neighbors ordered from our store. Searching far and wide for products which were really hard to find. He persisted 'til he found them - he was not the quitting kind.

While to some it may have looked like Bryan only sold Case parts, it is clear to us who knew him, he was touching people's hearts. All the things that Bryan cared for - what he did and what he said, told us dollars weren't his motive - it was meeting needs instead.

All the product lines he serviced - every customer he knew, somehow found their way to Bryan - though he had too much to do. With his head full of part numbers, and his desk piled high with quotes, you could often see him sifting through his pocket full of notes.

Many times we heard the comments and the observations shared of the efforts that he went to, and how much he really cared. I remember Bryan coming to my office now and then, to share concern, insight, or blessing - then go on his way again.

Then came Tuesday morning's breakfast, when we all went out to eat, nearly 50 all together - times like that are hard to beat. We discussed the many changes that are facing us today, some by choice and some by force, but all impact us in some way.

We agreed that our responses should reflect the strength we know, and when changes come to challenge, we must let our courage show. Tuesday evening brought a change that none of us or Bryan chose. In his quiet way and manner, he found ultimate repose.

When I think of Bryan's spirit and the life he chose to lead, I'm reminded of old Enoch, in the scriptures we can read. Enoch walked with God. God took him in the twinkling of an eye, no long sickness, no deep sorrow - just a home beyond the sky.

We remain to do God's service, we'll not sorrow without hope, for the Holy Spirit's comfort helps us see with broader scope. We will carry on together, we will work and do our best 'til each one receives his summons and finds perfect peace and rest.

No eye has seen, nor ear heard, nor the heart of man conceived, what God has prepared for those who love Him.

1 Corinthians 2:9

Radial Hydraulic Pump Rebuilding Service, Tested & Ready to Install

NEW GEHL 8435 TMR "Total Mix" Mixer Feeder

In Stock Ready For Immediate Delivery.

If your feeding program demands a heavy-duty mixer feeder with the ability to handle more high-quality, dry long stemmed hay (up to 30% by weight) Gehl has four models:

Model	Mixing Capacity	Model	Mixing Capacity
8335	306 cu. ft.	8500	410 cu. ft.

These units feature the unique "Hay Slicer Auger" with a pair of semi-circular dual knife assemblies on each bottom auger. The knives slice through long-stemmed hay for a quicker mix with less chance of wrapping.

Gehl Finance Offers: Cash Discounts up to $2,400 or Low Rate Financing As Low As 0% for 36 Months or Waiver Till July 1, 2002

AMERICA'S MOST POPULAR BALERS

John Deere Round Balers are a farmer's first choice because they deliver tight, high-quality bales that stand up tall and stay firm longer than others. Now, with eight models available, you can match your baling needs even more precisely. All eight retain the features that have made John Deere balers America's most popular line. See us for details, today!

RIDGE HILL FARM

Leonard Greek Family Delta, PA

"We have been feeding with Service Feed and Supply, Cardiff, MD and Consolidated Nutrition for over 22 years, and have been well satisfied with the service we receive and the performance we have experienced." On our June test day we achieved a 91.7 pound tank average at 235 days in milk, 3.7% butterfat and 3.0% protein! Cows Babar and Bert have achieved 35,464 and 32,251 pound lactations respectively. A third cow Laura, has been between 130 and 160 pounds of milk for the first 6 monthly test days of her current lactation."

July test day update!

Shown in picture are Leonard & Bonnie Jo Greek with daughters, Stormi (17), Stevie (10), Frankie (9), and son, Michael (16).

"Feeding a balanced ration with top quality forages, managing cow comfort, using top genetics, and responding to the cows are the keys to our success. We depend on our suppliers to provide us with expert assistance, timely information, and prompt service. We are well pleased with the job Service Feed and Supply and Consolidated Nutrition are doing for us."

Wisconsin Girl Selected Select Sire Intern

PLAIN CITY, Ohio — Kylene Cook, Fort Atkinson, Wis., has been selected as the corporate communications summer intern for Select Sires, Plain City, Ohio. In this role she will develop the 2002 breeding calendar for customers, assist with media-relations activities and work on other communications projects. From June through August she will be based in the Select federation's headquarters office in Plain City.

Cook recently completed her junior year at the University of Wisconsin, Madison, Wis., while pursuing a bachelor's degree in dairy science and agriculture journalism. She is treasurer of the Association of Women in Agriculture (AWA) and the American Dairy Science Association (ADSA) representative for the Badger Dairy Club. Cook is also a member of the university's dairy judging team and Collegiate FFA.

Cook is the daughter of Alan and Rhonda Cook of Fort Atkinson, Wis., who own and operate Rocky Lane Farms with a herd of 50 registered Holstein cows. In May she was named a national distinguished junior member semifinalist of Holstein Association USA, Brattleboro, Vt. In addition, she actively has shown Holstein cattle at the local, state and national levels.

Deere Partners With 2 Firms To Form Transaxle Corp. In S.C.

MOLINE, Ill. — Officials with Deere & Company, Yanmar Diesel Engine Co., and Kanzaki Kokyukoki Manufacturing Co. recently announced the formation of Transaxle Manufacturing of America Corporation, a joint venture that will manufacture transaxles for tractors and utility vehicles.

The newly formed company has selected a 40-acre site at the Waterford Business Industrial Park in Rock Hill, S.C. as the location of its new headquarters and manufacturing plant. Groundbreaking for the $35 million facility is planned for September 2001, with production scheduled to begin in early 2003. The plant will employ about 150 people when it reaches full production. M.B. Kahn Construction Company is the general contractor.

A transaxle is a unit that consists of a combination transmission and axles used in small tractors and utility vehicles. The new plant will manufacture transaxles initially for John Deere Gator utility vehicles and compact utility tractors.

"This joint venture between John Deere, Yanmar and Kanzaki will provide tremendous benefits," said Steve Johnson, who was named president of the new company. "By partnering with a long-term major supplier like Yanmar/Kanzaki, John Deere is able to strengthen and move its 30-year relationship to a new level to handle the challenges of today's business environment."

"It also provides production capability for growth for our current product lines as well as for additional new products being developed. It will be a key component to our order fulfillment process, which means faster delivery times to our dealers and ultimately to our customers," Johnson said.

Yanmar/Kanzaki currently supplies transaxles to John Deere from its overseas plants.

"We are delighted that these three international companies have combined their talents to form a quality product," said Governor Jim Hodges. "With the reputation for excellence like John Deere, Yanmar and Kan-

Case IH Offers New Technology For Planting

RACINE, Wis. — Large acreage farmers have an innovative new option to boost their planting productivity. Case IH introduces two new 1200 Series Advanced Seed Meter (ASM) planter configurations the 12- and 16-row pivot transport toolbars.

"The exclusive technology in the Case IH planting system is based on the plant growth cycle," says Alan Forbes, Case IH product marketing manager for planting systems.

"These toolbars in addition to our six- and eight-row trailing and stackerbar configurations — answer the needs of farmers to maximize acres per day during the critical spring window without compromising on yield potential."

Planting Window Flexibility
Multiple research studies, including reports from the University of Illinois, University of Wisconsin and Pioneer Hi-Bred International, have shown yield penalties ranging from three to 17 percent for crops planted after the spring planting window.

To increase planting productivity, farmers can either operate larger equipment or they can increase their ground speeds.

"Case IH 1200 Series planters can help on both fronts," notes Forbes. "Our new 12- and 16-row toolbars provide the productivity that farmers need to cover more acres in shorter planting windows. Plus, the ASM metering system is less susceptible to the rpm and ground speed limitations that can cause seed-to-seed spacing issues with traditional planter designs."

Freedom In Seed Selection
Meter design can play a critical role in seed size plantability, especially in regard to corn. Traditional planters tend to either favor one size seed or require multiple disc changes between the sizes.

With the ability to cover more ground at faster operating speeds, the new 12- and 16-row Case IH 1200 Series pivot transport planters provide increased flexibility in the critical spring planting window.

"The 1200 Series planter has no favorites," says Forbes. "Our planter will consistently and accurately place any size seed corn — even mixed grades. That means farmers are free to choose the varieties they want based on genetic potential, seed quality or price — without sacrificing agronomic performance."

Purdue University reports that uneven emergence can reduce grain yields by 10 to 20 percent. Similarly, plant spacing variability can cut yields between two and eight percent.

"Our engineers cooperated with our field agronomy team to design a planter to address the agronomic issues inherent with planting — depth control, seed-to-soil contact, and seed-to-seed spacing," adds Forbes.

Answering Agronomic Needs
The planters use time-proven Case IH Early Riser® row units, which operate well throughout the tillage spectrum from conventional to no-till. The depth gauge wheel system is designed to follow the ground, even in rough terrain. That means consistent and accurate depth control throughout the field.

"In addition, the narrow disc angle of our offset double disk openers creates minimal soil disturbance with less sidewall smearing and compaction," adds Forbes. "The offset openers better distribute the force of the disk allowing them to slice the soil versus punching through it."

Options For The Future
For operators experimenting with precision management techniques, 1200 Series planters offer on-the-go variable-rate capabilities. Using the Case IH AFS Universal Display, the operator can instantaneously change seed population or the fertilizer application rates. For the spring 2003 planting season, customers will be able to upgrade their systems to include prescription application capabilities.

In addition, a central fill option with retrofit packages also will be offered for the 2003 season of use.

"Farmers have reinforced for us the productivity benefits of the Case IH central fill found on our Cyclo design," says Forbes. "We are committed to maintaining our advantage."

Monsanto To Include Pending Corn Rootworm Product

ST. LOUIS, Mo. — As agronomists continue to research seed with built-in protection against corn rootworm, Monsanto (NYSE: MON) announced that, upon completion of regulatory reviews, its new product will carry a familiar name, becoming part of a new family of YieldGard insect-protected corn.

"We have decided to build on the strength and ownership of the Monsanto YieldGard brand zaki, we know their partnership with South Carolina will be strong for many years to come."

Deere & Company (www.JohnDeere.com) creates smart and innovative solutions worldwide, in the form of advanced machines, services and concepts, for customers on the farmsite, worksite and homesite.

Yanmar is a leading global brand for diesel engines and manufactures a full range of agricultural, marine and construction equipment, with production facilities and sales offices in the Americas, Europe and Asia. Kanzaki manufactures high quality transmissions, ranging from 2 hp. to more than 3,500 hp. for agricultural, commercial, marine and construction equipment. The company also manufactures hydraulic components as well as machine tools. Kanzaki is a wholly owned subsidiary of Yanmar.

by creating a family of YieldGard corn products with protection against one or more insect pests," says Monsanto Market Manager Jennifer Ozimkiewicz.

"Growers told us that they liked the YieldGard family approach for biotech solutions offering insect protection."

The YieldGard brand was initially developed to represent insect control in corn that protects yield. The first YieldGard product brought full-season protection from European and Southwestern corn borer.

It now becomes YieldGard Corn Borer, and growers will soon see a new logo on the corn borer product that is fully approved in all major markets.

Other products will soon be launched as part of the YieldGard family. Upon regulatory approval in the United States and Japan, Monsanto plans to market its corn rootworm technology as YieldGard Rootworm. A stacked-trait product with corn borer and rootworm protection would be marketed as YieldGard plus.

Land Pride Introduces 8' Primary Seeder

SALINA, Kan. — By utilizing smaller bushel boxes added to the main box, it is possible to seed three different types of seed at different rates with Land Pride's eight-foot Primary Seeder. This all new seeder offers you two main seedbox choices with an eight bushel capacity.

The grass or grain seedbox, PS2096, can be equipped with standard fluted seed cups and agitation to seed most turf type grasses, as well as a variety of other seeds from peas to alfalfa. A native grass main seedbox, PSN2096, is also available and is equipped with a picker wheel feed design, aggressive enough to feed fluffy, native grass blends. This box comes standard with an aggressive agitator to keep seed moving toward the meter.

An optional small seeds box uses a smaller version of the fluted seed cup for seeds such as alfalfa, clover and many other types of small seeds. A 4.8 bushel box, with similar seed cups and agitation used on the main regular seedbox, can be added to the native grass box.

Land Pride Seeders feature all welded seedbox construction, water tight lids and wind guarded seed drop. The rear packer wheels are spring loaded for additional down pressure, and a set of two spring tine track removers scratch out tire tracks.

Affordable Land Problem For Beginning Farmers

RICHMOND, Va. — "It's hard to get started, and we are having trouble finding affordable land." This was the message that Wes Kent, a beginning dairy farmer from Augusta County, Va., delivered to the National Farm Transition Network (NFTN) at its 2001 annual meeting.

Representatives from 14 states, two Canadian provinces and several Japanese prefectures met in Richmond, Va. to discuss the barriers faced by young farmers in their efforts to enter farming as a vocation.

Hosted by the Virginia Department of Agriculture and Consumer Services, the NFTN's 2001 meeting focused on ways to increase awareness about the decline in the number of young people entering farming and the pending transition of farm businesses from the current generation of farmers to the next.

The 1997 Census of Agriculture data highlights the magnitude of the problem.

According to that data, there are two times as many farmers over the age of 65 as there are under the age of 35. Recent studies in Iowa and Canada indicate that many of the older farmers have not identified successors to take over the farm business.

Members of the National Farm Transition Network represent organizations working with beginning farmers, farm business succession planning, and farm link programs. This year's annual meeting was a watershed event in the history of the NFTN's because members decided to move, organizationally, from a loose association of U.S. programs to a more formally structured national organization.

After taking the steps to incorporate, members of the NFTN began to discuss and implement strategies to raise the visibility of the serious issues surrounding the coming transition of America's farm businesses to a new generation of farmers.

Marion Bowlan, executive director of Pennsylvania Farm Link and a third generation farmer, was elected to serve as president of the newly formed organization. She founded Pennsylvania's program in 1994 and works with farmers on transferring their farms to the next generation. Pennsylvania Farm Link has hosted new and beginning farmer workshops for the last seven years.

Attendees discussed strategies that work in achieving successful farm transitions as well as those that do not work. They shared recently developed educational materials and information on new strategies they had implemented in their respective programs.

Charlie Ingram, NASDA legislative and regulatory affairs manager, who first met with officials of the NFTN in November 2000, was on the program to brief the attendees on NASDA's 2002 Farm Policy Initiative and to discuss the process for establishing a closer relationship between NASDA and the NFTN. NFTN officials agreed to advise NASDA on issues related to beginning farmers and farm transition programs and to provide comment on the 2002 Farm Policy Initiative.

The meeting concluded with a panel discussion by four Virginia farmers — two retiring and two entering farmers — who shared with the attendees the steps that they have taken to transfer their farm businesses and the difficulties they have encountered.

Century Farm Applications Available At Extension Office

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Lancaster County Cooperative Extension Director Leon Ressler has announced that applications for Lancaster County Century Farm nominations are being accepted by the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture.

"To qualify as a Century Farm, the farm must have been owned by the same family for 100 consecutive years," said Ressler. "A family member must currently live on the farm," he added, "and the farm must consist of at least 10 acres of the original holding, or gross over $1,000 annually from the sale of farm products."

Lancaster County currently has 138 registered Century Farms.

Century Farm information, applications and assistance in filling out the application may be obtained from the Lancaster County Cooperative Extension, 1383 Arcadia Road, Room 1, Lancaster, PA 17601 or by calling (717) 394-6851.

Ressler said that Century Farm nominees whose applications are processed prior to Oct. 1 will be honored at the Lancaster County Farm-City Ag-Chamber Banquet on Nov. 5.

Farmers Union Commends Senate On Emergency Assistance Package

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The National Farmers Union (NFU) applauded the Senate Agriculture Committee on its approval of $7.4 billion in emergency assistance for U.S. agriculture producers.

The bill provides supplemental income assistance to feed grains, wheat, rice and cotton producers as well as specialty crop producers.

The Senate measure provides the needed assistance at the same levels as last year and is $2 billion more than what is provided in a House version of the measure. NFU urges expeditious passage by the full Senate and resolution in the House/Senate conference committee that adopts the much needed funding at the Senate level.

"We commend Chairman Tom

Harkin for his leadership in crafting this assistance package," said Leland Swenson, president of NFU.

The Senate Agriculture Committee approved the Emergency Agriculture Assistance Act of 2001 that provides $7.4 billion in emergency assistance to a broad range of agriculture producers and funds conservation programs.

Chicken Council Says EPA Exceeds Legal Authority

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The Environmental Protection Agency has gone far beyond its legal authority in trying to regulate chicken farms, according to the National Chicken Council.

"Many of the proposed changes (to existing regulations) are unwarranted, unaffordable, unachievable and in excess of statutory authority granted by law," NCC said in comments filed with EPA on its proposed rules on "confined animal feeding operations," or CAFO's.

NCC took issue in particular with EPA's proposal for "co-permitting" of chicken farms, in which both the farm and the integrated chicken company for which the farm raises chickens would be named on an environmental permit. "Co-permitting" would make the company liable for the environmental performance of farms it doesn't own.

"NCC adamantly opposes this enormous and unwarranted expansion in the scope of the EPA's authority," the NCC comments said. "Requiring entities that neither own nor control the CAFO facility to hold permits...is inconsistent with the Clean Water Act, contrary to prior agency practice and relevant judicial decisions, and poor public policy."

If companies are going to be held liable for the performance of any farms on which its chickens are grown, then the companies might be forced to move production away from private farms onto company farms, the comments noted. About 10 percent of chickens are raised today on company farms, with the rest being under contract on privately owned farms.

"Instead of pursuing those changes, EPA should work to reduce any potential adverse impacts from animal feeding operations ('AFOs') by eliminating some of the confusion arising from the Agency's past conflicting interpretations of its own regulations and by partnering with the Department of Agriculture's Natural Resources Conservation Service to provide extensive technical and financial assistance to livestock, dairy and poultry producers," NCC said in its comments.

NCC also argued that EPA does not have legal authority to regulate the common practice of using poultry litter as fertilizer. Congress specifically recognized that the land application of manure or litter doesn't make a piece of farmland a CAFO, NCC noted. The proposed rule would favor chemical fertilizer over poultry litter by burdening the use of litter with record keeping and other regulatory requirements, NCC noted.

The National Chicken Council represents integrated chicken producer-processors, the companies that produce, process and market chickens. Member companies of NCC account for almost 95 percent of the chicken sold in the U.S.

Livestock Need Special Handling In Summer

BOWLING GREEN, Ky. — As summer temperatures soar, the National Institute for Animal Agriculture (NIAA) is urging caution to those who handle or transport livestock.

"This is the critical time of the year for transporting livestock," says NIAA Chief Executive Officer Glenn Slack. "Common-sense procedures should be followed in reducing the risk factors relating to moving animals in extreme temperatures."

Each year, hogs numbering in the tens of thousands will leave the farm, but never reach market, says Dr. Temple Grandin, an internationally renowned animal handling expert at Colorado State University. Livestock death losses often double on hot, humid days, she says.

Cattle and sheep losses are not as great, but heat and humidity can increase shrinkage (weight loss) and stress, reducing an animal's ability to fight disease and even affecting reproductive performance.

That translates into dollar losses for livestock producers. But it doesn't have to, explains Grandin, who chairs NIAA's Animal Care Committee. She says some common-sense precautions can help livestock producers avoid the deadly consequences of heat and humidity affecting livestock.

- During hot weather, livestock should be hauled at night or early morning.
- Instead of straw, use wet shavings for bedding.
- Remove grain slats from farm trucks and open nose vents to provide more ventilation.
- Load and unload promptly. Heat will build up rapidly inside a stationary vehicle.

- Transport 10-to-20 percent fewer animals than normal during hot weather.

- For hogs in particular, sprinkle the animals with water before loading.

But, cautions Grandin, don't pour cold water on an overheated hog. "That's one thing you have to be careful about," Grandin says. "If you throw cold water on an overheated hog, it can shock their system."

Grandin emphasizes that all these precautions are particularly important for hogs because they don't have functioning sweat glands. "Pigs don't sweat," she explains. "It's sort of like wearing a diver's wet suit all the time. You can imagine what that would be like."

The Livestock Weather Safety Index, available through NIAA, helps livestock producers and transporters understand the dangers of heat. Heat and humidity levels are broken down into three categories: alert, danger, and emergency. When the index reaches the emergency zone, producers should postpone hog shipments until the weather moderates.

Additional resources are available from NIAA on the Internet at www.animalagriculture.org, including a Livestock Handling Guide and Livestock Trucking Guide. NIAA also offers instructional video training kits on the proper handling and transportation procedures for swine and beef and dairy cattle. For more information about these educational resources, call NIAA at (270) 782-9798 or visit their Website.

Gelbvieh Juniors Compete In Leadership Contests

RAPID CITY, S.D. — With 150-plus American Gelbvieh Junior Association (AGJA) members competing, the 2001 AGJA Black Hills Gold Classic can officially be called a success. Junior members from 19 states competed in contests and cattle events throughout the week in Rapid City, S.D.

In the Impromptu Speaking Contest, contestants had to select one of three topics available in their division and then prepare a speech in 30 minutes. In the junior division it was a Kansas sweep of the top two places. Kayla Jarvis of Phillipsburg grabbed the champion spot, with Kaycie Shearer of Canton in reserve. Placing third was Dantae Anderson, South Dakota.

In the Intermediate Division of Impromptu Speaking, Brandon McEndaffer of New Raymer, Colo., topped all entries. Brittany Schlake of Cortland, Neb., was reserve. The Senior Division saw tough competition with Klint Sicker of Gladstone, N.D., winning the belt buckle. Cory Dieball of Manhattan, Kan., was reserve.

Powles Gelbvieh Ranch of Bingham, Neb., sponsored the awards for the Poster Contest. The poster must promote the Gelbvieh message in a neat, effective manner. In the junior division, Kelsie Winslow of Pierce, Colo., a first-time Classic participant, earned top honors. Gatlin Schlake of Cortland, Neb., was reserve.

In the Intermediate Division, Sydney Wilkinson of Model, Colo., had the winning poster. Dustin Volek of Highmore, S.D., was reserve.

Kevin Lorange of Orlando, Okla., topped the Senior Poster contest. Allison Verner of Georgia earned reserve honors.

Senior Team: Champion — Cory Dieball, Manhattan, Kan.; Nick Judd, Pomona, Kan.; Tyler McClelland, Fredonia, Kan.; and Ronnie Nix, Mulhall, Okla.

ALL-AROUND RESULTS

Throughout the week, each individual was earning points for participation and placings in all of the contests to determine the All-Around winners. Only five points separated the top four individuals in the All-Around competition.

Kaisha Jurgens of Miller, Neb., had the honor of winning the High Point All-Around award and Rookie of the Year award. She earned two belt buckles and a heifer from the AGJA Heifer Chain for her efforts. Nate Munger of South Dakota, the 1998 all-around champion, donated Kaisha's heifer.

Earning reserve all-around champion was Kaisha's cousin, Justin Taubenheim of Amherst, Neb. Justin also won a heifer from the AGJA Heifer Chain program. Jacob Murphy of Nebraska, the 1999 Rookie of the Year, donated the heifer won by Justin.

SPECIAL AWARDS

The group from Georgia won the Herdman award for the 2001 AGJA Black Hills Gold Classic. The host-state of South Dakota won the State Challenge Cup for accumulating the most points for participation throughout the week. Nebraska was second in the State Challenge Cup competition.

New ambassadors were selected to represent the American Gelbvieh Junior Association throughout 2001-2002. Cory Dieball of Manhattan, Kan., is the senior ambassador, and Sydney Wilkinson of Model, Colo., is the junior ambassador.

The Leness Hall Memorial Scholarship was presented to Kelly Leonhardt of Lake Preston, S.D., while the Earl Buss Memorial Scholarship went to Melissa DeGeer of Erie, Kan. The two AGJA scholarships were presented to Josh Phillips of Lathrop, Mo., and Samantha Cunningham of Bridgeport, Neb.

The 2002 AGJA Dixie Classic is set for Perry, Ga., July 7-12, 2002. The Kansas Gelbvieh Association won the bid to host the 2003 AGJA National Classic. For more information on AGJA programs, contact the AGA office at (303) 465-2333 or visit the AGA Website at www.gelbvieh.org.

World Dairy Expo Announces Biosecurity Plan

MADISON, Wis. — World Dairy Expo unveiled a new biosecurity plan at a recent briefing attended by more than 100 members of the dairy industry. World Dairy Expo is scheduled for Oct. 3-7 at the Alliant Energy Center in Madison, Wis. The new biosecurity plan was developed because of concerns related to the foot and mouth disease (FMD) outbreak in Europe. World Dairy Expo Board of Directors approved the plan at a meeting on Monday, June 18.

Tom McKittrick, World Dairy Expo's general manager, stressed that the increased biosecurity measures will be in effect starting in 2001 and continuing into the future. He said, "These measures are the start of new procedures on grounds not only to protect the cattle in attendance, but also the people in attendance because World Dairy Expo is committed to providing all reasonable methods of biosecurity. While the attention created by the FMD outbreak has created an awareness that is good, these measures will increase preventative effectiveness against all disease transmission."

The more than 2,000 head of cattle that participate in World Dairy Expo only come from North America, which continues to be free of FMD. "If international visitors are screened appropriately at ports of entry, there is virtually no risk of the disease accidentally entering the country," said McKittrick.

The primary method of FMD transmittal is from animal product to animal or animal to animal. Outside of clinical case, there are no documented cases of a human transmitting the disease to an animal. If a human were going to transmit the disease, the most likely method would be with the virus encased in manure on their shoes. Therefore, clean shoes and clothing is an extremely effective method of prevention. Some features of the plan include screening of international visitors from countries with FMD, an information campaign, facility disinfecting, footwear disinfecting stations and requiring a signed affidavit from cattle exhibitors saying they have not been in a FMD infected country in the last five days. The complete World Dairy Expo biosecurity plan is available online at www.worlddairyexpo.com. The Website also offers video clips of the presenter's at the briefing.

World Dairy Expo is an international trade and cattle show for dairy producers. Hours for World Dairy Expo are 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Wednesday through Saturday and 9:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Sunday. Daily admission is $5 per person and season passes are $15 for the five-day event. Parking is free. Contact World Dairy Expo for more information at (608) 224-6455.

USDA Announces Quality Loss Aid Package For Farmers

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The USDA recently announced that farmers can sign up for the Quality Loss Program beginning Aug. 13.

Sign up also begins for a separate Quality Loss Program that will provide up to $38 million for apple and potato growers. Both programs compensate farmers who suffered at least a 20 percent loss in the quality of their crop.

The new programs help farmers who lost income because of weather-related disasters that caused loss of crop quality. Some specialty crops are not eligible, such as ornamental nursery, Christmas trees, aquaculture, honey, turfgrass sod, maple sap, and ginseng.

To qualify for a QLP payment, farmers must provide USDA proof of quality for their harvested crop. Examples of acceptable documentation include grading receipts, sales receipts, or university lab tests showing quality losses. The QLP was authorized for 2000-crop-year crops by the Agriculture, Rural Development, Food and Drug Administration, and Related Agencies Appropriations Act, 2001, (P.L. 106-387).

The QLP payment is calculated by multiplying 65 percent of the affected production by 65 percent of the loss in value due to quality. For example, a farmer sells 1,000 bushels of a crop whose value was reduced by $1.00 per bushel due to poor quality. The payment to this farmer is calculated as follows:

$1.00 X 65 percent = $.65

650 X $.65 = $422.50 (payment to farmer)

Apple and potato farmers can file for a quality loss payment for both the 1999 and 2000 crops.

Payments are calculated by multiplying 65 percent of the affected production by 100 percent of the loss in value due to quality. This program also provides payments for losses due to unharvested production.

Under the 2000 Crop Disaster Program, payments USDA has already issued to farmers included, in some cases, loss adjustments because of quality problems. If a farmer already earned a benefit payment under the CDP because of such adjustments, the calculated payment under the new programs will be reduced by the portion of the CDP payment already attributed to quality losses.

Combined total payments issued for QLP and CDP are limited to $80,000 per "person" (as defined by USDA regulations). Also, "persons" whose gross revenue exceeded $2.5 million for the 1999 tax year are ineligible for QLP. Neither of these limitations applies to payments to apple and potato growers.

QLP payments to farmers should begin soon after they sign up. Quality loss payments for apple and potato growers cannot be issued until sign up ends because of the fixed level of funding for these crops. If the total value of all approved apple and potato applications exceeds the funding level, payments may be prorated. The ending date for sign up has not been set.

For more information on these and other USDA programs, contact your local USDA Service Center for Farm Service Agency office.

Cornell Entomologists Detect Soybean Aphids In New York

ITHACA, N.Y. — Potentially damaging soybean aphids have been detected in several central and western counties of New York state, according to Cornell University entomologists. The insect has infested several other agricultural states since last summer, particularly Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota and Illinois.

Soybean fields in New York state have been surveyed at random by Cornell entomologists since June 28. They found low numbers of the soybean aphids (Aphis glycines Matsumura) in Cayuga, Erie, Genesee, Monroe, Niagara, Ontario, Orleans, Seneca, Wayne, Onondaga, Oswego, Jefferson, Tompkins and Yates counties.

durum and hard red spring wheat exports to the U.S. have increased eight-fold.

"Family farmers and ranchers have not benefited from expanded trade agreements," Carlson said. Extending the TAA program to farmers, ranchers and fishermen provides a cost-effective, fair and targeted method of compensating affected producers."

At risk is the expanding New York soybean industry. Once minuscule, soybean acreage in New York has grown to about 140,000 acres this year from an estimated 40,000 acres in 1990, according to statistics from the New York State Department of Agriculture and Markets.

As part of the their participation in the aphid survey, the Cornell scientists have hired undergraduate students Lee E. Macomber, a senior from Hatfield, and Brett N. Scott, a senior from Atlanta, to conduct a field-by-field search for the aphids. So far, Macomber and Scott generally have had very few aphids per leaf. E. Richard Hoebeke, assistant curator of Cornell's Entomology Collection, has made positive identification of the aphids. Entomologists first reported finding the aphids in North America last July, when they were discovered in Wisconsin soybean fields. Subsequently, the aphids were found in Indiana, Iowa, Kentucky, Missouri, Ohio, West Virginia, Illinois, Michigan, Pennsylvania, Minnesota, Florida and, most recently, in Ontario, Canada.

Farmers Union Urges Trade Adjustment Assistance For Farmers

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Before a hearing of the Senate Finance Subcommittee For International Trade, Robert Carlson, president of the North Dakota Farmers Union, spoke in support of legislation being considered by Congress that would allow farmers and ranchers to benefit from Trade Adjustment Assistance (TAA). This legislation would provide relief to farmers who experience economic losses, either due to trade agreements that fail to provide for fair competition, or as a result of import surges.

"Just as workers in the manufacturing sector have been hurt by unfavorable trade agreements, family farmers and ranchers suffer when agricultural trade agreements do not work," Carlson said. "Trade has been offered as the salvation of those involved in agriculture, but often, farmers and ranchers are the ones who end up suffering the most when trade agreements fail. This is why farmers need access to the Trade Adjustment Assistance program."

Since its passage in 1974, the TAA program has provided aid to U.S. manufacturing workers who lose their jobs or whose wages have suffered as a result of increased imports. Sens. Kent Conrad, D-N.D., Max Baucus, D-Mont., and Charles Grassley, R-Iowa, have offered legislation that establishes a Trade Adjustment Assistance for Farmers program within the U.S. Department of Agriculture to provide important and necessary relief for U.S. farmers, ranchers and fishermen who have been adversely affected by import competition resulting from trade agreements and trade liberalization.

Carlson provided several examples that demonstrate the need for TAA legislation for the agriculture industry. He cited the harm to apple growers in the northern tier of states due to imports from China that are being sold at world "dump-market" prices in the U.S. Also, since the ratification of NAFTA, Canadian

WARNING, ALL SILO OWNERS

Check your silo now for rotten staves. If you have been using your silo for 10 to 15 years for either corn silage or haylage, it is time to SHOTCRETE

RESURFACES INTERIORS:

- Coats the silo's interior
- Protects feed in storage
- Durable, tough, acid-resistant
- Increase useful life
- Economical

Before The silo's interior with plaster damage and stave exposed

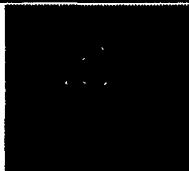

After The surface is reconditioned, and a new, thick, tough surface will protect stored feed

REPAIRS HOLES:

- Repairs even large holes
- Up to twice the strength of the original stave
- Rapid application
- Durable surface

Before A hole is worn completely through the silo wall

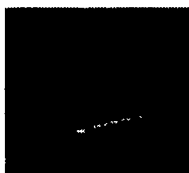

After With the hole repaired by ShotCrete and a new surface applied, the silo is ready for years of use

EXTENDS USEFUL LIFE:

- Support for old foundations
- Special repairs can be made... quickly and economically
- Little or no forming needed
- Stronger than the original

Before The bottom part of the staves are completely worn away

After The ShotCrete System repairs and replaces the missing structure

Feel More Secure

Lancaster's new concept in Silo Ladders helps you feel more secure when climbing yourself or watching from the ground.

Details count when you're high off the ground. Now Lancaster, the most trusted name in silo equipment, presents the most advanced Silo Ladder System available today.

We've built in extra knee room for easier climbing. Our ladder rungs are smooth to the hand, yet give shoes a sure grip. And our platforms feel more solid under your feet than any you've ever had before.

UNMATCHED DURABILITY

No other silo ladder system is built like a Lancaster. All components are solid steel. No light gauge metal here. Our hot dip galvanizing gives you rust protection typically rated for more than 45 years. And it's all connected with heavy duty, double coated Grade 5 bolts.

A BETTER PLATFORM

You'll like the sturdier, roomier platform. It latches and unlatches with just a flick of your foot so you can keep a better hand grip. Tested to exceed ASAE load requirements. That means added stability as you work.

FITS ANY SILO

The new Lancaster Silo Ladder System fits new or used silos, stave or poured. Or you can get just the cage to fit your existing ladders.

Feel safer yourself, and more confident in the safety of your workers.

For the Lancaster dealer nearest you, call today

Metal Roofs Aren't Created Equal

EVERLAST II IS BETTER:

- it is galvanized heavier, like old times.
- it is heat formed, less paint cracks.
- is cut while hot, prevents early edge rust.
- won't scratch as easy, paint is harder.
- won't bend or buckle as easy, stronger design.
- laps are tighter, and virtually invisible.
- nail/screws seal better, ribs fit tighter to head.
- zinc phosphate, not chromate under paint.
- still priced about the same or less.

EVERLAST II

DOUBLE DIPPED GALVANIZED
is proven best for animals.

STANDING SEAM

OR DELIVERED FROM

ALFALFA SEED $1.40/Lb. from the Dakota's Trask Family Seeds

- Features grower-to-grower direct seed sales
- SDSU tested
- Offered to growers for $1.40/per lb. in 60 lb. bags plus freight
- Varieties: S D Common, Vernal and others
- These Alfalfa varieties are proven to compete with the expensive varieties in all conditions and always carry our money back guarantee

PA farmers have great hay crops with South Dakota alfalfa seed. Emery Zimmerman, Mifflin, PA says, "The South Dakota seed we planted in late April. It's good and thick, has good height, makes good haylage and excellent dry hay. Protein test 21.6 and RFV 132."

Join the numerous farmers in the PA/NY area harvesting wonderful alfalfa from South Dakota seed.

NEW LISTING -SNYDER CO. Located in the peaceful valley between Troxelville & Penns Creek I have a nice Dairy farm that won't be for sale long. The dairy facilities are 48 comfort stalls on 2" SS pipeline with 6 Bou-Matic milkers and a 1015 gal bulk milk tank. You'll never have to fix a gutter cleaner because there isn't one. It is all gravity flow to the 64' round slurry. There are four silos and a TMR mixer system with roller mill and all conveyed to the TMR. There is an enclosed machine shed, plus box stalls and loose housing for young stock. Now for the family sized farm house. There is a large eat-in kitchen with Modern Cherry Cabinets, and a nice deck overlooking the pond and level fields. What's best is the price. Call for all the details or go to my WEB site and see the pictures.

SCHUYLKILL CO. Veal & Poultry operation Nice residence to boot. The income from this 1 person operation is adequate for mortgage payments and a quality lifestyle. This total operation is on contract and a quick possession can be had. You'll simply be amazed at the opportunity that can be yours.

Check with me I have more listing coming in so I may have exactly what you're looking for. My needs list keeps getting larger.
